100 Electoral Votes Sure, Dixiecrat Leader Says

Seay Predicts Result Of Campaign as He Opens Headquarters Of Thurmond, Wright

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

A spokesman for the Dixiecrats predicted here yesterday that the Thurmond-Wright ticket would get at least 100 electoral votes in November.

W. Austin Seay, assistant national campaign director of the States' Rights Democratic Party, made the prediction as he opened a Washington office in the Mayflower Hotel.

It was also announced that the Dixiecrats will hold "States' Rights" dinners on September 11, in Southern communities, to raise funds for their party.

The dinners will be patterned after the old-fashioned box lunches, with the boxes selling for $10 each.

The Dixiecrats said they wouldn't be present when the Democrats hold their traditional Jackson Day dinners.

"If Dewey sweeps the country," party because we expect to get party because we expected to get at least 100 electoral votes. If Dewey and Truman split the electoral vote and the election goes to the House, we will have the balance of power.

"Our purpose in a House election would be to work for election of a man representing the Jefferson States' rights concept of democracy."

Suppose, he was asked, the election actually did land in the House of Representatives, and it was up to the Southerners to choose between President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York: How would the Southerners vote?

Our Choice Now Is Thurmond"

Seay, a publisher of Winona, Miss., refused to answer directly. He said that "our choice now is Thurmond" — Gov. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, who was nominated for President by the Dixiecrats in Birmingham, following the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia.

He predicted that Governor Thurmond and his running mate, Gov. Fielding L. Wright of Mississippi, would carry eight States in the Southland—Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, Alabama and Mississippi.

"And we hope to carry North Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee," he added.

Seay said that the Dixiecrats are out to raise one million dollars to finance their movement, which he described as a fight between "totalitarianism" and "democracy" rather than a quarrel over sectional or racial issues.

Other political developments yesterday were:

While no announcement was made at the White House, all signs indicated that President Truman would open his 1948 campaign on

White House Call Brightens Day For Babe Ruth

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—Babe Ruth's condition has shown no improvement in 24 hours, but he still can manage a smile and a joke.

And a call from the White House brightened his day today.

The critically ill homerun king made a game rally yesterday in his fight for life, but a bulletin released today by the Memorial Hospital Center for Cancer and Allied Diseases, said:

"Babe Ruth has rested well during the evening and awakened to speak with his wife before she left the hospital. His general condition has not changed since yesterday."

Today a White House secretary called and said President Truman wanted to know how the Babe was coming along.

Ruth, 53, has been sick for two years.

Parents in Court Dispute Over Operation Having Slim Chance to Save Invalid Baby

Associated Press WIREPHOTOS

Fred Lamphere The father — Pamela The baby — Irene Lamphere The mother

Chicago, Aug. 13 (AP).—If she were your little girl, would you have her undergo an operation at once, believing there was only a tiny chance she would pull through?

Or would you leave her as she is—probably to die before she is 5?

That tragic question today brought a young mother and father into Superior Court to ask a judge's decision. It already has estranged them.

The father, Fred W. Lamphere, 23, a shipping clerk, asked Judge Walter R. O'Malley for an order forcing the mother to permit the operation.

The child, Francesa Lamphere, 22 months, was born with her bladder formed outside her body. The mother's attorney said that doctors have told her that the child can live two or three years at most.

The mother, Irene, 21, pleaded quietly:

"I live for my child. I want her as long as I can have her. I'd lose her forever if she were operated on."

"I love her just as much," replied the father. "I want her to have a chance to live."

Louis Cermak, the father's lawyer, added:

"The child has no chance of survival without an operation and one chance in 100 with an operation. There are people living in Chicago who have survived such an operation."

Charles C. Cooley, the mother's lawyer, then said:

"The child is normal in other respects. And I understand it is wishful thinking to believe the chance of success in an operation would be one in 100. It is near one in 1000. Physicians at County Hospital have advised us against an operation. It would deprive the mother of her child prematurely.

"She knows the child can live in her present condition only a few years, but she prefers to have her that long, rather than to lose the baby now."

Then the judge spoke:

"I can't do anything without full medical advice. Would you both abide by the opinion of a committee made up of the deans of Chicago's four largest medical schools?"

Both parents agreed.

Judge O'Malley asked the deans of Northwestern University, the University of Chicago, Loyola University and the University of Illinois to name specialists to examine the child and report back as soon as possible.

The couple was married New Years Day, 1945. They separated last month. The mother filed a divorce suit alleging cruelty.

There was no bitterness between the mother and father but Judge O'Malley could not get them to agree to a reconciliation.

"We've been trying to agree all this time," the mother said. "I know we couldn't do it now."

Bill to Draft Professional Men Proposed for Early Next Year

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Legislation to draft any professional man needed by the armed services will be introduced in Congress early in the next session, The Washington Post learned yesterday.

An amendment to the present Selective Service Act has been approved by the Department of the Army, it was learned. This proposed amendment provides that professional and technical skills necessary to the Armed Forces would be recommended to the President as the need arose. The President then could order that a sufficient number of persons in those professions be drafted to meet the need.

While the amendment does not mention any profession or skill, it is known that its primary objective is to bring into service sufficient medical officers to administer to the forces to be built up under the draft act passed at the last session of Congress. It was felt that to limit the action to doctors would constitute an unwarranted act of discrimination.

As it is, doctors between 18 and 26 can be drafted as privates un-

Falls Church Council Meets On City Status

The new Falls Church City Council, which takes office September 1, met as a body for the first time last night but kept the result of its deliberations strictly off the record.

The six-member group went into executive session for two hours during which it endeavored to establish its policy for the coming term. The meeting was held in the Falls Church Town Hall.

Present at the session were two newly elected members and four holdovers from the present council.

15,830,899 Benefit

One of Every Six U. S. Adults Receives Government Checks

By the United Press

One of every six adult Americans now is receiving money from the Federal Government, a United Press survey discloses.

Regular payments go to some 15,830,899 citizens. The largest single group is composed of war veterans and their dependents. Others are Government employes, members of the armed forces, Federal pensioners, Social Security beneficiaries and farmers.

Federal expenditures of this fiscal year threaten to hit an all-time peacetime peak of about 42 billion dollars. That is some 6½ times as much as the Government spent in 1920, when the budget called for only $6,403,343,841. Nineteen twenty is a good year to compare with for two reasons. Prices were just about as inflated then as they are now, and 1920 was a postwar year the same as 1948 is.

Who gets this money under the current budget?

Today 2,900,000 veterans or their dependents are drawing Federal pensions. Another 542,560 veterans are getting GI unemployment insurance. Another 2,538,000 are attending school or college under the GI bill, and 545,945 get on-the-job training benefits.

The Government also hands out pay checks to 2,086,000 Federal employes and meets a cash payroll for 1,412,000 members of the armed forces. Some 125,000 retired Civil Service employes draw Federal checks.

In addition, 2,471,000 persons now draw Federal benefits under the Social Security system. Some 3,205,131 farmers also receive annual checks ranging from a few dollars to several hundred for soil conservation practices.

Why is the Federal Government such an expensive proposition now as compared with 1920?

For one thing this is a much bigger country than it was 28 years ago. Roughly 34 million more peo-

Mrs. Kosenkina Tells of Envoy's Effort to Make Deal With Her

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina told a Russian consular official from her hospital bed today: "You kept me a prisoner. You would not let me go!"

Panyushkin Visit Alleged

Late tonight the New York Times said it had learned police have a statement from Mrs. Kosenkina that Alexander S. Panyushkin, the Soviet Ambassador, had visited the Consulate here and tried to get an affidavit from her saying she was not being held a prisoner and that she had complete freedom.

In her statement, the Times said, Mrs. Kosenkina said she refused to sign the affidavit "despite the Ambassador's personal promise of future immunity from Soviet punishment. He told her 'everything would be forgotten' if she signed the affidavit."

Narrowly escaping death in her three-story jump from a Russian Consulate window, the 52-year-old Russian schoolteacher last night accomplished what a State court's writ failed to do earlier in the day.

She had removed herself from the consulate, where she had been for the past six days, and put herself in an American hospital—with 15 New York City policemen and women on guard.

Subpena Planned

In Washington tonight, Robert E. Stripling, chief investigator for the House Un-American Activities Committee, announced he would serve a subpena on her to testify before the committee.

Later, however, Mayor William O'Dwyer said Mrs. Kosenkina, in official statements to the police, had denied she was in any way connected with the congressional hearings or that she knew Elizabeth T. Bentley, former Communist and star witness at the hearings.

Stripling, who said he was acting under telephoned instructions from Committee Chairman Thomas (R., N. J.), said Mrs. Kosenkina would be called to testify "as soon as she is able."

Still on the critical list this afternoon with a fractured leg, a possible fractured pelvis, and internal and back injuries, the woman was reported "resting fairly comfortably" and cheerful "at times."

Despite the hospital's "critical" listing, however, Mrs. Kosenkina's physician, Dr. Grant P. Pennoyer, said she was "in serious but not critical condition." He said he thought she would be in the hospital about 12 weeks and complete

British Call Robertson To Conference

Diplomatic Source Terms Pessimism On Talks Unwarranted

London, Aug. 13 (AP).—Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, British military commander in Germany, was called to London today in connection with the Moscow conferences on Berlin.

Diplomatic informants said it was reasonable to assume that proposals affecting a Berlin settlement were contained in official reports received here on the meeting yesterday of the British, French and American diplomats with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

These were to be discussed with Robertson, who is the man most familiar with technical requirements of any settlement, the informants said.

Robertson was scheduled to talk with Sir William Strang, top British expert on Germany, and possibly United States Ambassador

The Iron Curtain

Gouzenko Gets Assignment To Serve Soviet in Canada

(This is the story of a former Russian cipher expert who exposed Stalin's spy ring in Canada in September, 1945. His story parallels the one now unfolding before congressional investigators.—Editor's Note).

By Igor Gouzenko
Installment VII

In the spring of 1943 the director of the Chinese section called me to his office where he plied me with questions about my personal history, education, studies and the like. Without any explanation of the reason behind the questioning, he curtly dismissed me.

On returning to my branch I immediatly hurried to Kravchenko, the cipher branch chief, and asked what he thought it was all about. Kravchenko admitted he hadn't been informed as to my contemplated moves but figured it might mean an assignment to China.

Anything would be a welcome change from life in Moscow with all its cursed drabness, suspicion and privation. I was careful, of course, not to say such things. Instead I exclaimed to Kravchenko:

"It would be wonderful to serve abroad; to put into practice all I have learned here!"

Interview With Koudriashov

Then it came. I was ordered to a Captain Koudriashov of the executive committee. He pointed to a divan and smiled in friendly fashion.

"Sit down, Gouzenko, and please relax. I believe you will find this conversation pleasant.. By the way, how would you like to serve abroad?"

"I will be pleased to serve anywhere my services are deemed capable of fitting in with Soviet ideals."

Captain Koudriashov leaned back and laughed softly.

"Just as you should answer. Now speak frankly. Would you like to go abroad?"

"'Yes, comrade captain, I believe I would."

The captain had risen from his seat and come to the divan.

"You'll do—as long as you are cautious and control your impetuosity. I have studied your background and like it. There is every indication that you should go far in the foreign service, the importance of which you might judge by the fact that Communist Party membership outside of the Soviet Union now totals more than 12 million and for every official party member we figure on from 10 to 15 supporters . . ."

"Will Mold History"

He rose to his feet, eyes alight and began pacing the floor as his modulated voice registered rising enthusiasm.

"After the war, this foreign service organization will mold history. We have already planned to be entrenched early in the government and labor unions of France and her colonies. Italy, Germany and Japan are regarded as assuredly successful campaigns, after they have been allowed to stew a short time in the dregs and privations of

Senate Unit Refused Use Of Visa Files

Secretary of State George C. Marshall yesterday turned down a Senate committee's request for visa files on the grounds that such action would "embarrass" United States foreign relations and jeopardize "confidential sources" abroad.

He took the stand in a letter to Chairman Revercomb (R., W. Va.) of a Judiciary Subcommittee looking into charges that "subversive foreign agents" are using the United Nations headquarters in New York as a gateway to enter this country.

Revercomb has said the committee may try to subpena the department's records on about 5500 persons granted visas to enter the United States on U. N. or other international organization activities.

To Go as Far as Possible

Revercomb said in a campaign speech at Huntington, W. Va., yesterday that his committee will "go as far as it can to procure this information."

(He said the committee had "no desire" to hamper American foreign relations or reveal confidential sources of information, and that such material could be withheld from the files.

(The West Virginia Republican said he did not "blame" Marshall for his stand and charged that the State Secretary was simply carrying out the "dangerous policy" of President Truman of withholding information from Congress.)

Marshall made it plain that he has no intention of making the files public.

"Much material in the files has been obtained by our diplomatic and consular establishments abroad from confidential sources which must be protected," he said.

State Dept. Blamed For Two 'Kidnapings;' Leap Not Mentioned

By Henry Shapiro

Moscow, Aug. 13 (U.P.).—The United States State Department today was charged with full responsibility for the alleged kidnaping of two Soviet school teachers in New York.

Articles in the newspapers and on the radio blamed American authorities for the "plot."

It appeared likely that official Soviet reprisals might be taken against Americans here unless the case is settled amicably.

It is likely also that the case of Teacher Mikhail Ivanovitch Samarine, who testified secretly before a congressional committee in Washington might embarrass the State Department in its long legal dispute with Russia regarding the immunity of nondiplomatic personnel here.

Every daily newspaper in Moscow published long denunciatory articles today in the cases of Samarine and Mrs. Oksana Stephanova Kosenkina.

(Apparently nothing had yet been published in Moscow about Mrs. Kosenkina's leap from a window of the Russian Consulate General in New York.)

The newspapers and the radio again denounced the New York police, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, anti-Communist Russian organizations in the United States, and the Committee on Un-American Activities.

Prominence was given to the protest Foreign Minister Viache-

Speech Charges Slander

Tito Reaffirms Solidarity Of Yugoslavia With Russia

London, Aug. 13 (AP).—Premier Marshal Tito has reaffirmed the solidarity of Yugoslavia with Russia and eastern Europe's Communist bloc, the official Yugoslav News Agency reported today.

At the same time, in a speech made Tuesday before a Communist Party meeting in Belgrade, he accused his critics in the Cominform—the Russian-led Communist International Information Bureau—of slandering him, the agency said.

The speech was believed to have been the first public comment by Tito on the Cominform's recent denunciation of him and his chief lieutenants. The Cominform said they were not hewing to the party line and were unfriendly to Russia.

Tanjug, the official Yugoslav news agency, quoted Tito as saying:

"It would be wrong to think we ever reckoned on going into socialism alone, that the Soviet Union or the countries of the peoples' democracies were no concern of ours, that we want to proceed isolated and that we are endeavoring to proceed isolated.

"I think our country made a sufficient contribution in this great past struggle to prove sufficiently its solidarity with them in the most difficult days both of the Soviet Union and the enslaved peoples.

"We never could have presumed that today they would be placing at stake that cooperation with us. We never even thought of it."

Affirming his devotion to Marx, Engels and Stalin and accusing his critics of slandering him, Tito said:

". . . This is a case that we should prove to the whole world . . . that the interests of our socialist country are not narrow and nationalistic as we have been reproached but that they are part of the interests of the workers of the whole world."

Former Official In State Dept. Suggests Perjury Test Be Made

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

A dramatic demand that either he or his accuser be put in jail for perjury was made yesterday before the House Committee on Un-American Activities by Donald Hiss, Washington attorney and former State Department official.

Hiss categorically and unequivocally denied under oath the charge by Whittaker Chambers, a senior editor of Time magazine, that he (Hiss) had once belonged to an "elite" group of Communists for whom Chambers said he acted as courier before he left the Communist Party in 1937.

Subcommittee Chairman Karl Mundt (R., S. Dak.) told reporters that the committee had investigators checking into the facts and that whether or not the committee itself resolved the head-on conflict the whole matter would be referred to District Attorney George Morris Fay.

Denials by Currie, White

The Hiss demand climaxed a day of testimony in which Lauchlin Currie and Harry Dexter White, two former high officials of the Roosevelt Administration, denied they had ever fed American war secrets to Nathan Gregory Silvermaster or anyone else.

Nathan Gregory Silvermaster has been identified in Naval Intelligence, Civil Service, FBI and police records as a longtime Communist and a probable agent of the Russian secret police.

Both Currie and White acknowledged they were friends of his and had been in the basement of his home in which Miss Elizabeth T. Bentley, confessed former Soviet spy, said secret Government documents were microfilmed during the war. White said he knew that William Ludwig Ullman, whom Miss Bentley had charged with being the photographer for a Communist espionage ring led by Silvermaster, was an excellent photographer. Previously Ullman had refused to say whether or not he was a photographer on the ground of self-incrimination.

Testify On Silvermaster

Currie, former administrative aide to President Roosevelt, and White, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, both said they knew of charges brought during the war against Silvermaster when he was working at the Board of Economic Warfare.

Miss Bentley had testified that both interceded to save Silvermaster's job.

Currie said all he had done was Planned 'Buildup' For Peak Banned By Park Service

Mount Rainier, Wash., Aug. 13 (U.P.).—A group of frustrated mountain builders tonight threatened to go to the Secretary of Interior—"or higher"—to get an okay to erect a 24-foot bump atop this lofty peak.

Dr. C. A. Mittun, led his group halfway up in an attempt to build 14,408-foot Mount Rainier above two Colorado peaks — Mount Elbert, 14,432 feet and Mount Massive, 14,418.

A tall, rawboned man barred the way this morning. A quiet but efficient-looking band of rangers backed him up.

"This is as far as you go," he said sternly. It was John Preston, park superintendent.

Preston said the National Park Service takes a dim view of mountain-meddlin'.

Currie, Donald Hiss And White Testify

to ask Robert P. Patterson, then Undersecretary of War, to "review" the case.

The charge that he intereceded in the affair is "false on the facts and calumny upon both me and Judge Patterson, as well as the officer who was chief of Army intelligence," said Currie.

Currie testified he could not recall Silvermaster's talking to him about saving his job. Silvermaster testified he had appealed personally to Currie to save his job.

White testified that Silvermaster told him he was not a Communist and so, since he had known the man some 11 years or more, he believed him. On the basis of Silvermaster's statement alone, White said, he intervened with Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Herbert Gaston, then a member of the Government's loyalty board.

"It seemed a shame to have a man lose his livelihood without a case being proved against him," White declared. "Gaston said he would look into it, and I think Silvermaster was cleared."

To keep the already confused record straight, what actually happened to the huge file of reports on Silvermaster, according to official documents, is that Civil Service analysis recommended he be barred from the Federal payroll as a Communist and probable Russian secret police agent, but the Civil Service Commission did not act on the recommendation.

Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.) asked White if he did not think it "strange" that possibly 10 of the undergrounders named by Miss Bentley were either friends of White's or employed in his Treasury division.

"It's certainly disconcerting," White replied.

The next witness, Virginius Frank Coe, fromerly in the Division of Monetary Research and now executive secretary of the International Monetary Fund, named by Miss Bentley as a member of the Silvermaster ring, swore the ring existed—but only for the purpose of playing volley ball.

The only way the members of the Silvermaster ring described by Miss Bentley could ever be described as associating together, Coe said, was in the playing of volley ball. The men named, he said, sometimes played volley ball together in a public park on 16th st.

For himself, Coe said, he didn't play volley ball with them much because he didn't like to get up so early on Sunday mornings.

Mundt told Coe he regarded his statement as corroborating Miss Bentley's testimony that the men she named did in fact move around in a group.

"You say only for volley ball, but it was still in a group, wasn't it?" demanded Mundt.

Coe said it was not exactly that way. The men named, he said, were not all always present at each of the volley ball rallies in the park.

Then Mundt pressed to know why it was that so many of the group had refused to answer the committee's questions on whether or not they were Communists and whether or not they knew each other on the grounds of self-incrimination.

Spectator Evicted

"I personally am unable to account for the behavior known to me a number of these persons if they were members of a group," Coe declared. He said he knew that members of the group had different views which were not explicable on the basis of the charges before the committee.

Then Coe, through his attorney, O. John Rogge, now prominently identified with the Progressive Party, demanded the right to put a series of questions to Miss Bentley.

"It seems to me only fair," he said.

At that point an unidentified man in shirt-sleeves stood up in the back of the room and shouted:

"This is pretty one-sided, isn't it!" Capitol policemen hustled the man out. He declined to give his name to reporters and said he guessed he had spoken louder than he intended to.

Nixon Cites Group's Duty

The dramatic demand by Hiss that either he or Chambers be sent to jail for perjury followed a statement by Representative Richard Nixon (R., Calif.) that Chambers had sworn he knew he was making the charges with full knowledge that he was subject to the laws of perjury, which would bring a $10,000 fine and 10 years in jail in the District of Columbia.

"It is not a situation," Nixon pointed out, "where we have the charges made by an individual who has no standing whatever in the community, but it is a case in which charges have been made by an individual who, if those charges are false, has undoubtedly had a motive which in effect would result in destroying his own career if it is proved that those charges were false."

"In view of that fact," continued Nixon, "I feel that the committee in this case has a duty to proceed to hear further from the participants involved, not from Mr. Hiss, because he had commented on all the points at issue today, so that we can determine what facts to lay before the District of Columbia prosecuting authorities on this particular case.

"I should also like to say that I have been informed by Mr. Chambers yesterday that he is willing and would like the opportunity to come before the committee again and reiterate the charges that he has made under oath."

Question of Motive

Then Mundt underscored the drama of the battle between the 41-year-old Baltimore born lawyer and the $30,000-a-year magazine editor.

"If it develops that Mr. Chambers' testimony is false, then it must also follow, as Mr. Nixon has pointed out that some highly impelling motive must have activated a man of such high responsibility, great standing, and who has made a significant success of his career to launch such charges against people like you and your brother Alger.

"I want you to search your memory very carefully and tell the committee whether you can think of any conceivable motive that Mr. Chambers would have, or any other man who might resemble Mr. Chambers would have, to come before this committee of his own volition and in sworn testimony and make the charges he has made against you," Mundt said.

"Is there some motive you can think of that would throw some light on this, for the benefit of the committee and for the benefit of helping to clear you and your brother, Alger, if your statements are, in fact, true?"

"I have given a lot of consideration to that, Mr. Chairman, and I cannot come to any answer," Hiss replied.

"You can think of no reason why he might have made the charges against your brother Alger?" returned Mundt.

"No, sir," said Hiss.

"Can you shed any light on this which will help us to get to the true facts," Mundt pressed.

"None, sir; but I do not think I am exactly unbiased. It has been a personal attack on me; it has hurt my family, my mother who is 81 years old, and I feel it very bitterly, sir."

Backs Nixon Suggestion

"Surely, but you are a very interested party in this and we are all trying to get this thing unraveled so that the public will say 'this is the truth' and everybody knows it," Mundt declared.

"I will continue to think about it, sir, and if I can think of any motive I will certainly come back to the committee," said Hiss.

Mundt then asked Hiss for any recommendation he might have in solving the mystery of why two men of such standing should swear under oath to exactly opposite things.

"Do you have any suggestion whatsoever to make to the committee as to what procedure you think we should follow in helping to resolve this conflict of evidence?" asked Mundt. "We would be very happy to have your recommendation."

"I think Mr. Nixon's suggestion is proper; if I am lying I should go to jail and if Mr. Chambers is lying he should go to jail."

"There is no question about that," replied Mundt, adding: "Thank you very much."

Confirmation by Berle

After the hearing Mundt told reporters the committee would press the matter to the very end to determine who is right in the Chambers-Hiss disagreement.

He disclosed that the committee had been in touch already with Adolf A. Berle, former Assistant Secretary of State, who confirmed that Chambers had, as he testified, gone to Berle with the story of the "elite" group of Communists two days after the Hitler-Stalin pact was signed in 1939.

With Chambers when he told Berle, said Mundt, was Isaac Don Levine, a newspaper correspondent, who has also confirmed the fact that Chambers told the story to Berle.

Denies Visiting Collins

When Hiss finished reading his prepared statement, which appears elsewhere in this newspaper, Chief Investigator Robert E. Stripling said he had no questions; that Hiss had answered everything in his own statement.

Then Nixon took over.

"You have indicated, Mr. Hiss, that you have never been in the apartment of Mr. Collins?"

"That is right, sir," Hiss replied. His brother, Alger Hiss, former State Department policy maker, has said he (Alger) had known Colfins since boyhood and had visited him several times. Chambers had testified that the "elite" ring met in the Collins apartment in St. Matthews court.

Collins himself, now executive director of the American Russian Institute, an organization listed by Attorney General Tom Clark as subversive, had refused to say whether or not he knew Donald or Alger Hiss, or whether or not he knew a man named "Carl" or whether or not he was a member of the Communist Party on the ground of self-incrimination.

Denies Knowing Address

"Have you ever been in an apartment in St. Matthews ct.?" pressed Nixon.

"I did not know the place, sir, until the other day, after this story broke," replied Hiss.

"Never met Mr. Pressman or Mr. Witt at a apartment in St. Matthews ct.?"

"No, sir," replied Hiss.

Then Nixon asked Hiss if he had ever seen a man by the name of Carl in the apartment of his brother, Alger.

"No, sir," replied the attorney.

"No, sir," Hiss replied very firmly.

Mundt said the committee plans to recall Chambers publicly sometime next week. The Hiss brothers will at that time probably be confronted with their accuser, he said.

Sees Bentley Corroboration

When Currie finished his statement, carried elsewhere in this newspaper, Mundt said.

"I would just like to say this in conclusion, Mr. Chairman. Without in any way casting any reflections on the testimony of Mr. Currie, it is interesting to me how thoroughly this whole chain of events corroborates the testimony of Miss Bentley.

"Somehow or other, she knew who Mr. Currie knew, she knew about the fact that Silvermaster and Silverman had ingratiated themselves into the confidence of Mr. Currie, she knew of the relationship of Mr. Currie to the information in the Civil Service files, she knew he had called that at one time to the attention of Judge Patterson, she knew that Judge Patterson had sent back a letter saying that in his opinion the person in question was not guilty of the charges.

"That doesn't reflect on the testimony at all of Mr. Currie, but it certainly does corroborate the fact that Miss Bentley had an uncanny access to official information in the Government, which I am prepared to believe she did not get from Mr. Currie but she got from the direct contacts, probably without any knowledge—I think without any knowledge of Mr. Currie at all; they were using him as they would use anybody to further their own nefarious purposes."

Stripling asked Currie whether or not he had ever received an envelope of material from Silvermaster, delivered by Mrs. Gilda Burke, Silvermaster's secretary. Mrs. Burke of Old Dominion Gardens, Alexandria, had testified earlier she delivered an envelope from Silvermaster to Currie but did not know what it contained.

Quizzed on Donation

Currie said he received lots of material from Government economists, and probably some of it came from Silvermaster. He said he did not remember Mrs. Burke's visit with the envelope, but did not wish to impugn her testimony.

Currie testified he had never belonged to any subversive organization.

Stripling later asked whether he had not belonged to the Washington Committee to Aid China.

Yes, said Currie, he had donated $2.50 to the organization in 1940 and understood that contribution placed him on the committee's list of sponsors. Stripling did not say whether the committee was or is now considered subversive.

Currie said he once met Earl Browder, former head of the Communist Party in this country, at the request of Sumner Welles, former Undersecretary of State.

Currie said Welles wanted Browder to retract a statement about China that appeared in the Daily Worker in 1942. The statement was withdrawn, Currie said.

The former administrative aide to the President also testified that he knew Anatole Gromov, a former first secretary of the Russian Embassy. He is the same Gromov Miss Bentley said gave her $2000 for her services in connection with the spy ring.

Currie said he first met Gromov at a luncheon in a Washington hotel and that later he and Mrs. Currie were entertained at the Gromov home for dinner.

He testified that Gromov did not attempt to get any secret Government information from him and the evening's conversation was chiefly concerned with "cultural matters, on which Mr. Gromov was exceedingly well informed."

The first afternoon witness was Bela Gold of Pittsburgh. A. William J. Gold and his wife were listed by Miss Bentley as members of a Soviet espionage group in wartime Washington. The Golds asked to be heard.

Gold read a prepared statement, which said, in part:

"I have never seen the witness who has apparently put forward the completely unfounded charges reported by the newspapers last week.

"I am not and never have been a member of the Communist Party, or of any organizations associated with it. I deny without qualification that I have ever disclosed any Government documents or their contents to any unauthorized individuals."

Gold left the Government in 1946 after working a little over six years as an economist. He said he knew Silvermaster, but only from asking him for information while writing a thesis for a doctor's degree at Columbia University.

Gold said Silvermaster never suggested to him any views that "any reasonably responsible person could possibly consider subversive or disloyal."

Stripling and Representative McDowell (R., Pa.), brought out that the Gold named by Miss Bentley was William J. Gold.

Questioned by Stripling, Gold said he had never used that name and has never been known by any name but his right one, Bela.

Stripling said the job description given the committee by Miss Bentley fitted the job held by Gold.

Golds' wife, Sonia, followed him to the stand. She read a statement almost identical with the one read by her husband, disclaiming any Communist connection.

Gold, a native of Hungary, is 33 years old. Mrs. Gold is 31. She was born in New York City.

Mrs. Gold first worked in Washington for a congressional committee in 1941, she said. She later worked for the Treasury Department, leaving in 1947 to go with her husband to Pittsburgh, where he is on the faculty of the University of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Gold said she knew Silvermaster and his wife through the work Silvermaster did on her husband's thesis.

"There was never the faintest suggestion of anything sinister about their personalities, their behavior or their household," she said.

Text of Statement by Donald Hiss on Red Probe to Un-American Committee

Following is the text of a statement Donald Hiss read before the House Committee on Un-American Activities yesterday:

ON August 3, 1948, upon reading the full transcript of the testimony of Mr. D. Whittaker Chambers given on that date before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, I issued a statement to the press denying the allegations that Mr. Chambers made with respect to me.

On August 5, I forwarded a sworn copy of this statement to the acting chairman of this committee and in the covering letter stated that I was "available, willing and anxious to appear before your committee and repeat these denials under oath and answer any question which you or any other member of the committee may have."

In order that the record will be clear, I should like to repeat the statement which I issued to the press and forwarded to the committee. In the statement I said:

"I have read the full transcript of the testimony of Mr. D. Whittaker Chambers given today before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. Among other things Mr. Chambers said that he knew me as a member of the Communist Party, as one of an elite Communist group which regularly met in a certain apartment in Washington, and as the leader of a local Communist cell. With the exception of the facts, which he also stated, that I have an older brother named Alger Hiss, that I have been employed in the Departments of Labor and State, and that, as an employe of a local law firm (other than the one he named), I assisted in rendering legal service to the Polish Supply Mission in connection with a loan granted in 1946 by the Export-Import Bank, I flatly deny every statement made by Mr. Chambers with respect to me.

"I am not and never have been a member of the Communist Party or of any formal or informal organizations affiliated with or fronting in any manner whatsoever for the Communist Party. In fact, the only organizations and clubs to which I have belonged are the local YMCA, the Miles River Yacht Club of Maryland, the old Washington Racquet Club, the Harvard Law School Association, the American Society of International Law, and college fraternities and athletic clubs.

"I have no recollection of ever having met any person by the name of D. Whittaker Chambers,

DONALD HISS

"I am not . . . a Communist"

nor do I recognize his photograph which I have seen in the public press. I am not and never have been in sympathy with the principles of the Communist Party. Any interested person could easily have discovered these facts by inquiry of any of the distinguished, respected and unquestionably loyal Americans with whom I have been intimately associated."

I APPRECIATE the opportunity to amplify this general statement of denial. Mr. Chambers testified that I met with him and other persons in the house or apartment of Mr. Henry Collins at St. Matthews Court in Washington in 1937 and apparently prior to 1937. Those other persons named by Mr. Chambers were Mr. Collins, Mr. Witt, my brother Alger Hiss, Mr. Pressman, Mr. Kramer or Krivitsky, and Mr. Perlo.

I deny this categorically. I have never been in any apartment or home of Mr. Collins at St. Matthews Court or at any place else on any occasion in 1937 or at any other time. Furthermore, to the best of my knowledge, I have never met, have never known and do not know any person by the name of Charles Kramer or Krivitsky, by the name of Victor Perlo, or by the name of D. Whittaker Chambers.

Met Abt, Pressman in AAA

I met Mr. Collins a number of years ago, probably in 1933 or 1934. I have seen him infrequently during this period and have known him only casually. I have never engaged in any political discussions with him, so far as I can remember.

Mr. Pressman and Mr. Abt I met when they were with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in 1933 or 1934, and Mr. Witt I have known since 1929 when we were classmates in our first year at the Harvard Law School. I saw Messrs. Pressman, Abt and Witt occasionally in 1933, 1934, and 1935, when they were working in the same division of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration with my brother, Alger Hiss.

To the best of my knowledge I have never seen Mr. Abt or Mr. Witt since 1935. Since 1935 I have only seen Mr. Pressman a few times and then in passing him on the street except for one occasion in 1946 when I saw him and a number of other persons at the Polish Embassy at a social function. I attended this function because at that time I was working on some legal matters for the Polish Supply Mission.

WITH reference to my work with the Polish Supply Mission, it was performed in the capacity of an employe of my firm until January, 1947 when I became a partner. It is my understanding that the firm was retained to render legal assistance to the Mission some time in the last half of 1945. The senior partner of the firm, Mr. Edward B. Burling, and another partner, Mr. Charles Horsky, were in charge of the case. In the early part of 1946, it is my recollection, Mr. Burling assigned me to assist him, due to the fact that Mr. Horsky was in Germany assisting the United States Government in prosecuting Nazi war criminals. Upon Mr. Horsky's return I continued to work on this case, as well as on a number of others. The major part of my time was spent on drafting and negotiating contracts and working out of procedures for the clearance of such contracts with the Export-Import Bank. The work was completed in March, 1947.

Data Available Elsewhere

Most of this information with respect to the services rendered by my firm to the Polish Supply Mission, together with additional data, is set forth, I believe, in the reports Mr. Burling submitted to the Department of Justice in accordance with the Foreign Agents' Registration Act.

As for the other persons mentioned by Mr. Chambers, to the best of my knowledge I have never met, have never known and do not know any person by the name of Harold Ware, by the name of Helen Ware or by the name of J. Peters, Goldenweiss or Goldberger. Harry D. White, also named by Mr. Chambers, I have seen only three times in my life so far as I can recall. In 1942 and in 1943 I saw him at official State and Treasury Department meetings in connection with the administration of Foreign Funds Control, and in the winter of 1946 I saw him at the social function mentioned above.

Finally, in conclusion let me reiterate that I know that I have never carried on any conversation with D. Whittaker Chambers in the apartment or home of Mr. Collins. This fact I know for three reasons. In the first place, I am not and have never been a member of the Communist Party or of any formal or informal organizations affiliated with or fronting for the Communist Party. Secondly, I do not know and do not recall having ever met Mr. D. Whittaker Chambers, either under that name or judging from his photographs under any name whatever. Thirdly, I have never been in any apartment or home of Mr. Collins.

Currie Statement Before Committee

Following is the text of Lauchlin Currie's statement yesterday before the House Committee on Un-American Activities:

MR. Chairman and Members of the Committee:

My name is Lauchlin Currie. I reside at 165 Gaylor rd., Scarsdale, N. Y.

I appreciate this opportunity afforded me by the committee to appear at my request and to answer some statements and misleading suggestions which have been made concerning me in prior testimony before this committee.

First, some facts concerning my background and history. I was born in 1902 in Nova Scotia, Canada. My father, a Canadian citizen, was of Scottish ancestry. My mother, nee Alice Eisenhauer, also a Canadian citizen, is of German descent. In 1911 and again in 1918 my family spent the year in the United States, where I attended school. I took my undergraduate university work at London University and then came to Harvard in 1925, where I did my graduate work and received my Ph. D. degree and remained as a teacher of economics.

Naturalized in 1934

Shortly after coming to Harvard I took out my first papers applying for United States citizenship. My naturalization was completed in 1934. While at Harvard I was offered a position in the Treasury Department. In 1934 I accepted it and came to Washington, where I worked under Mr. Marriner Eccles until he was made chairman of the Federal Reserve Board later in that year. I went with him to the board as asistant director of research.

In 1939 I was appointed by President Roosevelt as administrative assistant to the President with special duties in the field of economics. I retained that position until 1945, during which time I was twice sent to China to confer with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. During part of this period, in 1943-1944, I concurrently held the office of deputy administrator of the Foreign Economic Administration. In early 1945, on behalf of the Secretary of State, I headed a wartime trade and financial mission to Switzerland.

In 1945 I resigned from Government service to enter private business and I am now president of Lauchlin Currie & Co., engaged in the export-import business, with offices at 565 5th ave., New York.

MY NAME has been brought into the proceedings before this committee through the testimony of Miss Elizabeth Bentley and Mr. N. Gregory Silvermaster. Miss Bentley admitted to you that she had never met me and had never seen me and had never had any communication with me. The statements made by her about me were, as noted by Congressman Rankin, hearsay three times removed.

I, on my part, wish to assert unequivocably that I never met, saw, nor had any communication with Miss Bentley. The first time I ever heard her name was when I learned of the testimony which she gave the committee.

I understand that there is no accusation that I am or ever have been a Communist. Nevertheless, I welcome this opportunity to state again under oath, as I did before the Federal grand jury, convened in the Eastern District of New York to investigate the charges similar to those before this committee, that I am not and never have been a Communist, a member of the Communist Party, a believer in the tenets or doctrines of communism and that I have never been affiliated with any organization or group sympathetic with the doctrines of communism or engaged in furthering that cause. I have never had any reason to believe that any friends of mine or even acquaintances or associates were communists.

I understand that there are three charges made against me: First, that I stated to A. G. Silverman that the United States was about to break the Russian code, information which he is said to have reported to N. Gregory Silvermaster, who in turn reported it to Miss Bentley, who in turn reported it to contacts of hers in the Russian government.

The second charge is that I was used by persons acting with Miss Bentley and on behalf of a Communist spy ring to place or protect persons in that ring in positions in the United States Government. This charge specifically relates to my alleged interference to save N. Gregory Silvermaster in an investigation which threatened his tenure in Government office.

The third charge is that I disclosed "inside information" about China to persons named by Miss Bentley.

First, as regards my alleged communication to A. G. Silverman. I knew both Silverman and Silvermaster under circumstances which I shall relate. I wish at this point, however, to deny emphatically that I ever stated to Silverman, Silvermaster, or anyone else that the United States was about to break the Russian or any other code.

I did not know during the war, nor do I know now, that any branch of the Government or of its military forces attempted to or was about to break the Russian code. I knew nothing and I know nothing about whatever work was done in connection with our own or foreign codes. It is obvious that it would lend a note of plausibility to the story of code-breaking to attribute it to someone on the White House staff.

I HAVE stated that I knew both Silverman and Silvermaster. My work as administrative assistant to the President was in the field of economics. In the course of this work I not only came in contact with all, or practically all, the economists in the Government, but was called upon to work with them, to give them advice, to express opinions regarding their competence, and to deal with such interdepartmental matters as came into the White House involving economic matters and economic personnel.

Other assistants to the President had similar duties in connection with legal matters, with political appointments, and with civil servants, and all of us found that we were continually given as references by the persons with whom we came in contact. During my tenure in the Foreign Economic Administration I had several hundred economists working under me. I mention this to make clear that, while I knew some of the persons mentioned in the testimony before you, I also knew literally hundreds of economists throughout the Government.

I first met N. Gregory Silvermaster in 1940. At the direction of the President I was looking into a reported mutiny aboard ship. The Maritime Labor Board designated N. Gregory Silvermaster, of whom I had never previously heard, to supply the required information. My work with him was quickly concluded and my only remaining impression of it was that he was entirely competent. No question of loyalty arose or entered my mind. I had no further official contact with Mr. Silvermaster, but between 1940 and 1945 saw him several times at social gatherings at which there were always several people present.

In June, 1942, an official of the Board of Economic Warfare telephoned me to say that Mr. Silvermaster was working for the board on loan from the Department of Agriculture and that the board had received from Army Intelligence a copy of a report which, if substantiated by the facts, made his employment undesirable. They asked me to inquire whether this report constituted the Army's final opinion.

I understand that Mr. Silvermaster states that he saw or talked with me about this matter. I have no recollection of such a conversation, although it may have occurred. In accordance with the White House customary procedure in such matters, I referred this inquiry to the War Department.

I did this by telephoning the Undersecretary of War, Judge Robert P. Patterson, told him of the situation, and asked him to have the matter reviewed to make sure that the report represented the considered judgment of the War Department. I myself made no recommendations or investigations. I did not see the report or know of its contents since it was not my duty or function to do any of these things.

I am also informed that it has been stated before this committee that there were at this time adverse reports on Mr. Silvermaster in the files of the Civil Service Commission and in those of the Naval Intelligence. I did not know at that time, nor did I know until the testimony before this committee, of the existence of any such reports, or of any reports other than the War Department report.

Judge Patterson subsequently telephoned to me to say that the matter had been reviewed and that in the judgment of the department the statements made in the report were not substantiated and that the report was being withdrawn.

According to the letter from Judge Patterson to Milo Perkins, which has been inserted in the record of these hearings, Judge Patterson stated: "I have personally made an examination of the case and have discussed it with Maj. Gen. G. V. Strong, G-2. I am fully satisfied that the facts do not show anything derogatory to Mr. Silvermaster's character or loyalty to the United States, and that the charges in the report of June 3 are unfounded."

THESE are the facts of this matter. Upon the basis of these facts the charge is made before this committee that I "interceded" for Mr. Silvermaster and that this intercession resulted in an improper disposition of the case. Such a charge is false on the facts and a calumny upon both me and Judge Patterson as well as the officer who was the chief of Army Intelligence.

While statements from me as to my own character would be unfitting, I can state emphatically that any person who knows Judge Patterson or General Strong knows the absurdity of the suggestion that they would permit, much less yield to, political or other pressure in a matter concerning the security of the United States.

I recall one further fact in connection with Mr. Silvermaster which should be mentioned. At one time I was asked by an investigator, I believe from the Civil Service Commission, regarding my opinion of Mr. Silvermaster's loyalty to the United States. I replied that so far as I knew he was a loyal public servant. I do not recall having recommended him for any post.

I first met A. G. Silverman when I was a graduate student at Harvard and he was an instructor of economics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. I was familiar with his work as a scholar and a teacher and believed that his technical competence was outstanding. We renewed our acquaintance after I came to Washington when he was an official of the Railroad Retirement Board.

Except for a brief period in 1940, when I was working, at the President's direction on legislation to be proposed to Conogress on old-age and retirement benefit plans for maritime workers similar to that in effect for railroad labor, I had little official contact with him, but I always respected his high technical ability and had no reason at any time to question his loyalty nor had any grounds to suspect any Communist affiliation. His reputation was that of one of the top-ranking statisticians of Washington.

I had no occasion to discuss with him any matters of public importance and certainly none of a confidential character; I have no recollection of ever having done so.

Miss Bentley further stated to this committee that I was the source of inside information regarding China and our relations with China which was relayed to her via Silverman and Silvermaster and that she suspected that I knew that what I said was destined for the Soviet government.

Taking the latter statement first, I emphatically deny that I ever knew, believed, or suspected that any statement of mine was repeated to any person acting under cover for the Soviet government or any foreign government. I have never lent and would never lend myself to such disloyal action. I have frequently met and carried on negotiations with accredited representatives of foreign governments, including the Soviet, in the discharge of my official duties and in all such have been concerned only with the interests of the United States.

Among the thousands of loyal Americans who have been my colleagues during my 11 years of Government service, I challenge anyone to find one person who ever doubted my loyalty to this country.

COMING to the charge that I disclosed inside information about China to Silverman, Silvermaster, or any unauthorized person, this I absolutely deny.

I assume that "inside information" means information which is confidential either because it is not generally known or because it relates to the economic or military position of the Chinese government, or to the plans, intentions, or proposals of either the Chinese or the United States Government.

I was deeply conscious of the responsibility imposed upon me and the confidence placed in me by President Roosevelt and never discussed matters of the type mentioned with any of the persons mentioned. In fact, I never discussed these matter with anyone other than officials of the Government officially charged with responsibility in connection with China. The persons mentioned above, of course, did not fall within this category.

I have, of course, talked with a great many people about China. I do not recall any such conversations with Silverman or Silvermaster, but it is not impossible that the subject of China was discussed in gatherings at which one of them might have been present. Many persons knew of my special interest in China. It was frequently mentioned in the newspapers.

It was generally known that I knew the generalissimo, Mme. Chiang Kai-shek and members of the Chinese government. I admired the Chinese and was deeply sympathetic with their struggle against Japanese aggression and with their suffering as a result of it. It was my official duty to assist the Chinese government in all ways possible and compatible with our own military effort. Consequently, upon innumerable occasions people raised with me the subject of China, and I talked about the subject as freely as was compatible with my official responsibilities.

I did this privately and with representatives of the press, but I wish to stress again that I was at all times conscious of the fact that my words had to be carefully considered, both from the point of view of not disclosing what should be kept secret and from the point of view that what I said might be twisted and given an official character. This is a position which is familiar to all Government officials and is, of course, not unknown to members of this committee.

In conclusion, may I state that I have spent 11 years serving the Government of the United States in positions of considerable responsibility and clothed with a most confidential character, in the Treasury, in the Federal Reserve Board, in the White House, in the Foreign Economic Administration, and on loan to the State Department. During this time a mass of the most confidential information went across my desk and through my hands.

Never until the present statement of Miss Bentley have I been suspected or accused of betraying any of it despite the publicity that surrounds the White House. Now I am accused of disclosing one matter about which I had no information of any sort whatever and of disclosing what is frequently described as "inside information" about China, although no one has said, and I am sure no one can say, what its specific content was.

I have looked back upon my 11 years of service to the Government of the United States as a privilege and as a duty to which I gave all that I had. I realized, of course, that public service is a rough and tumble affair in which one cannot be thin-skinned about the give and take of public controversy. But charges which involve one in the activities of an alleged espionage ring are another matter. I, therefore, invite the most searching examination by the committee and respectfully request that it find, as I know that it will, that these charges are wholly untrue.

Red Teachers To Be Offered Asylum Here

By James Warner

Despite vehement Russian protests and propaganda, the United States is prepared to offer asylum in this country to two Russian school teachers now the subject of high-level diplomatic exchanges, the State Department said yesterday.

In addition, Walter Bedell Smith, United States Ambassador to Russia, has "categorically denied" to Soviet Foreign Minister Viacheslav M. Molotov personally Russian charges that any American governmental agency has been involved in "kidnaping" or any other illegal activities.

This Government's attitude—which is to investigate fully the Soviet charges, but not to force the teachers to return to Russia unless they wish to—was made plain by the State Department in comments on Thursday night's Radio Moscow broadcast giving the text of a protest Molotov made to Ambassador Smith in Moscow Wednesday midnight. Molotov demanded the immediate "release" of Mikhail Ivanovitch Samarine, who testified Thursday here, and Mrs. Oksana Stepanova Kosenkina, who jumped from the window of the Soviet Consulate in New York Thursday afternoon.

The State Department challenged the veracity of the statement of Molotov, as broadcast by Radio Moscow, that Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett "confirmed to the Soviet Ambassador in Washington that Samarine was subjected to interrogation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which is connected with the organization which kidnaped Samarine and his wife and three children."

Lovett merely told the Russian Ambassador what had previously been published in American newspapers, Michael J. McDermott, State Department information officer, said yesterday. This was that Samarine had asked for an appointment with the FBI, had been given one, and left "under his own power, and of his own volition."

FBI headquarters last night confirmed the State Department version, saying:

"Mr. Samarine came to our office, said he wanted to be interviewed, and we interviewed him as we would interview anyone making such a request."

During the morning, the State Department said this about the Molotov protest:

"Molotov paralleled in Moscow the protest made by the Soviet Ambassador here the other day, concerning the alleged kidnaping of two Soviet school teachers.

"Ambassador Smith said he had not been officially informed by his Government of the incident referred to, but that he categorically denied the allegation that the United States Government or any of its agencies was in any way involved in illegal acts. He said he could assure Mr. Molotov that full and public investigation would be made, followed by criminal or legal proceedings if warranted against any violators of United States law.

"Ambassador Smith further said that if the man and his family mentioned in the Soviet note desired to return to the Soviet Union, their travel could be facilitated."

At his noon briefing of correspondents, McDermott repeated this statement. He also revealed that the Soviet Embassy here had telephoned the State Department to make an appointment for the Russian Ambassador to see Lovett yesterday noon.

"Mr. Lovett was quite willing," said Mr. McDermott, "but later the embassy phoned that the Ambassador would be unable to keep the appointment."

Capital Transit

When the Public Utilities Commission began hearings on the Capital Transit Co.'s petition for fare increases, Chairman Flanagan said that "arithmetic" would decide the issue. In other words, the question that the PUC in called upon to answer is whether the company's financial position is such as to justify demands for higher fares and, if so, whether the increases requested are essential to yield what the PUC considers a fair return on the company's investment.

It is the facts about profits and losses, and the amount of funds needed for repairs and improvements, that the PUC has to consider when passing on the CTC's application. CTC officials maintain that on the present fare basis, the company will incur a heavy deficit this year. Furthermore, they estimate that the requested fare increases would permit it to earn no more than the 7½ per cent that the PUC held to be "fair and reasonable" in 1945. If their contention can be sustained to the satisfaction of the commission, and if, as contended, no further substantial savings in operating costs are feasible, fare increases will be justified at the present time. For that matter, they will be essential to maintain the CTC's solvency and prevent deterioration of transportation services furnished to the community, although opinions differ as to whether rates should be adjusted to yield 7½ per cent on investment at the present time.

If the public at large fully understood the underlying principle of rate regulation as applied to privately owned public utilities, which assumes that charges should suffice to produce a fair return on invested capital, a great deal of the heat and fury attendant on rate hearings would be avoided. As it is, a good many representatives of resident groups appearing to protest against the proposed CTC fare increases have wasted time and energy in futile denunciation of the transit company management for allegedly trying to mulct them.

Testimony from witnesses representing various citizen groups affected by increases in fare on trolleys and buses can be most useful provided those witnesses are well informed and have the advantage of expert advice and assistance. For a regulatory agency such as the PUC has to consider not only whether rate increases are warranted; it also has to form a judgment as to the effect of proposed increases on public patronage and company revenues. For that purpose it is highly desirable to obtain testimony from witnesses representing the public as well as the company. Unfortunately, the organizations represented at the PUC hearings which ended yesterday were severely handicapped by lack of funds for undertaking an expert job of analysis that would be of value to the commission. Even People's Counsel O'Dea confessed that he had no money at his disposal for hiring experts. As a result, the hearings degenerated into heated verbal contests that confused instead of clarifying the questions at issue.

Reciprocity

Berlin and New York seem to have been blended in the controversy with Soviet Russia. The umbrage that has been expressed in Moscow over the bizarre episode in New York may now have to be taken into account in the negotiations in the Soviet capital. "The Soviet government," says Molotov, "insists on the immediate release of Samarine and his family and on their transfer, until their departure home, to the Consulate General of the U. S. S. R. in New York, as well as on the punishment of all persons who have taken part in the kidnaping of the Soviet citizens." Whether the umbrage is real or posed, only time will tell. We recall that when Mr. Harriman, as Ambassador to Moscow, complained about the activities of Communists in the United States, Stalin merely responded, "Why don't you liquidate them?" Moscow also shows no mercy when its direct emissaries have blundered. And it would regard as a sign of weakness any indulgence that might be shown by a government which has been offended by Soviet representatives.

That the American Government has been offended is patent in the weird Samarine-Kosenkina story. The facts show the Consul General and the Ambassador to be guilty of the most barefaced prevarications. In his statement Molotov repeats them. It has become perfectly evident that none of the Soviet teachers wants to go home, that none of them was kidnaped. Yet the protests to the State Department repeated Lomakin's allegation of plots by the "White Guard gangster organization" at Reed Farm, N. Y., or the FBI (which says Molotov, "is connected with the organization") to hold them in America under duress. This new light on the situation makes the story circumstantially correct that Lomakin has been playing a cops and robbers game on American soil. Such performances are intolerable. A request for the recall of the officials, if the circumstantial story is substantiated, seems in order, if not the closing down of the Consulate General. It is time that this country enforced respect for its institutions on the part of Soviet officialdom in America, not to say reciprocity in the number of officials and offices allowed on American territory.

Talk In Moscow

In the absence of real news from Moscow a guess on the rival positions of the Western powers and Soviet Russia may be hazarded. Molotov is doubtless saying, "How can you go into a conference on a peace treaty for all Germany when you are setting up a western German government? That would seem to be writing off the conference as a failure right from the start. You cannot keep up your recognition of partition and at the same time negotiate unification. Put the western government on ice as a sign of good faith." The Western envoys are doubtless replying, "That measure was forced upon us by your refusal to treat Germany as an economic unit, as you promised at Potsdam. This left our zones struggling in economic adversity. The way to pull them together is through a government, and we cannot halt this development till there is more indication on your part that you will again come to a conference prepared to live up to your pledges at Potsdam. We have had conferences before, and they have led to the same deadlock, and what you are now asking us to do is to perpetuate the anarchy in our zones while we go over the same ground. In any case, this new government is open to all Germany."

The decision to set up a government in western Germany was stigmatized by this newspaper as a mistake when the announcement came out of London in June. It was unnecessary, for the instrumentalities existed without any government to pull the zones together and promote economic and currency integration. It was precipitate because of the lack of any concurrent offer to the Russians, who at the time were being diplomatically ignored, to negotiate a new arrangement about Berlin. It was bound to create a crisis over Berlin, and Berlin, once the Russians got nasty, was sure to turn into a mousetrap, in view of the lack of specific agreements except for air passage governing Western access to it. To be sure, there is what Secretary Marshall calls "usage," as well as Western rights in Berlin which would have no meaning without access to them. But there has been enough experience to show that the Soviet Union doesn't respect what is not written down and has a bad record even in the case of written compacts.

The Western powers did not readjust their position in Berlin in the light of the agreement on western Germany. They determined to hold on to Berlin, and, when the Russians sought to squeeze them out, stuck to and reiterated their rights, and insured access and the feeding of the Germans in Berlin by the amazing Operation Vittles. Secretary Symington in Berlin says the air lift can be kept up all winter. But it is not the winter that produces bad flying conditions over the air corridor, but the late fall. Moreover, the air lift is costing money, a lot of it. And, finally, the air lift is being maintained only by grace of the Soviet authorities. Under the old resolution of the air coordinating committee of the Allied Control Council, whereby access by air is insured, the Soviet reserved the right of "regulation," as in the case of surface communication. In other words, the uncertainty has not been removed by the capabilities and increase in number of the supply planes. However, the mousetrap having been entered, we felt that the test had to be endured, without, however, locking any doors to negotiations.

This latter course is now in progress. The Western powers, though insisting there could be no negotiations as long as the surface blockade lasted, are at the stage of negotiating negotiations. This in itself is a concession. It does not go far enough, in our opinion, as long as we go ahead with the setting up of a government in western Germany. This at least could be put on ice pending a final attempt to come to terms about Germany. The hope of an end to the surface blockade of Berlin lies in doing this, and when normal entry into Berlin has been recognized and secured, then the agenda of a four-power conference on Germany could be explored, subject to a time limit, after which Western hands would be freed. Such an arrangement would involve no loss of face with the Germans, for the Germans are lukewarm over a western government, anyway.

New Secretary

So near election day there is no difficulty in figuring out why the President chose Maurice Tobin as his new Secretary of Labor. Mr. Tobin is competing with Paul Dever for the Democratic nomination for the Massachusetts governorship. By stopping the competition the President may improve Democratic chances, though only a miracle, judging from reports, could make Governor Bradford unacceptable for reelection. In addition, Mr. Tobin has broken many a lance for the President, generally, however, in connection with his feud with his pro-MacArthur and notorious predecessor and successor in the mayoralty of Boston, James M. Curley.

Mr. Tobin in his public life has not been identified either with industrial relations or with the concerns of organized labor. His life has been spent in politics. In addition to a term as Boston's Mayor, he has also been Governor of the Bay State, and so has had experience as an administrator. At the same time Mr. Truman has added to his official family a man of likable personality and agreeable presence as successor to the late Lewis B. Schwellenbach.

"Do Nothing" Congress

President Truman is playing variations on the theme that the Eightieth Congress was a "do nothing" body. In support of this charge he has issued a so-called box score setting forth his recommendations to the special session on which Congress failed to act, including the anti-poll-tax bill on which Senate action was blocked by a filibuster of Southern Democrats.

Obviously Congress could not have been expected to cover the President's comprehensive program during a brief special session called in a presidential election year. Given the limitations of time, it actually accomplished a good deal by passing a credit control bill and a housing bill and approving a loan for the United Nations building. To be sure, the credit and housing measures fell short of what the President had called for, but they embraced some features of his program that have induced the President, however grudgingly, to sign them.

If a charge of do-nothingism is to be lodged against the Eightieth Congress, it should be based on the record of the regular instead of the special session. But even that charge would not stick. For the Eightieth Congress can take credit for some highly important legislation in the field of foreign policy, and domestic defense. Moreover, it passed a long-range farm bill in line with Administration recommendations, although it decided to extend the present price support system for another year. These positive achievements cannot be ignored in any fair appraisal of the work of the last Congress.

As a matter of fact, it was not inaction on the part of Congress that aroused President Truman's ire, but rather its failure to indorse his own program in toto. Senator Taft's statement summarizing the work of the special session indicates that the Republicans will base their appeal for votes not only on the record of things done, but on the record of things not done at the President's urging. The Washington Post believes that they can make out a strong case for failure to act on recommendations to reintroduce price control and rationing. But it will be difficult for them to defend the refusal of the House leadership to permit the House to vote on the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill which included provisions for slum clearance and public housing, or to account for failure to pass a number of other measures, such as the Federal aid-to-education bill, extension of social security benefits and a nondiscriminatory displaced persons bill.

In any event, it is to be hoped that the voters will not be misled by the President's reiterated and unfounded charges of do-nothingism. Such an approach merely distracts attention from basic issues that are of real concern to the electorate.

Thanks For Nothing

At the conclusion of Dr. Lauchlin Currie's testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activities Friday morning, he was asked if he thought he had been treated with due consideration and given a full and fair opportunity to answer charges which had been made against him. This is an interesting pattern which members of the committee have adopted with respect to all witnesses appearing at their own request—as though the committee thought that, by permitting injured persons to appear before it, the committee was distributing some peculiarly bountiful form of largesse or granting a rare privilege for which the deepest gratitude was due.

It is somewhat as if an innocent pedestrian, spattered with mud by a passing vehicle, was expected to thank the driver for permitting him to wipe the mud off his face and clothes. The wonder is that some of the witnesses actually seem willing to bow and scrape and touch their forelocks in humility and appreciation; Alger Hiss was a notable and doughty exception. Dr. Currie, a man of extraordinary politeness, not only let it be put in the record that he thought he had been treated fairly but even thanked the committee for letting him be heard.

Let us look at what Dr. Currie has to be thankful for. A self-confessed Soviet agent who admitted that she had never seen this distinguished economist and former assistant to President Roosevelt in her life, told the committee in the presence of newspaper reporters, photographers, radio broadcasters, motion picture cameramen and a hearing room full of the idly curious, that a person whom she accused of being a fellow agent of the Soviet government had told her that Dr. Currie five or six years ago had given him some information of value to the Soviets. On the basis of this hearsay twice or thrice removed, Dr. Currie found himself the subject of exceedingly damaging newspaper headlines all over the country.

Now, if the committee, before publicizing such sensational charges, had accorded Dr. Currie the presumption of innocence due any reputable citizen, especially one who had been an outstanding Government official for many years, and had given him a chance to refute these allegations in private, an expression of appreciation might have been in order. But the committee heard him only after his name had been irreparably besmirched—delayed denials never quite catch up with or overcome lurid charges—and then with scant courtesy. In the circumstances, his docility seems a testimonial only to the committee's boundless power and reckless willingness to injure those who fail to win its favor.

"Mundt's Admission"

May I disagree thoroughly with your August 7 editorial on "Mundt's Admission"? You say, "But what the House Committee is doing is telling the American people that neither their courts nor the FBI is giving them protection. This is a dangerous procedure—highly dangerous." Elsewhere in your news columns is this statement: "Justice sources also said that the espionage laws were inadequate to cover the situation disclosed to the grand jury."

It is the purpose of congressional committee hearings to ascertain how the laws must be amended so that they may protect the public. After a million-dollar investigation the New grand jury was unable to indict any of the persons suspected of subversion because of an obvious defect of the Espionage Act of 1917 and other laws designed to protect us from the type of treason that is being practiced. These 27 acts which according to Governor Dewey "already outlaw * * * every conceivable form of subversion," are, none of them it is now apparent, able to indict, much less convict those accused of giving away top secret information. They are unable to do this because technically at the time the information was given to her, Russia was not an enemy.

The next step is to amend the Espionage Act of 1917 so that it becomes illegal for a Government official to give top secret or secret information to anyone for whom it is not intended.

UNESCO Conference

The Unesco University Conference, being held at the ancient, quiet and dignified city of Utrecht in the Netherlands has so far escaped the attention of many internationally minded American newspapers such as The Washington Post.

This meeting is intended to enable about 300 representatives of some 45 countries to discuss mutual problems and to devise practical means by which more cooperation among institutions of higher learning the world over might be achieved. Unesco, its work and problems, new perspectives for the development of universities, the relation between the state and higher education, the university as an agent of international cooperation are some of the topics to be taken up.

Such practical points as the reorientation of the universities to accommodate the ever growing student body and the equalization of academic degrees, already under discussion in the Benelux countries, might also be tackled. It is furthermore planned to organize a world league of universities. Further development and founding of international departments staffed by professors, scholars, and students of many countries is contemplated to stimulate a spirit of international understanding among universities and to train personnel in the field of international relations.

Puerto Rican Vote

There is much doubt and mental suffering among the people of Puerto Rico due to the fact that there has been apathy and indifference on the part of national authorities in teaching us the full meaning of American citizenship. Those who talk about the status of Puerto Rico seem to forget that, legally, there is the status as to the form of our territorial government and there is the status of our right and duties as American citizens.

I do not know of any anti-Americanism in Puerto Rico, but we must sadly recognize that due to an irresponsible consideration of our American citizenship, there is lack of a better understanding and lack of a closer union between our native and northern fellow citizens.

I sincerely believe that since hundreds of thousands of Puerto Ricans living at present in New York and other States, do take active part in national elections, it is but just that those of us who can not leave the island should enjoy the same privilege and practice such patriotic right and duty.

I believe that since the President of the United States and Congress are the men who rule and make the laws for us, it is our inherent right, as citizens, to vote at all elections.

Demoralizing Hearings

The Canadian government officials realized that communism thrives in an atmosphere of doubt, distrust and confusion and they refused, rightly, to burden their people with the unsound tactics now being used so freely on Capitol Hill. Who is to say that Miss Bentley is no longer a Soviet agent—who is to say she no longer serves the cause of communism? Her actions cause exactly the kind of results that Communists most desire—lack of confidence in authority, in democratic institutions and frustration and confusion in the electorate. In this we must admit our ardent legislators are helping her.

It is not as if they are doing what is necessary for the good of the people—if we have no confidence in our courts as The Washington Post so ably points out—we are, indeed, well on the way to demoralization.

G. D. C.

Washington.

If inciting tensions in a country, shaking confidence in government personnel and governments, weakening democratic liberties and encouraging the Fascist addictions of congenital blatherskies, are major objectives of communism, United States of America's Communists would have done well by themselves to have invented Miss Elizabeth Bentley and Mr. Whittaker Chambers.

Maybe they did.

Certainly neither of these characters served communism's ends of public demoralization while they were its avowed agents, so well as they are serving them now.

Loyalty Investigation Procedure

About the time that the Condon file matter was being discussed I suggested that the investigation file of an employe should not be sent to the agency where the employe works or to the agency considering the employe for transfer.

The information often gets into the hands of personal friends and the "information" collected can often contain the most unexpected kinds of imputations. Also (as seems to be confirmed by the present disclosures), the "agency" is very often an acquaintance of long standing.

By decentralization the hiring is actually done by a division head, or even a unit head. The of vacancies in better positions and even in moderate positions is most frequently not through consideration of strangers, but what has sometimes been referred to as "personal patronage." Thus, it is almost inevitable that the file becomes known to the employe's personal friends. There is the very important factor that the "agency" under these circumstances cannot actually judge the file properly because there is already important special pleading in the "patron" and various feelings which obscure actualities.

Accordingly, I have considered seriously whether the file should not remain in the Civil Service Commission or in the Department of Justice. The former file would be the ordinary "character investigation" and the latter would be the "loyalty file." Only then would the file actually be confidential.

I have thought that with reference to "character" that kind of suitability can be judged in the Civil Service Commission and once the commission decides that the employe seems to be of suitable character for Federal employment, all the agency needs to know is information concerning occupational adequacy so as to know how the employe should be placed for work. Where the position involves "loyalty suitability," that factor can be judged in the FBI and they can notify the agency that the employe is o. k. on loyalty check.

Neither the commission nor the FBI would notify the agency of any details about either "character" or "loyalty." I think the agencies have enough trouble carrying out their programs without also being responsible for "loyalty" decisions they really are not prepared to tackle. Also, the placing of authority for the decision in one place (where competency to handle questions of this kind can be built up) there wouldn't be a scattering of responsibility.

The desirability of having the investigating agency decide the case has been questioned. To minimize the weakness of having the same agency make decisions as has done the investigating, there can be such instrumentalities as a loyal board separated completely from the investigator unit, or the FBI can submit the matter to a unit in Justice Department for a decision. The employe could be given every possible opportunity to protect himself within that framework and if we can avoid heavy penalties for minor offenses I think we can then have a better system than we now have. While it would be desirable to completely separate the deciding agency from the investigating agency, such separations are sometimes more illusory than real because sometimes the ties between two agencies can be closer than the ties between two units within the same agency.

Marriage Melting Pot

By Malvina Lindsay

Foreign Mates

NEW MELTING pot problems continue to come to this country as an aftermath of war. The latest is the assimilation of Japanese occupation brides. Moreover, international marriages may be expected to keep on disturbing the American social scene as American soldiers and civilians increasingly roam the world.

Such matings have repeatedly presented their legal problems to the United Nations and have become a subject of diplomatic controversy. Recently the United Nations Economic and Social Council condemned all legal measures to "prevent mixed marriages between persons of different color, nationality, race or religion."

A contingent of Japanese brides with their occupation husbands is expected in this country about the first of the year. The most of these will go to small towns where the adjustment may be especially difficult. They will encounter problems not met by the British and Australian, or even the German brides. But some of the best educated Japanese girls of upper social rank are taking this challenge, as reports of American-Japanese weddings show. In Tokyo many of these newly married girls are going to classes instituted by American women, to learn about American cookery, child care, customs, manners and government.

THE TENDENCY of United States occupation men to marry Japanese girls proved a surprise to many Americans in Japan, especially civilian girls with the occupation forces. They had believed the American men were merely having flirtations with the doll-like Japanese. But soon a rush to the altar began. Chief opponents of this were the mothers of the Japanese brides. They foresaw unhappiness for their daughters in the United States because of the discrimination they would face. Many of the girls themselves are now apprehensive about their reception here.

There is no doubt their way will be difficult. For American communities and social circles are just beginning to adapt to the fruits of international marriage—let alone interracial marriage. Having been traditionally isolated from this sort of thing, they are not finding it easy.

Those Australian and British war brides who became "fed up" with the United States and returned home—with or without their husbands—complained of the food, the noise, the rush and —the people. German girls, trained in subservience to husbands, have been more prone to accept what they found. But the idealized pictures of American life that homesick GI's painted have caused many foreign brides to meet a hard disillusionment.

Melting pot marriages are working out all right in the main, according to the Institute for International Education in New York, an organization that assists overseas brides on their arrival. Chief problems were in-laws and housing, the institute reports, and as soon as the couples involved found places of their own in which to live, and got away from relatives, social adjustments became easier.

JAPANESE war brides are doubly handicapped by being of a different race and from a former enemy country. But they have to their advantage the great power of adaptation of the Japanese woman and her tremendous eagerness to learn.

One thing that should work to the advantage of both German and Japanese brides is the widespread fear of Russia. This channels off much of the aggressive feeling that might have been visited upon natives of former enemy countries. Perhaps it is fortunate for community peace just now that the Soviet Union has firmly refused to let Soviet brides of Americans join their American husbands.

The rearing of American-Japanese families in American communities will present special problems in widely varying social scenes. For officers and civilians —a surprising number of civilians—as well as enlisted men will be bringing home Japanese wives, and in many instances children. If every community receiving these had an Institute for International Education, or other civic organization interested in helping international adjustments on the local level, the situation could be greatly eased, and spade work done on a future problem that cannot be sidetracked.

Shakespeare Solved

I have dissolved a portion of Mr. Antonio Spiggonio's letter of August 10 in a uranium bath in my laboratory, bombarding the solution with some stray cosmic rays that were lying around, filtered through a lead pencil and paraffin (the characteristically American anti-Iberianistic substitute for heavy water).

The resulting emulsoid proves conclusively that Senor Spiggonio is correct. The amazing analysis of Shakespeare's works should have been published in the American press, but King Features have been much too busy lately with Buck Rogers' exploits to take notice of it.

Loyalty Information

By Mark Sullivan

Public Diclosure

THERE IS A country with which we are close to war, men completely informed and calm in temperament estimate the chance at 50-50. That country maintains spies in the United States. In addition, there are large numbers of sympathizers with that country and its ideology, some of them avowed and openly organized as Communists, many more unavowed and secret.

Sullivan

There is a suspicion that some Communists or persons sympathizing with that cult or cooperating with Russian agents are or have been recently in offices of our Government. To investigate this a Senate subcommittee has been set up, headed by an especially able Senator, careful in his procedure, Ferguson of Michigan. He asks a branch of the executive department to give him information having to do with the loyalty of a former employe in that department.

THEREUPON President Truman takes a hand, an angry hand. He directs the department head not to give Senator Ferguson's subcommittee the information it asked for. Then, at a press conference, the President deals at length with this incident. With a tone and manner vehemently denunciatory he reads to the newsmen a general order he has issued. The order permits heads of departments to give to committees of Congress certain types of information, but "no information of any sort relating to the employe's loyalty, and no investigative data of any type, whether relating to loyalty or other aspects of the individual's record, shall be included in the material submitted to a congressional committee. . . ."

The public's interest in this incident was put in a terse question by a newsman: "But, Mr. President, don't you think the American people are entitled to this information?"

The President's answer was belligerent, lengthy, and diffuse—and also beside the point and unconvincing. He said that the information involved had been submitted to a grand jury and that the grand jury had not returned an indictment. Therein is one of many misconceptions about which the public should be more clear than Mr. Truman apparently is. The kind and degree of evidence required for a criminal indictment by a grand jury is much greater than would meet the purposes of a Senate committee investigating suspicion of disloyalty in Government departments.

Another of Mr. Truman's sprawling answers was enlightening, not on the issue involved but on the probable reason for his position and his anger. He said that the work of the Senate committee and also a similar committee of the House was a "red herring" designed to divert the attention of the country from the failure of Congress to pass legislation President Truman had demanded.

That answer has real light. Mr. Truman called the special session of Congress during the presidential campaign, it is commonly accepted, for a political purpose—to put on the Republicans in control, before the eyes of the country, blame for the high cost of living and failure to pass legislation which Mr. Truman demanded. His "red herring" assertion is that the Republicans in Congress brought forward investigations into charges of Communists or Communist sympathizers in the executive department as counter-politics. As to the timing of the investigations, there may or may not be some justification for what Mr. Truman charges, though in fact the investigating committees have been set up for some time; one of them has been at work for years.

BUT WHAT is that to the public interest? Does it matter whether the public is informed of Communists or Communist sympathizers in the Government during and immediately after a special session of Congress, or at a later stage of the presidential campaign, or at any other time? A calm evaluation of the central issue, our relation to Russia and whether agents of that country or Communists or sympathizers with communism have penetrated our Government—or indeed an excited evaluation, which the issue would justify—is larger than any detail of domestic political strategy.

Much of the fate of our country depends upon how our people react to the issue involved in this incident. Communist tactics and propaganda, infinitely cunning, have played upon many of our people who are as far as possible from being Communists, by emphasizing civil rights, here involved in the right of Government employes to protection against charges which may turn out to be unfounded. Here is a bedeviling paradox of our time. Civil rights are a sacred American principle. But civil rights as involved in this incident are invoked in a way which serves the interest of a cult which, if its purpose should be successful, would destroy every civil right whatever.

Nightstick Bars Red's Entry . . .

HOSPITAL GUARD—Zot Chepurnykh (right), Soviet vice consul in New York City, making a third attempt to see Mrs. Oksana Kosenkina at Roosevelt Hospital, is barred by a policeman's nightstick held across a doorway. Chepurnykh was finally permitted to see the Russian school teacher, who was injured in a three-story jump from the Soviet Consulate Building. She rejected his suggestion that she be moved to another hospital recovery might require several months.

Was Prisoner, Teacher Says

While the battle over her custody continued in New York, Washington, and Moscow, at the hospital she made today her first clear declaration of the reason for her act.

It came as Zot I. Chepurnykh, Soviet vice consul, stood beside the hospital bed. With him was a consulate secretary and a Russian-speaking New York detective.

The detective, William Dyczko, said the vice consul suggested to Mrs. Kosenkina that she agree to being moved to another hospital.

Her answer, the detective said, was:

"No! You kept me a prisoner. You would not let me go!"

Later Chepurnykh was questioned about the meeting, and did not disclose the teacher's refusal.

Instead, he told newsmen that "it is possible the consul general may have her moved to another hospital so a Russian-trained nurse or observer could be on hand."

Then the vice consul asked a hospital official if a Russian-trained nurse could be put in Mrs. Kosenkina's room. He was told: "I don't think that's possible. You know we are short of beds."

A hospital official said later that "if the patient, herself, expressed a desire not to be moved, her wishes would be respected."

A police official said he had no comment, after a talk with the teacher, on whether legal action would follow her charge that she was imprisoned at the consulate.

This afternoon Mayor William O'Dwyer said the police investigation of Mrs. Kosenkina's fall had been completed.

He said it was being turned over to District Attorney Frank S. Hogan and United States Attorney John F. X. McGohey and a copy will be sent to Attorney General Tom Clark in Washington.

He was asked if there was any evidence of crime in the report. "No comment," he answered.

A short time later Acting District Attorney Joseph A. Sarafite said his office would examine all the police findings "to determine whether any crime has been committed by any person subject to prosecution by this office."

Still later the Kosenkina affair brought the FBI, the city police, and the State Department—a total of nine officials—together for an hour-long conference in the United States attorney's office.

Ernest Gross, State Department legal adviser, said he flew here from Washington to get the local police report so the department could have all the facts before answering the Russian protest.

He made it clear that the State Department is "not participating in any way in the investigation."

Gross said he also gave local authorities information on the Soviet protest because "all agencies want to clear up the allegations raised by the protest."

He said consular officials "are accorded the courtesy of a sort of immunity" because they do governmental work "but no general immunity attaches to them like the immunity that ataches to an Ambassador and members of his official staff."

Both Gross and United States Attorney McGohey declined to say whether the Government would take action against the consular officials if evidence were found that a crime had been committed.

When Gross was asked if the Department of Justice were interested in the case, he said: "I think they have an interest in it."

But Edward Scheida, head of the local FBI office, quickly interjected: "I have no comment on that."

At the consulate, too, it was "No comment." Leonid Fedotov, who said he was secretary of the consulate, told newsmen:

"Mr. Lomakin will have nothing to say to the press today."

An offer of support for Mrs. Kosenkina in any legal fight she may make to stay in the United States came from the American Civil Liberties Union.

The Vice Consul's visit to Mrs. Kosenkina today followed repeated attempts by Soviet officials to see her or get messages to her.

Detective Dyczko told this story of the meeting:

The vice consul and the secretary appeard at the hospital and asked permission to arrange a visit from Consul General Yakov Lomakin.

Dyczko and Inspector Michael E. J. Ledden went to the teacher's room and told her two people from the consulate wanted to speak to her.

"We are going to bring them in and see if you can identify them," they told her.

When the two Russians were led into the room, Mrs. Kosenkina was asked: "Do you know this man?" She answered: "Yes."

"Who is he?" the detective asked. She named the vice consul.

Then Chepurnykh told her Lomakin wanted to see her.

"I do not want to talk to anyone. I do not want to see anyone," she told him.

Then the vice consul suggested her removal to another hospital and she turned down his suggestion. The police inspector led the visitors out.

Reds Lower Flag on Building Of 4-Power Rulers of Berlin

Berlin, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Russians today pulled down their flag over the Allied Kommandatura building and walked out, leaving only the portraits of Lenin and Stalin.

The final walkout came six weeks after the Russians had proclaimed the four-power Kommandatura no longer existed. Since then the Russians had been clearing out their offices.

The four-power Kommandatura had ruled Berlin for three years, but now the only vestige of municipal unity left is the dissension-riddled Germany city government. The Soviet-sponsored Socialist Unity Party (SED) still participates in the overwhelmingly anti-Communist City Council.

Widening of the breach between the east and west came as two four-engined American C-54 planes carrying coal to Soviet-blockaded Berlin crashed while landing at Templehof Airdrome during a heavy rainstorm.

Luck was riding with both crews on this Friday the 13th. The airmen walked away from the crashes.

A third C-54 then reported by radio that it was near Berlin with two engines out of order. The Royal Air Force at Gatow Airfield guided it to a safe landing there.

Despite the rain United States planes made 151 flights with 2029 tons of food and fuel in the 24-hour period ending at 10 a. m.

Unrest mounted in the American zone of Germany over high prices. In city after city women were reported pelting vendors with their own vegetables, smashing eggs on the heads of merchants and overturning food stands. Thousands of workers demonstrated, demanding a voice for labor in industrial management.

Western allied transport authorities gave a chilly reception to an offer from Russian zone railway officials to reopen Berlin's blockaded rail line temporarily to permit trains from western Germany to visit the Soviet-sponsored Leipzig Fair.

Hundreds of U. S. Radio Hams Are Mobilized in German Zone

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 13 (AP).—Hundreds of American "ham" radio operators in Germany were being mobilized today for possible future use in the United States zone.

They were asked to report to U. S. Army signal officers in the American zone in connection with Army plans to set up an emergency communications system.

The action followed closely an Army appeal to all reserve officers in civilian jobs in Germany to register.

The Army plans to establish an extensive network of radio stations at all major military posts throughout the zone, primarily for intrapost communication.

They may be used as a stop-gap method of communication for the United States Army with Berlin should the Russians choose to cut the lines now linking Gen. Lucius D. Clay's Frankfurt headquarters and Berlin.

Owner of Samarine Hideout Unfolds Story of Intrigue

Freehold, N. J., Aug. 13 (AP).—A story of intrigue that surrounded the nine-day disappearance of a freedom-seeking Russian school teacher was unfolded today by an elderly chicken farmer who befriended him.

The teacher was Michael L. Samarine. The farmer was Harry Schibanoff, who said he was imprisoned with Stalin when both were revolutionaries in Russia more than 40 years ago.

Schibanoff said he turned his farm into a refuge for Samarine, his wife and three children at the request of Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, who operates a White Russian retreat in New York State.

The farmer, a naturalized American, said the countess told him a second Soviet teacher — Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina—also sought her help in staying in the United States.

(The woman teacher was "rescued" by Soviet consul officials from the Tolstoy refuge. Yesterday she jumped three stories from the consulate building in New York and was injured seriously.)

Schibanoff recalled the countess feared one of the two teachers might not really be sincere.

"She told me they were afraid to put the two together for fear one or the other might be a (Russian) spy," Schibanoff related.

Samarine convinced Schibanoff he really wanted to sever his Soviet ties at a meeting in a New York City cafeteria.

"He looked at me with tears in his eyes and said: 'Mr. Schibanoff, if I can't stay here I won't go to Russia. I will kill myself and my family.'"

Schibanoff said he then agreed to "take the Samarines to Freehold." This was on July 31.

News of Samarine's escape from Soviet surveillance reached the public on August 7, the day that Mrs. Kosenkina was "rescued" from the White Russian refuge by the Red Russians.

On August 8 Countess Tolstoy came to Schibanoff's farm, he related, and with three men—he said they were FBI agents—took Samarine to another hideout. Samarine's wife and children left a few days later.

Schibanoff insists the Samarines came to his farm "of their own free will."

Gouzenko Gets Assignment To Serve Soviet in Canada

their eventual defeat. In China we have progressed to the stage where military leaders trained in the Soviet are in actual operation against the government. In South America and Cuba, we have already established a firm foundation. As for the United States, we believe postwar unrest within, plus the influence of the world revolution developing without, will soon make it ripe for Communist domination. England, the foreign service considers, is its most important endeavor, because England's influence now stretches over four continents and it is in this campaign that you, Gouzenko, will be directly concerned."

I leaned forward, trying to curb my eagerness:

"Is it to England I'm being assigned, comrade captain?"

He shook his head. "No, not to England, but to the most fertile field of England's influence. You are slated for service in Canada. How does that suit you?"

I was completely taken aback, but managed to answer evenly. "It will suit me very well."

The captain smiled in approval. "And so it should. Canada is a vast country, sparsely populated and with almost unlimited resources. In recent years, and even since the start of the war, the party's success there has exceeded our most optimistic expectations; but there is still formidable opposition to overcome. As a softening measure, leading to complete demoralization before military action, the party is concentrating on gaining control of labor unions . . ."

Would Infiltrate Unions

"How?" I interrupted.

"That does not concern you directly," the captain replied, "since your work will be concerned basically with handling military information; but I believe in outlining the broad scheme to agents leaving for foreign service, lest ignorance cause them to make some dangerous blunder in word or deed outside their immediate range of activities. As for your question about how control of labor unions is obtained, the technique is infiltration."

He went on to enlarge.

"By infiltration I mean the assigning of trained agents to join the unions. They diplomatically and gradually attract attention at union meetings. Eventually, they display agressiveness in demanding more privileges or protesting against infringement of workingmen's rights. Almost invariably our agents are appointed to executive posts in the unions. Once there, it is fairly simple to agitate against controlling executives while lining up potential followers of the party line. Once enough support is assured, union meetings can be prolonged until the bulk of opposition has left the hall, when it is quite simple to pass resolutions on programs in accordance with Communist designs, but enough of this . . ."

He reached for a typewritten booklet on his desk and handed it to me. On the cover, it large type, was stamped the word "secret!"

"This contains instructions for people traveling abroad," he said.

There were detailed instructions on how to act at receptions, in restaurants, in underground railways and even how to engage a taxi. Everywhere the warning against foreigners' wiles was stressed.

"Americans," one item declared, "are particularly adept at entangling you under the mask of friendship. They like to employ a free and easy air in meeting you so that your natural caution is relaxed. They pretend to be telling you secrets as a friend and, especially if drinking, you might be inclined to fall in with the mood of the party. Do not trust the supposedly friendly American. He is the most dangerous type of foreigner."

(Tomorrow: Gouzenko is told that he will operate under the disguise of a civilian translator at Soviet Embassy in Ottawa, flies to Canada.)

slav Molotov made to Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, American Ambassador, against the "kidnapings," including his demand that both teachers be released" immediately and that all concerned in their cases be punished.

Izvestia Blast

It was clear from Molotov's protest and newspaper articles that the official Soviet position is that an organized plot with official American connivance was responsible for the incident.

The government newspaper organ Izvestia said:

"Molotov's statement to Smith . . . is the voice of the whole Soviet land, which does not permit any offense to its people no matter where they are . . .

"Soviet public opinion demands the liberation of the abducted Soviet citizens, detailed investigation of this outrageous crime and proper punishment of the culprits.

"It demands that the dirty hands of political gangsters do not dare to touch citizens of the great Soviet power."

Portugal Has Quake

Lisbon, Portugal, Aug. 13 (U.P.).—A 3-second earthquake shook northern Portugal at midnight Thursday, causing near panic in many places. No casualties were reported, and damage was slight.

Danube Parley Vote Excludes Western Allies

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Aug. 13 (U.P.).—The Soviet Union and six of her satellites today voted to exclude the United States, Britain and France from membership on the proposed Danubian commission, which will control traffic on the 727-mile European artery.

Delegates to the Danubian conference voted 7 to 3, as usual, on article 5 of the Soviet draft on control of the Danube. It provides that only Danubian states shall be represented on the commission.

The same 7-to-3 majority defeated an American amendment providing that the commission should have representative of each of the eastern states, plus Austria, France, Britain, the United States and eventually Germany.

The conference was marked by a harsh exchange between the United States and Russia. Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky charged the Marshall Plan constitutes an economic dictatorship over economically weaker states. United States delegate Cavendish Cannon replied that no mention had been made of the millions of tons of United States vessels which have been turned over to European nations and without which their trade would be hampered.

All the States which voted for the Soviet membership proposal will be members of the commission. They are Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania, Yugoslavia, the Soviet Ukraine and Russia. No specific mention was made of Austria or Germany. The Danube runs through or borders upon all these States.

Britain received another rebuff today when Dr. Ales Bebler, Yugoslav delegate, rejected a British proposal that Belgrade should be the seat of the Danube commission. Bebler said he already had accepted a Russian proposal that the commission should sit at Galatz, Romania.

U. S. Accused By Yugoslavia Of Trieste Plot

Lake Success, Aug. 13 (AP).—Yugoslavia today asked the Security Council to find the United States and Britain guilty of violating the Italian peace treaty in the administration of Trieste.

Dr. Josea Vilfan, Yugoslav representative, offered a resolution condemning the American-British policy. As Yugoslavia is not a member of the Council, the resolution can be voted upon only if it is sponsored by a regular delegate. Russia and the Soviet Ukraine have given strong support to Yugoslavia and may take this step.

Council observers saw no chance for the Yugoslav resolution to pass.

The gist of the Yugoslav charge is that the two western powers are plotting to turn over to Italy the British-American zone in the free territory.

Atom Plant Force To Vote on Second Hike in 9 Months

Oak Ridge, Tenn., Aug. 13 (AP).—Three thousand atomic plant workers will vote soon on whether to accept their second wage boost within nine months.

Carbide &, Carbon Chemicals Corp. and Local 288, CIO United Chemical Workers, agreed late last night on increases ranging from 5 to 24 cents an hour.

The union and company announced jointly that the wage negotiations begun a month ago were the shortest in the history of this atomic city.

They were a sequel to extended negotiations that ended in a contract last December 9. That contract provided wage increases of 10 cents an hour and shift differential and classification adjustments.

It contained also a clause for reopening wage negotiations in 8 months and an 18-month no-strike agreement.

Douglas and Massigli called on Strang earlier today. They met with him separately.

A diplomatic source said shortly afterward there is "no real justification" for pessimistic reports on the possible outcome of the Moscow conversations.

Voice of America Tells Kosenkina Story

New York, Aug. 13 (U.P.).—An official of the Voice of America was jubilant today as State Department transmitters broadcast to peoples behind the iron curtain the story of how Mrs. Oksana Kosenkina took a desperate leap to freedom yesterday.

"This is what we have been waiting for in our war of words," the official said. "This is something that can be easily understood by people all over the world."

Diplomatic observers were speculating upon the possible effect the cloak-and-dagger expose would have upon the relationship between Jacob Lomakin, Soviet consul general, and the Kremlin.

While not venturing to guess what would eventually happen to Lomakin, they anticipated that he would at least be recalled to Moscow.

Memorial Is Planned In Pacific

Three years ago today firing ceased in the Second World War.

While the armed services and other organized groups celebrate the official VJ-Day, September 2, the date of Japan's formal surrender, today's anniversary is being used by a group of Pacific veterans to further plans for a living memorial to the war dead of the Pacific.

The veterans' group, known as the Pacific War Memorial, proposes to set up its memorial in the form of field stations for scientific research on some of the Pacific islands.

Founded by Col. Archibald Roosevelt, only living son of Theodore Roosevelt, the Pacific War Memorial has as its president Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, jr., U.S.A. retired, who was commander of Army forces, Pacific Ocean areas, from 1943 to 1946.

General Richardson has announced that the objects of the memorial's research will include scientific knowledge of diseases, insects and weather in the region, especially as these islands are "now ours under an exclusive trusteeship of the United States."

The members of the memorial hope to set aside parks for conservation, where animals and plants may be studied by scientists. Also planned is the study of minerals and fish in the ocean.

The memorial, whose offices are at 44 W. 56th st., New York, depends for its development on contributions and on members' dues, General Richardson said.

Former Czech Official Flees To U. S. Zone

Hof, Germany, Aug. 13 (AP).—Prof. Vladislav Brdlik, former Czechoslovak Minister of Agriculture, has joined the ranks of fugitives from his Communist-dominated country.

Brdlik arrived Tuesday with his wife at the Moschendorf refugee camp here, in the United States occupation zone of Germany. He said he was aided by "certain groups" in Czechoslovakia.

Brdlik, 69, a member of the now defunct Agrarian Party, told a reporter he escaped despite the fact he has children at home. He said he decided to leave "because I feel I am still able to help my friends outside Czechoslovakia and I could not refuse when they called me."

Brdlik made his way into Bavaria from the Czech border town of Asch, he said.

Troop Mutiny Is Put Down, Burmese Say

Rangoon, Burma, Aug. 13 (AP).—Loyal government forces have routed mutinous troops of the Burma Rifles, who attempted to advance on Rangoon from Prome, 160 miles to the north, and seize power, a government statement announced today.

The battalion left Prome Tuesday in 26 trucks. En route it ran into an ambush of loyal government troops, supported by aircraft, the statement said. Planes machine-gunned the trucks, causing heavy casualties and the mutineers retreated toward Prome.

Another group of 350 Burmese soldiers, including some members of the Burma Rifles and men of a general transport company, fled from their station at Mingaladon Tuesday, carrying arms and ammunition.

The trucks were recaptured and 15 men surrendered, the government added.

Southard Resigns Post at Treasury

Frank A. Southard, jr., resigned yesterday as director of the office of international finance in the Treasury Department to become associate director of research and statistics for the Federal Reserve Board.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder announced, however, that Southard will continue to advise on international money problems with the title of special assistant.

'Cease Fire' Order Ignored In Holy City

Jerusalem, Aug. 13 (AP).—Jews and Arabs battled in Jerusalem today—the day Count Folke Bernadotte had set for a cease fire which he had hoped would bring peace to the Holy City.

(Bernadotte, the U. N. mediator, said in Rome the Jews had rejected his latest attempts for ending warfare in Jerusalem. "They are taking an enormous responsibility," he declared. He had asked for a cease fire effective after 6 a. m. (2 a. m., E. D. T) today. The Arabs agreed.

(The Jews said they would continue to return Arab fire.)

Israel army sources said one Jew was killed and several wounded in fighting early today. The legion troops fired 6 and 25-pound shells in a vain attempt to penetrate Jewish positions, these sources said.

Fighting has persisted in Jerusalem despite the U. N. truce on Palestine.

A United Nations report said three saboteurs transported by Arab Legion drivers in legion trucks blew up the Latrun pumping station yesterday.

The blast wrecked immediate hopes of the United Nations to deliver water to Jerusalem over the pipeline from the coast. It angered the Israeli government, which said the blast constituted a grave breach of the U. N. truce.

The first food convoy under U. N. supervision reached the Holy City today from Tel Aviv over the regular highway via Latrun.

Greeks Strike At Last Rebel Supply Route

Athens, Aug. 13 (AP).—Greek Army troops today began closing the Communist guerillas' last major supply route through the Grammos Mountains to Albania, a general staff spokesman said.

Columns driving west from Alevitsa gained positions within 2½ miles—easy artillery range—of the main highway through Sliminitsa. The informant said a secondary road already has been cut by Greek units.

At the northeastern end of the front Greek troops are being shelled by guns inside Albania, the government announced. The general staff sopkesman said Greek soldiers have heard orders to fire being given in the Albanian language.

A communique said the army lost 16 killed and 104 wounded in the last two days in the northeastern sector. Rebel losses were given as 86 killed and 64 captured.

The guerilla radio claimed tonight that rebel forces had shot down a Greek plane. The broadcast, heard in London, said 516 Greek soldieds were killed and wounded in fighting yesterday in the Grammos Mountains area.

The President's Calling List

President Truman yesterday had the following White House appointments:

10 a. m.—Cabinet.

11—Secretary of the Army Royall, with J. E. S. Thorpe of North Carolina.

11:15—Budget Director Webb.

11:45—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, head of Selective Service.

12:15 p. m.—Paul G. Hoffman ECA Administrator.

12:30—Owen J. Roberts, former associate justice of Supreme Court.

New Drug Holds Hope For Leukemia Victims

San Francisco, Aug. 13 (AP).—A recently developed chemical relative of one of the B vitamins has made a promising start against leukemia in children, the American Pharmaceutical Association was told today.

"Preliminary cures" have been obtained, said Dr. Coy W. Waller, researcher for Lederle Laboratories, Pearl River, N. Y., in a high percentage of youngsters under experimental treatment in several hospitals.

It still is too early to tell whether the drug justifiably can be called a real cure, Dr. Waller added. Also it is toxic to some patients, particularly adults.

Bonds of 23 Firms Added To Legal List

By S. Oliver Goodman

Bond issues of 23 organizations have been added to the list of legal investments for trust funds in the District of Columbia, according to Theodore Cogswell, District Register of Wills. The list is issued semi-annually.

Among the additions are:

Bonds of the Baltimore & Ohio; Boston & Maine; Chicago Great Western; Delaware & Hudson; Erie; Duluth Missabe & Iron Range; Gulf Mobile & Ohio, and the Maine Central Railroads.

Bonds of Buffalo Niagara Electric; Central Indiana Gas; Dayton Power & Light; Madison Gas & Electric; Niagara Falls Power; Pennsylvania Power; Public Service of Indiana; New England Power; West Penn Power, and Commonwealth Edison companies.

Bonds of Rock Island County Metropolitan Airport Authority; Greater Rockford Airport Authority; Minneapolis-St. Paul Metropolitan Airport Commission, and Madison Metropolitan Sewerage District.

Most of the removals, Cogswell pointed out, are issues which have been called or matured.

MORE POPULAR: The relative popularity of the bargain basement is increasing, current reports indicate. Since the latter part of 1946, department store shoppers have been paying more attention to the cheapen merchandise ordinarily found in the basement. For 1947, dollar sales in basement stores as reported to the Federal Reserve Board were 14.8 per cent greater than for 1946, while sales in main stores rose only 4.5 per cent. Same trend is evident in 1948. For first five months this year, gain in sales over same 1947 period was 9.9 per cent for basement stores and 3.4 per cent for main stores.

SCHOOL BONDS: Montgomery County, Md., will offer at competitive sale on August 24 an issue of three million dollars in school bonds. The bonds, which are dated September 1, 1948, will mature September 1, 1949 to 1968.

ODD LOTS: Canadian-made General Motors cars have been increased about 8 per cent, while Ford Motor Co. of Canada, Ltd., boosted prices from $110 to $200 . . . Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co. asked ICC authority to issue $5,500,000 of equipment trust certificates . . . Humble Oil & Refining Co. this week brought in its first oil well, drilling 8 miles offshore from Grand Isle, La., from a $1,200,000 platform . . . Patent officials say fewer than 25 per cent of all devices patented ever return any money to their inventors, and fewer than 5 per cent ever get into the "big money" class . . . A major cigarette maker soon will start advertising feather-free smokes," claiming the downy debris sometimes gets mixed with tobacco leaves in curing sheds . . . More than 1000 Chevrolets with special dual controls have been allocated by the General Motors division to high schools all over the country for the training of young drivers.

STORE SALES: Washington department store sales in week ended August 7 rose 11 per cent over the same 1947 week, Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported last night. For the four weeks ended August 7, local store sales were reported 5 per cent improved. Regionally, store sales in the Fifth Federal Reserve District climbed 12 per cent for the latest week and 8 per cent for the four-week period.

COMMENT: The financial plight of the Nation's airlines stems in part from their attempt to sell premium merchandise at bargain prices, according to Warren Lee Pierson of Washington, chairman of Trans-World Airline. Pierson, commenting on President Truman's order for a financial investigation of the airlines, likened the position of airlines to the auto driver who pays a toll fee to drive on a fast, smooth parkway rather than struggle through crowded traffic. "The airlines," he said, "have paid a premium without knowing it and have tried to sell their product at the price of ordinary travel . . . The railroads have realistically faced rising costs by increasing fares up to 50 per cent over prewar rates. The airlines have, conversely, tried to operate at below prewar fare levels."

FIGURES: Americans spent 14.4 billion dollars last year for rent, including rental value of owner-occupied homes. In the same 12 months, the Commerce Department reports they expended nearly nine billion dollars for alcoholic beverages.

EARNINGS: Burroughs Adding Machine Co. reported net income of $6,604,781 for the first six months this year, equal to $1.32 a common share, compared with $2,657,382 or 53 cents a share in the same period last year. Other earnings reports:

Two Billion Deficit In Budget Indicated

By The Associated Press

President Truman may notify the country this weekend that it faces a budget deficit this fiscal year, ending next June 30.

The midyear budget review, due shortly from the White House, will show a sharp reversal from the President's forecast in January. Then a healthy $4,800,000,000 surplus was foreseen for fiscal 1949.

In the revised budget message, Mr. Truman is expected to lay heavy stress on one factor in the changed fiscal picture—the income tax cut passed by the Republican Congress over his veto.

Because of that $4,600,000,000 drop in revenues, plus heavy unforeseen outlays for national defense, a high fiscal official reporter privately yesterday that "it looks as if we'll show a deficit."

As long as a month ago some officials guessed that the margin of spending over income might be two billion dollars. Booming business conditions, which mean better tax collections, may reduce the margin.

Some officials have estimated that Federal spending may approach 42 billion dollars with income around 40 billion dollars. Last January the President forecast income at $44,500,000,000 and spending only $39,700,000,000.

Dingell Asserts GOP 'Juggled' Budget

By the United Press

Representative John D. Dingell (D., Mich.) yesterday accused Representatives Harold Knutson (R., Minn.) and John Taber (R., N. Y.) of playing "sleight-of-hand" with budget figures in an effort to show that Congress made a substantial cut in President Truman's 1949 budget.

Knutson is chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee and Taber heads the Appropriations Committee.

Dingell, who often speaks for the Administration on tax affairs, said Knutson points with pride to an $8,400,000,000 budgetary surplus in fiscal 1948, but "fails to mention that his rich-relief income and estate tax reduction bill threatens us with a deficit in fiscal 1949."

To cover up this deceit, Dingell said, House Republicans inserted a provision in the European Recovery Program bill to "make believe" that three billion dollars of the 1949 Marshall Plan aid was spent in 1948.

Diplomat Named Envoy to Canada

LAURENCE A. STEINHARDT, a career diplomat, was appointed United States Ambassador to Canada yesterday by President Truman. Steinhardt has previously represented this country as envoy to Russia, Czechoslovakia and Turkey. He succeeds Ray Atherton, who was named a member of the United States delegation to the U. N. General Assembly in Paris, September 21

Canada Ban On Cattle Ends Monday

By The Associated Press

Canada on Monday will lift its six-year ban on shipments of beef cattle and dressed beef to the United States.

The action, announced jointly yesterday by the Canadian government in Ottawa and by the United States Agriculture Department, will have little if any immediate effect on American meat supplies and prices, officials here said. Canada has no great numbers of cattle available for immediate export.

The announcement said it is believed Canada may be able to ship this country about 100,000 head by the end of the year. This number compares with an estimated 32,000,000 head expected to be slaughtered in this country this year.

Most of the cattle will be of a type usually kept on feed for further fattening.

The 1942 Canadian embargo was designed to make Canadian meats available for Britain and to help control prices and rationing.

On August 3, an embargo on sheep, lamb, mutton and lamb carcasses was lifted.

The Canadian cattle will be subject to an import duty of 1.5 cents a pound and dressed beef and veal at 3 cents a pound.

Canada Facing 25 Pct. Hike in Beef Cost

Ottawa, Aug. 13 (AP).—Increases ranging up to 25 per cent in the retail price of beef in Canada were freely predicted today following removal of the ban on shipment of beef to the United States.

Here are today's cattle prices at Toronto and Chicago:

Good steers: Toronto, 19 to 23 cents a pound; Chicago, 26 to 40 cents.

Yearlings: Toronto, 25 cents; Chicago, 26 to 40 cents.

Heifers: Toronto, 18 to 20 cents; Chicago, 24 to 37 cents.

Good cows: Toronto, 13 to 14 cents; Chicago, 19 to 23 cents.

Bay State for Truman, Tobin Says

The new Secretary of Labor, Maurice J. Tobin, predicted that President Truman would carry Massachusetts in November by 200,000.

Sherman Hibbitt, unofficial mayor of New York's huge Negro community, Harlem, called on President Truman to pledge his support.

"We are supporting President Truman 100 per cent, and without a doubt he will carry Harlem," Hibbitt told reporters.

He disclosed that he had made a $1000 contribution to the National Citizens Committee for the re-election of President Truman.

U. S. Commission Asks Bids For Super-Liner

The Maritime Commission yesterday called for bids for the construction of a "super-liner" to be built for the United States Lines. It will be the largest and fastest merchant ship ever constructed in this country.

Plans call for a ship 980 feet long to carry upwards of 2000 passengers with a speed of 28 to 30 knots.

Professions May Face Draft

der the Selective Service Act of 1948. After being drafted they can be commissioned in the Medical Corps or the Dental Corps.

But in that case they can't be paid the $1200 a year provided by Congress for doctors in addition to their base pay as officers. That is reserved for volunteers.

The concern of the armed services, and particularly of the Army, over doctors is tied up directly with the success of the new draft act itself. The act provides that nobody can be drafted "until adequate provision shall have been made for . . . medical care and hospital accommodations."

To meet this requirement for "adequate" care, the Surgeon General's Office calculates that it will need for the Army and Air Force by next July at least 3900 additional doctors. Futhermore, some 1300 internes and residents will be needed for its graduate professional training program.

Since the inception of its present intensive program to recruit medical officers, the Surgeon General's Office has placed on active duty an average of 42 qualified doctors a month. This total of about 500 a year just about takes care of normal attrition due to death, retirement, resignation and relief from active duty.

The proposed amendment for a draft of professional and technical people must be approved by Department of National Defense before it can be submitted to Congress. There was little doubt here, however, that approval of some such proposed legislation would be forthcoming in view of the urgent necessity for recruiting the doctor strength of the armed forces.

Chairman Gurney (R., S. Dak.) of the Senate Military Committee said when the draft bill was reported out of conference that it was thought better to give doctors an opportunity to volunteer before acting on a professional draft. He indicated then that if volunteers did not meet the needs of the services a draft of doctors would be considered.

Floods Ravage North England And Scotland

London, Aug. 13 (AP).—Floods which followed torrential rains inundated 1000 square miles of Scotland and northern England today. Property damage is expected to total approximately four million dollars.

Crops flattened by storms 10 days ago suffered further from the soaking and battering. Many cattle, horses and sheep drowned in the swollen streams. Flooded Biel Burn in southeastern Scotland swept domestic animals out to sea.

Wide sections of Europe also were hit by the summer's heaviest rains. Wind, rain, hail and electrical storms struck northern Italy raising streams almost to flood level near Bolzano.

The French weather bureau said the first 10 days of August had been the wettest in 10 years. A two-hour cloudburst flooded Berlin's streets today.

Opposed Hitler Without Result, High Aides Claim

Nuernberg, Germany, Aug. 13 (U.P.).—Former members of the Nazi High Command told a War Crimes Court today that they "opposed Hitler's instructions" wherever possible, but that they were unable to influence his policies at home or abroad.

Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm von Leeb, speaking for 12 Nazi generals and one admiral on trial here, said that Nazi military leaders were forced to fight against the enemy, and at the same time against the party and our own superiors at home."

Von Leeb's statement was the last testimony taken before the trial of Hitler's commanders adjourned until mid-September. Verdicts will probably be handed down at that time.

Act of God Caused Bathtub Overflow, Parisian Maintains

Paris, Aug. 13 (AP).—Richard Curt declared in court today that the flooding of his neighbor's apartment was an act of God, not a fault of Curt's.

A gust of wind shut the door of Curt's apartment when he stepped outside to pick up a special delivery letter on his doorstep just as he was stepping into the bathtub. He found himself locked out, with nothing to wear but the doormat.

Police arrested him for indecent exposure while he was hunting for the superintendent to let him back in. After 45 minutes of explanation, he was allowed to return home, wearing a gendarme's cape.

By that time his bathtub had overflowed, drenching the apartment downstairs. Curt's neighbors sued for damages.

The court reserved decision.

Plane Down In Canada May Have D.C. Pilot

Edmonton, Alberta, Aug. 13 (AP).—Northwest Command Headquarters said today it had a report from the Canadian mounted police at Grande Prairie, Alberta, that a low-flying plane with engine trouble crashed late Saturday near Kleskun Hill, 13 miles northeast of Grande Prairie.

Air Force officials think it might be the Cessna 140 piloted by Dr. V. B. Murray, a United States Health Service physician, of 4309 Van Ness st. nw., Washington, D. C., missing since Saturday on a flight between Edmonton and Grande Prairie, 242 airmiles northwest.

A civilian pilot of Grande Prairie has taken off to search the area and RCAF rescue men are standing by in Edmonton, ready to take off as soon as wreckage is sighted.

Falls Church Council Meets

sion was the qualifications of applicants for several town positions which will be open when Falls Church becomes a second-class city officially next Monday.

Under the new charter, the council must appoint three additional councilmen, a commissioner of revenue and a city treasurer.

Although applicants for all positions were discussed, the group did not reach complete agreement as to whom shall be appointed, one member of the body disclosed. The council, however, cannot act officially on any municipal matter until after it takes office, it was pointed out.

New members of the body also were briefed by Town Attorney LaRue Van Meter on procedure which would be followed by the city in the event it wishes to annex part of adjacent Fairfax County.

Annexation proceedings have been under consideration for more than a year.

Besides Mayor Albert M. Orme, councilmen-elect at the meeting were Boyd Case and Mrs. Merrill Lee Chanel, who will become the first woman council member to serve the town in nearly 25 years. Holdovers are Archie Munson, Harry McCarthy, John C. McRae and Sherman Wells.

Flanders to Spend Vacation Aiding Scot Lobstermen

By The Associated Press

Senator Ralph E. Flanders (R., Vt.) disclosed yesterday he will fly to Scotland next week on his vacation and try his hand as a lobstermonger.

The former machine tool inventor, manufacturer, economist and Federal Reserve Bank president explained:

"I always am dipping into things I don't know anything about. I've become interested in helping the Scottish fishermen on the isle of Barra store and market their lobsters.

"I learned that lobster had to be stored until there are enough to market." Then they must be kept fed and healthy, so they won't eat each other.

"I've accumulated a lot of information on lobster storage and marketing from the lobster industries in Maine and Nova Scotia as well as from the United States and Canadian governments. Now I want to see just how it works out."

MacArthur to Attend Korean Inauguration

Tokyo, Aug. 13 (AP).—For the second time since the occupation began, General MacArthur will leave Japan to witness the inauguration of a new republic in the Orient.

MacArthur today notified President Syngman Rhee of Korea he and Mrs. MacArthur would "be delighted" to attend the inauguration of the government of the new Korean republic in Seoul Sunday.

USES to Drop One D. C. Official; Another Appeals

John J. Nicro, one of two officials of the District office of the United States Employment Service ordered dropped by the Civil Service Commission, is being dismissed, Director Robert C. Goodwin of the USES said yesterday.

The other official, Joseph A. Pariseau, is regarded as having special qualifications for the job of placement officer which he holds, Goodwin said, and he has appealed to the CSC on that basis.

The director explained the two men were ordered dismissed under a June 7 order, because they were war service appointees without Civil Service status. Later, a cut in USES funds resulted in a decision to eliminate one or both jobs, he said.

Carusi Is Appointed DP Commission Head

President Truman yesterday gave a recess appointment to Ugo Carusi to be chairman of the Displaced Persons Commission. Carusi is a former immigration commissioner.

Other members appointed by Mr. Truman to the DP commission were Edward M. O'Connor of New York and Harry N. Rosenfield of New York. The commission was set up under terms of the Displaced Persons Act, which allows admission to this country of about 200,000 European DP's in the next two years.

ple live here now than in 1920. (The population today is 143,400,000.) Other things that have contributed to the expense bulge are the unprecedented national debt (resulting largely from the second World War), national defense, foreign aid, veterans' benefits and the increase in Federal services to taxpayers as a result of the so-called New Deal "reforms."

The percentage of national income devoted to Federal spending as a result of increased taxes, however, has more than doubled in that span of time.

The $6,403,343,000 spent by the Treasury in 1920 was 9.1 per cent of total national income then. If present rates of Federal spending and national income continue, the Government outlay in this fiscal year will be a little more than 19 per cent of the national income.

On a per capita basis, it cost $60 for every man, woman and child to operate the Federal Government in 1920. The cost per person today has increased to about $300, not including the expense of State and local governments.

Roosevelt Raps GOP for Stand On Civil Rights

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 13 (U.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., today accused the Republican Party of "hiding" behind a Southern filibuster to "conceal from the public its two-faced stand on the civil rights question."

Making the keynote address at the State Democratic convention, Roosevelt said "any civil rights laws which the Republicans really wanted could have been passed" during the recent special session of Congress.

"All through the Eightieth Congress, the Republican leadership has known that there are enough votes in the Senate to enforce cloture on any debate," Roosevelt said.

Cornerstone Rites To Be Held Today

Cornerstone-laying services for the new St. Michael's Episcopal Church, North Ivanhoe st. and 11th rd., Arlington, will take place at 3 p. m. today.

The Rev. Crawford W. Brown, Canon Precentor of the Washington Cathedral, will speak at the ceremony. The Rev. George C. Weiser, rector, and members of Kemper Masonic Lodge 64, will also participate in the services.

Ground for the present building, which is the first unit of a proposed plant, was broken June 14. Mr. Weiser said the congregation hopes to hold first services on Christmas Day.

The new building, which will seat 175, will be used for a church for the present, but is actually the parish hall of the proposed plant. It has a seating capacity of 175.

Recreational facilities and an assembly hall are to be housed in the basement of the semi-Gothic stone structure. Later a church seating 500 and an educational wing will be added to complete the church unit.

First services at St. Michael's Church were held in a house in Arlington in 1945. Since the spring of 1947 services have been held at the Walter Reed School, North McKinley rd. and Washington blvd.

The congregation was organized in February of 1947 and Mr. Weiser became rector in November of 1947. At the first meeting the congregation numbered 22—today there is a membership of about 100 families.

Guest Preachers Fill Pulpits Of Vacationers in Summer

By Martha J. Hall
Post Reporter

During the summer Washington pulpits are filled by guest ministers while the city's clergymen are on vacation.

Where do these speakers come from? Who are they? What brings them here?

The answers to these question reveal that preachers seldom have a real vacation. They may be away from the home church, but they still preach on Sundays.

The Rev. Thomas M. Steen, director of the Department of Christian Education of the Washington Federation of Churches, said the federation keeps a list of available men on hand. These speakers, who are of all denominations, are denominational officers, federation staff members, or retired clergymen.

At the D. C. Baptist Convention, Dr. M. C. Stith described August as the "trouble month." Individual churches make their own arrangements, but the convention is often called upon for help, he said.

Visitors Forewarn of Arrival

Baptist ministers who plan to visit in Washington during the summer write the convention and tell it when they will be here. This list, along with the names of retired men and ministers who are now doing other work, is sent to the churches.

Dr. Stith pointed out that sometimes preachers change their minds and decide not to come here. If arrangements for them to speak have been made, a convention staff member is often called upon at the last minute to fill the vacancy.

The procedure at the Presbytery of Washington City is similar. The list of preachers also includes several missionaries, men doing research at the Library of Congress and chaplains at local institutions.

A spokesman at the Presbytery said that when a church calls a minister, it tells him how much vacation he will get—usually a month.

Sherrier Keeps List

At New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, James Sherrier, clerk of the sessions, has a list of men who have spoken there in the past. They may be friends of the minister, denominated officers, or men church members have heard in other cities.

Sherrier said the pulpit committee attempts to get men from the nearby area, or who will be visiting in Washington. When a preacher has no relatives or friends in the city, the pulpit committee makes arrangements for him to have a place to stay.

Clergymen sometimes "swap" pulpits during the summer. Miss Edith Welch, secretary of the executive council of the Episcopal Diocese of Washington, said. Thus, a man may speak in a New Hampshire pulpit in August, while the New Hampshire man takes over here.

In other cases, clergymen with nearby churches combine services, and take turns handling parish work. Army and Navy chaplains, men who have no parish, and Washington Cahtedral officials, help out with Episcopal churches and missions in the summer, she said.

2 Clergymen To Leave for World Session

Two Washington clergymen will leave this week to attend the first assembly of the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam, Holland.

The Amsterdam meetings open August 22 and will continue through September 4. Representatives of 148 churchs from 42 countries will gather there to form the World Council.

The Rev. T. T. Roberts, pastor of Minnesota Avenue Christian Church, Minnesota ave. and C sts. se., will leave here Wednesday and fly to Amsterdam from New York on Thursday.

The trip to the World Council was given to Mr. Roberts by his congregation in recognition of his 12 years of service at the church.

Mr. Roberts, who said he was very much surprised and delighted at receiving the trip, will be an official visitor at the assembly meetings. He will represent the Disciples of Christ of the Chesapeake area.

The Rev. Delmar L. Dyreson, associate director of the General Commission on Chaplains, will leave Tuesday by air for Amsterdam.

Mr. Dyreson, who is editor of the Chaplain and the Link, is accredited by the council as a representative of the religious press. He has also been designated by the General Commission to represent the interests of 38 denominations in matters affecting chaplains.

After the World Council meetings, Mr. Dyreson will visit chaplains with the occupation forces in Europe before returning to Washington late in September.

Briton to Preach At Church Here

The Rev. Norman Dunnning will preach at New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, 1301 New York ave. nw., at 11 a. m., Sunday. His subject will be "The Best Known Chapter in the Bible."

Mr. Dunning is warden of the University College, Kingston Upon Hull, England. Though he studied law at Cambridge, he entered the ministry after his graduation. He became warden of University College after serving as a chaplain with the Royal Air Force during the war.

A. M. E. Missions Officer To Be at John Wesley

Dr. Daniel Carlton Pope, secretary of foreign missions of the A. M. E. Zion Church, will speak at John Wesley A. M. E. Zion Church, 14th and Corcoran sts., Sunday at 11 a.m.

A resident missionary in Africa for a number of years, Dr. Pope has also had pastorates in Alabama, North Carolina and Pennsylvania and this city.

Pastor Begins Mount Rainier Duties Sunday

The Rev. Marion B. Brinson will begin his ministry at Mount Rainier Christian Church, 33d and Bunker Hill rd., Sunday when he preaches at 10:45 a. m.

Brinson

His sermon topic will be "The Household of God." He will also speak at the Mount Rainier-Brentwood community vesper service at St. John's Episcopal Church at 8 p. m. on "Childishness in Religion."

Mr. Brinson will be welcomed to his new church by Wilbur Smith, chairman of the board.

A native of Araphoe, N. C., Mr. Brinson is the son of J. Jackson Brinson, who served two terms in the North Carolina State Legislature.

He is a graduate of Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, N. C., and Yale University, and received an M.A. degree from Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn.

Mr. Brinson was minister of the Cowardin Avenue Christian Church, Richmond, Va., for 10 years before serving for 14 years as pastor of the First Christian Church in Newport News, Va. He was president of the Virginia Christian Missionary Society in 1937.

The new pastor toured the Holy Land in 1937 and visited Europe the following year.

He succeeds Chaplain Harold G. Elsam, who has been interim minister of the Mount Rainier church since the resignation of the Rev. Charles H. Frick last February.

Mr. Brinson, his wife and two daughters will live in the parsonage at 4003 33d st., Mount Rainier.

St. Mary's to Hear Gilliam, Tate

The Rev. Jackson Gilliam, assistant rector, will conduct services at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Arlington, at 11 a. m. Sunday and throughout the month. The Rev. George Tittman, rector, is on vacation.

The service at 8 a. m. Sunday will be condnucted by the Rev. Edward E. Tate of St. Stephen's School, Alexandria. The 8 a. m. service on August 22 and August 29 will be conducted by Dr. Robert O. Kevin, professor of Old Testament at Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexandria.

Visitor to Preach 2 Sermons Sunday

The Rev Paul Hardin, jr., Minister of Wesley Memorial Methodist Church, High Point, N. C., will speak at three services at Mount Vernon Methodist Church, 900 Massachusetts ave. nw.,

At 9 and 11:45 a. m. his subject will be "A Question of Values" and at 8 p. m., "On Being Happy."

Sunday CHURCH EVENTS

The Good Shepherd Window in the wall of the parclose stairs in the North Transept of the Washington Cathedral will be dedicated at 5:15 p. m.

The Very Rev. John W. Suter, dean of the cathedral, will officiate at the ceremony, which follows the evensong service. The window was given by Miss Gertrude Stokes and Miss Mildred Stokes of Hinsdale, Ill., in memory of their parents, Thomas Oliver and Fanny Randle Stokes.

"The Increased Glory of Living" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. James M. Singer, assistant pastor, at Luthern Place Memorial Church, 1226 Vermont ave. nw., at 9 and 11 a. m.

Howard Haworth, minister of education at National Baptist Memorial Church, 16th and Columbia rd. nw., will preach there at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. The pastor of the church, Dr. Edward B. Willingham, is on vacation.

The Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary will be observed at Catholic Churches. The feast commemorates the assumption of the body of the Blessed Virgin Mary into Heaven.

Balmer H. Kelly, associate professor of Biblical interpretation at Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., will speak 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. Sunday at Central Presbyterian Church, 15th and Irving sts. nw.

He is a graduate of Union Seminary and King College, and attended Princeton Theological Seminary. He is acting director of public relations for Union Seminary and is editor of the school's quarterly periodical.

The Rev. Harry L. Bell returns to his pulpit at Columbia Heights Christian Church, 1435 Park rd. nw., Sunday at 10:50 a. m. to speak on "You Do Count." He has been vacationing in the Pacific Northwest.

Baptists to Hear St. Louis Minister

Dr. Adiel J. Moncrief, jr., pastor of the First Baptist Church, St. Louis, Mo., will preach at First Baptist Church, 16th and O sts nw., Sunday at 9:45 and 11 a. m. and 8 p. m.

At the two morning services his topic will be "The Secret of Great Living." In the evening he will speak on "The Tide of the Spirit."

Dr. Douglass to Speak

"Worry Yourself to Usefulness" will be the topic of Dr. Paul F. Douglass, president of American University, at 11 a. m. Sunday at Hamline Methodist Church, 4501 16th st. nw.

Australian Bishop to Lead Conference

The Rt. Rev. John S. Moyes, Bishop of Armidale, Australia, will lead the opening conference of the fall term at the College of Preachers, Washington Cathedral, it has been announced.

Bishop Moyes will discuss "The Church and Its Educational Task" at the conference, which opens September 20.

The College of Preachers is an institution for postgraduate training of Episcopalian clergymen. From September until June clergymen of the church, in groups of from 18 to 25, are invited to spend brief periods at the college. During each term of the college there are also three full-time resident fellows.

The Rev. Theodore O. Wedel, warden of the College of Preachers, said the full fall schedule will include: September 27, the Very Rev. H. E. W. Fosbroke, former dean of General Theological Seminary, "Preaching the Old Testament;" October 4, the Rev. Rollin J. Fairbanks, executive director of the Institute of Pastoral Care of the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, "Pastoral Ministry and Preaching;" October 25, the Rev. A. Gabriel Hebert, English author and editor, "The Bible Within;" November 8, Dr. Paul Tillich of Union Theological Seminary, "Problems in Systematic Theology," and November 15, the Very Rev. William H. Students to Run Healing Christ Church Services

Services at 11 a. m. Sunday and during the week at the Church of the Healing Christ, 2600 16th st. nw., will be conducted by students while the Rev. Grace L. Faus is in Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Faus, who has been minister of the church since 1946, is attending a conference of Divine Science ministers at the Divine Science College, Denver. She will be one of the speakers at the conference, and later will speak at denominational churches in Milwaukee and St. Louis.

The Denver conference marks the fiftieth anniversary of the church, an organization of independent metaphysicians. Best-known church of the denomination is the Church of the Healing Christ, New York, of which Dr. Emmet Fox is pastor. Mrs. Faus will return to Washington September 1.

God's Simplicity Is Sermon Text

Guest preacher at Wesley Methodist Church, Connecticut ave. and Jocelyn st. nw., at 11 a. m. Sunday will be Dr. J. Edward Carothers, pastor of Calvary Methodist Church, Albany, N. Y.

He will speak on "The Simplicity of God." Dr. Carothers is director of radio for the New York State Council of Churches and religious news commentator on a weekly program over WGY.

Lynchburg College President to Speak

Dr. Riley B. Montgomery, president of Lynchburg College, will speak at 11 a. m. at Wilson Avenue Christian Church, Arlington.

Dr. Montgomery is president of the Virginia Concil of Churches and a member of the executive council of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Rent Hike Hearing Set for Monday

A hearing on rent increases at 484 units of the Good Hope Hills Apartments in the Southeast section will be held at the District Rent Control Administration headquarters, 1740 Massachusetts ave. nw., Monday.

The session will be held before Examiner Denis K. Lane at 9:30 a. m. Waverly-Taylor, Inc., has asked that current rents ranging from $62.39 for 3½ rooms to $89 for 5½ rooms be boosted to from $72.50 to $101.25.

The apartments are located on the 2800, 2900, 3000, 3100 and 3200 blocks of 28th st., the 3000 block of 30th st. and the 3100 block of Buena Vista ter.

A request for rent increases on 190 units at Hillside Manor has been filed. Present rents, including utilities, range from $67 for 3½ rooms to $66 for 4½ rooms. Requested rents, including utilities, run from $67 to $72.

A 9-per-cent rent boost was recommended by Examiner William F. Mansfield yesterday on 50 units of an apartment house at 1631 S st. nw., owned by the District National Securities Corp. The petitioner had requested a 12.56-per-cent raise.

New rents will range from $30 a month for a one-room and bath unit to $70.75 for four rooms and bath. Previous rents were from $27.50 to $65 a month.

Geographically

Christianity Declared in Its Infancy

Christianity today is in its infancy as far as geographical expansion is concerned, and opportunities for expansion of the church through missions is unparalleled, the Rev. Richard V. Lawlor, S. J., of Boston, Mass., said last night.

Father Lawlor spoke to some 1000 students at the final evening session of the Summer School of Catholic Action at Catholic University. The missions of the Catholic Church, he said, have been reduced again and again by persecution and neglect. The need is of apostolic Catholics to back their lives to the missions and an "army of apostolic catholics to back their efforts with prayers and financial support," he said.

The purpose of the Catholic mission is the permanent and stable establishment of the church where it does not exist and the development of native clergy, said Father Lawlor. Great mission success does not take centuries to achieve. He cited the Christianization of Poland, accomplished in 30 years, and the Christianization of Ireland, accomplished in the apostolic life of one man.

The Catholic Action summer classes will end today with papal benediction given to the attending students by the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., director of the school session.

South Dakotan Accepts Call To Epiphany

The Very Rev. Leland W. F. Stark, dean of Calvary Cathedral, Sioux Falls, S. Dak., has accepted a call to become rector of the Church of the Epiphany, it was announced yesterday.

Dean Stark will assume his new duties October 10 at the church, 1317 G st. nw.

The new rector was ordained to the priesthood in December, 1935, after completing his studies at Seabury-Western Theological Seminary, Evanston, Ill. He also was graduated from Gustavus Adolphus College, Minnesota.

Active in Episcopal affairs, he is chairman of the department of promotion and a member of the executive council of the Sixth Province of the Episcopal Church and chairman of the department of promotion for the Missionary District of South Dakota. He was a member of the speakers bureau for the National Council of the Church in the Reconstruction and Advance Fund Campaign.

Dean of Calvary Cathedral since 1940, he is married and has two children.

Tobin Sworn In As Labor Head; To Seek Peace

Former Gov. Maurice J. Tobin of Massachusetts took the oath of office as Secretary of Labor yesterday and promised to work for industrial peace.

He was sworn in shortly after he attended his first White House Cabinet meeting, where President Truman introduced him to the official family.

With Cabinet members, union leaders, and about 1000 Labor Department employes looking on, Tobin took the oath from Federal Judge Edward M. Curran in the Labor Department auditorium.

He pledged his efforts "to establish such friendly relations between labor and management that strife and strike will be unknown."

He said he also would work "to repair the damage done by the Eightieth Congress" to the Labor Department.

Man Held for Arson After House Blaze

William Miller, 66, of no fixed address, was arrested and charged with arson by First Precinct Detective Olaf J. Schelin Thursday after a small fire caused slight damage to a frame house at 535 New Jersey ave. nw. No one was injured in the fire, police said.

Embassy Broken Into

The Egyptian Embassy, 2200 Kalorama rd. nw., was reported broken into some time Wednesday night or Thursday morning, but nothing apparently was missing. Entrance was gained by cutting the screen and breaking the glass in a first floor window, according to police. One desk drawer had been forced, they said.

Chipping Away At a Hazard

The Washington Post

CORNICE REMOVED — Workmen in box scaffolding (arrows) are using pneumatic drills to chip the eroded cornice from the top of Coast Guard Headquarters, 13th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw. After part of the cornice fell to the sidewalk about a year ago, it was deemed a hazard. Rather than let the chips fall where they may—on the heads of passing pedestrians—the broken chunks of stone are caught in the boxes

Two Tours Set For Weekend By Parks Unit

Late summer mushrooms in Rock Creek Park and the waterlilies in the Kenilworth Aquatic Gardens will be the subjects of two tours sponsored this weekend by the National Capital Parks.

Members of the park naturalist staff will guide sightseers around the Kenilworth Aquatic Gardens every half-hour between 8:30 and 11:30 a. m. Sunday morning, starting from the parking area near Douglas st. and Kenilworth ave. ne.

The mushroom tour, under the direction of John B. Stevenson of the Agriculture Department, will leave at 3 p. m. today from 16th and Underwood sts. nw.

"Yellowstone—Land of Natural Wonders" is the title of a color movie which will be featured at the campfire program at 8:30 p. m. today in Rock Creek Park, near 16th and Colorado ave. nw. Narrator of the program will be Dr. C. Max Bauer, formerly park naturalist at Yellowstone National Park and an expert on geysers and hot water phenomena.

At 2:30 p. m. Sunday, Park Historian Stanley W. McClure will describe the history of the Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials, the Ericsson Statue, the Tidal Basin and the Oriental flowering cherry trees on a tour through West Potomac Park beginning at the Lincoln Memorial.

The canal barge will leave the Foundry Branch dock, at Canal rd., Foxhall rd. and M st. nw. at 2 p. m. both today and Sunday. The barge will return from Lock 5, Brookmont, at 4:30 p. m. both days. Barge tickets can be obtained at the Capital Transit Co., 1416 F st. nw., during the week.

Dad Must Support Minor Children Through College

Pittsburgh, Aug. 13 (AP).—A father must support his children until they are 21 even though they are college students, Judge Harry H. Jones ruled today.

The Allegheny County judge dismissed a petition of Americus Ignelzi of Miami, Fla., asking he be relieved of $13 weekly support payments to his children, Michael, 19, and Albertina, 18.

The boy is an honor student at the University of Pittsburgh and the girl is a student at Carnegie Tech.

Judge Jones said: "We feel the education of these children should be encouraged. We find no foundation for the belief that children, after passing their eighteenth birthdays, are no longer to be supported by their father for the balance of their minority."

Bismarck, N. Dak., Aug. 13 (AP).—George F. Shafer, 60, twice Governor of North Dakota, died in his home here following a heart attack.

Postlude

'Traviata' Again at Watergate

By Paul Hume

Violetta loved and died again last night at the Watergate.

The second large audience within eight days to hear "Traviata" by the river gave proof of Washington's continuing interest in opera. There were only two changes in cast from the former presentation. Bruno Landi sang Alfredo, and Francesco Valentino impersonated his father.

Landi's voice is a trifle light for the part and he pushes it beyond its best sound to fulfill Verdi's requirements. Valentino has the elder Germont well in hand, and sings it with authority. Occasional breathiness and unpreciseness in focus mar his otherwise good work. He drew a warm round of applause for his second act aria.

Eva DeLuca repeated her Violetta of a week ago, but the distress in intonation is still too present in her work. And a voice should never be forced hard enough on high C's to splinter as DeLuca's did twice in her first big aria. These are warning symptoms that must be heeded if later trouble is to be avoided.

Nicholas Rescigno made the whole score a vital thing, with surcharged rhythmic precision and a wonderful flair for the long lines of the opera. Thanks to him, the chorus did some of its best work so far.

Tonight: Madame Butterfly, with DeLuca and Eugene Conley.

Brazil Relaxes Import Controls on U. S. Wheat

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Aug. 13 (U.P.).—Finance Minister Pedro Luis Correa E Castro today announced relaxation of import controls to permit the free entry of shipments of wheat and flour already en route here from the United States and Canada.

New Exchange Rate Indicated for Jap Yen

Tokyo, Aug 13 (U.P.).—Washington reports indicated today that a foreign exchange rate for Japanese yen will be announced "within a week."

Informed sources said the rate probably will be about 270 yen for one United States dollar.

Sinatra Look Was Break For Rescigna

Young Nicholas Rescigno, conducting this week's opera festival at the Watergate, got his first big conducting break in this country because he looks like Frank Sinatra.

Rescigno

Several years ago, when Nick had completed both law and musical education in Italy, he returned to his native New York City. There, where his father had long played in the Metropolitan Opera orchestra, he conducted for Alfredo Salmaggi, who was presenting fly-by-night opera in the city.

"One day," Rescigno said, "Fortune Gallo, impresario of the San Carlo Opera Company, called me and said, 'I am going to have you conduct for me. They tell me that you look like Frank Sinatra and the boys and girls will come to watch you conduct'." That led to eight solid months of experience in the staples of Italian and French repertoire.

Later on, Fausta Cleva, director of the famous summer opera season at the Cincinnati Zoo, and for a time in charge of the Chicago Civic Opera Co., engaged the young conductor whose work is heralded wherever he directs. Rescigno is leading tonight's performance of "Madame Butterfly" and Sunday's double bill of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" presented by the Lyric Opera Association at the Watergate.

When Gladys Swarthout was in Washington several weeks ago, singing with the summer symphony at the Watergate, she told the writer, "Young Nicholas Rescigno is a fine conductor. He is going to make a real place for himself.

"What's more," she continued, "he has studied every score he directs with one of the world's great conductors of that particular music."

Audiences at Thursday and Friday performances of "Rigoletto" and "Traviata" agreed thoroughly with that opinion in their generous reception of the American-born opera conductor.

Personal Radio Communication Near, FCC Says

"Personal radio"—which will give you your own private broadcasting station—is just about ready for launching into American life.

The Federal Communications Commission said yesterday it will shortly begin licensing individuals "for personal and private communication" in this field—a civilian version of the wartime "walkie-talkie" system.

The camera-sized set is a two-way affair for sending or receiving which may be slung over the shoulder by a strap, slipped into a purse, or carried handily in the hand. FCC says quantity production may be expected in the near future. Each set will require a commission license.

Australia to Appeal

Canberra, Australia, Aug. 13 (U.P.).—Prime Minister Joseph B. Chifley indicated today he would appeal a high court ruling voiding Australia's bank-nationalization law to the Privy Council in London. The council is the supreme authority of the British Empire.

Britain's Exports In July Greatest In Her History

St. Austell, Cornwall, England, Aug 13 (AP).—Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, said tonight Britain's exports in July were the greatest in her trading history in money value.

The value of exports totaled £145,600,000 ($582,400,000).

That total, Wilson said in a speech here, is £11,600,000 ($46,400,000) more than the value of exports in June, 1948, 45 per cent more than in July, 1938, and 8 per cent more than July, 1920, the previous peak month.

Wilson added that British imports also increased during July to a total of £185,600,000 ($742,400,000).

"The great export effort our people are making is being to some extent offset by the high level of world prices," Wilson said, "especially the prices of our food and raw materials."

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

THEY'RE COMING BACK Tuesday night to see the Old Man—the ball players who used to win pennants for Clark Griffith in happier days of the Washington Ball Club, in 1924-25-33. It's going to be reunion on Clark Griffith Night, something his friends thought up to display their fondness for the man, and President Truman, too, will be there.

POVICH

Mr. Griffith won't have to look far to see his favorite all-time ball player—no farther than the Yankee bench, because Bucky Harris will be leading the Yanks against the Nats that night. Harris will be trying to beat the Nats' brains out, an effort which Mr. G. views as entirely forgivable because he's the man who taught Harris to play it to the hilt no matter who he was playing against.

Harris was the smallest guy on that 1924 team that brought Washington it's first pennant, and at the same time the biggest man on it. Griffith plucked him out of the playing ranks—he wasn't even a star—and put him to managing those 1924 Nats, and there were charges the Washington owner had gone daft. But Harris had the Nats in first place in midsummer, beat the Yankees in the stretch, hit .300 for the only time in his life, and led the World Series in runs-driven-in to beat the Giants in seven games.

UNFORGETTABLE WAS that 1924 Washington infield and its deadly double-play trinity of Peck-to-Harris-to-Judge that set a new league record for twin outs, with Third Baseman Ossie Bluege also lending a powerful hand. Griffith prides himself on developing smart ball players and three-fourths of that infield became big league managers. Of that '24 infield and its penchant for making double plays, it was said, "when the ball is hit to Peck or Harris or Judge, everybody is out."

Muddy Ruel, the little catcher whom the late Walter Johnson called his best; Earl McNeely who was bought for $50,000 in June and went on an amazing hitting streak in the pennant race before authoring the famous "pebble hit" that decided the World Series; Fred Marberry, the big Texan who used to say "gimme that ball" and then buzz those strikes past the hitter with the bases loaded. They, too, were Griffith's first prides.

They and Sam Rice and Goose Goslin, the big outfielders on those 1924-25 clubs. Griffith would cheerfully write a check for $300,000 to have that pair back today, their stature greater in the light of the mediocre outfielding of these times when few teams can boast as handy a pair. Rice with his classic, level swing would be a fixture on any club, and Goslin would be one-two among American League outfielders.

TO WASHINGTON fans the Goose was something special, with his ferocious swings and line-drive socking. It was Goslin who represented the power on the club that Harris and Griffith had taught to wait and steal and hit-and-run, and when he wasn't hitting he could strikeout with wonderful furore and even fall flat on his face. Only Ted Williams would outhit Goslin if he were playing today.

The sad note, of course, will be the absence of the most famed of all of Griffith's players, the late Walter Johnson, who in his eighteenth season in the majors still was throwing the fastest pitch in the league and winning more games than any other man. Griffith leaps to argue that a greater pitcher never lived; and Harris says there was no other as good, and if there was, indeed, no member of those 1924-25 teams would believe it.

Even when Johnson was beaten in that sad finale of the 1925 World Series at Pittsburgh, and Harris was tempted to take him out of the box in the late innings, he subdued that urge. "I reasoned it out for myself," said Harris, "and left him in. I couldn't quit on a guy who had helped us over so many humps in the past and was still out there throwing for us."

BLUEGE was the only holdover from that 1924 team who was present on the club that won another Washington pennant nine years later. By that time he was the acknowledged best third baseman in the league, but on Tuesday night Griffith will greet his favorite pet of that team—Joe Cronin. Down from Boston is coming Cronin, the 1933 shortstop-manager who, like Harris in 1924, geared the Nats to his own enthusiasm and set the pennant-winning style.

And from out of the West is coming Griffith's good 1933 pitcher, chunky Earl Whitehill, who topped the staff with his southpaw curving and was enraged at every defeat. Whitehill is famed not only for his pitching from the mound, but for the tremendous heave he gave Umpire Brick Owen's whisk broom, clear over the grandstand roof, the day he didn't like Owen's decision on a foul home run by Lou Gehrig.

Heinie Manush and Fred Schulte, the outfielders of that 1933 team; Buddy Myer who led the league in hitting; Luke Sewell, the catcher—most of the guys who gave Griffith and the Washington fans all that joy of 1933—they're coming back, too, for reunion at Griffith Stadium with a boss they liked.

Yanks Rally For 8 in 8th To Beat A's

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—Trailing 5-0, the New York Yankees came up with eight runs in the last half of the eighth inning to defeat the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-5, tonight and bounce Connie Mack's club out of first place in the American League pennant race.

Lou Brissie, 24-year-old southpaw ace of the Mackmen, held the Yanks scoreless on three scattered singles before 60,745 fans until the big blow-off as his mates built a 5 to 0 lead.

The Yankees filled the bases in the eighth on two passes and, a hit by Tommy Henrich. Brissie, who was aiming at his first big-league shutout, was then replaced by Charley Harris.

Harris passed Joe DiMaggio to force in the first tally, a pinch single by Yogi Berra added two more, and another walk again loaded the sacks. Alex Kellner, a lefthander recently recalled from Savannah, relieved Harris and Phil Rizzuto greeted him with a two-run single. Gus Niarhos walked to cram the bases for the third time and send Kellner out.

Carl Scheib, fourth hurler of the round, saw Pinchhitter Charley Keller's grounder fumbled by Pete Suder for another run and George Stirnweiss added another two-run safety before a double play and a fly finished the inning.

'Satch' Paige Blanks Chisox

Chicago, Aug. 13 (AP).—Leroy "Satchell" Paige scattered five singles in pitching Cleveland to a 5-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox before a turn-away crowd of 51,013 persons tonight. The Indians rapped Randy Gumpert and Glen Moulder for nine hits in gaining their ninth victory over Chicago in 11 games this season.

The victory enabled Cleveland to regain the league lead.

Welsh, Curtis Play for Title

Oakland, Md., Aug. 13 (AP).—Barney Welsh of Rockville, Md., fought his way to the finals of the Mountain Lake Park men's singles tennis tournament today by taking a hard-fought match from McLaren Pardew of Baltimore, 6—1, 4—6, 6—3, 6—2.

He will meet John Curtis of Washington, tomorrow for the title. Curtis, the defending champion, got by his semifinal opponent, Alex Keilies of Baltimore, in straight sets, 6—4, 6—4.

In the women's division, two Washington women will battle it out tomorrow afternoon for the crown. Sara Moore beat Gertrude Salikers of Chicago, 6—1, 6—1, in the semifinal round, while Margaret Graham won over Mrs. Nancy Vissering of Washington, 6—3, 7—5.

Mel Parnell Allows Nats Only 4 Hits

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

The Nats' sixty-third licking of the year was a decisive 6-2 job which the Boston Red Sox dealt them last night.

It was a significent one, too. Coupled with the St. Louis victory, it dropped them into seventh place.

For 18,000 Griffith Stadium observers, the high spot of the game came in the seventh inning when the Nats got their first hit of the ball game.

For six and one-third innings, Southpaw Mel Parnell had turned back the Griffs hitless and runless, but even after Mark Christman broke up his no-hitter, the Nats caused him little trouble. He won his ninth game of the season, and set down the punchless Nats with four hits, two of them doubles.

The loser was Early Wynn, whose 10-hit effort resulted in his thirteenth defeat of the season. Washington's leading pitcher for the last few years hasn't been in the winner's circle since June 25 when he whipped Cleveland for his seventh victory.

Close For a While

Wynn and Parnell battled it out for two and two-thirds innings, neither allowing a hit. Parnell, however, broke through Wynn's delivery for a single at that point and Dom DiMaggio followed with a double to give Parnell a 1-0 lead.

The Red Sox threatened to make a runaway of it in the fourth inning when Bobby Doerr opened with a single and Stan Spence followed with a double, but they quieted down enough to score only two runs, that inning that is.

Billy Goodman rapped in one with a long outfield fly which scored Doerr and permitted Spence to take third. Parnell fled to left to score Spence and make it 3-0. Boston.

Singles by Pesky and Ted Williams and Junior Stephens' fly to Earl Wooten in right fetched another run for the Sox in the seventh. DiMaggio squeezed in Billy Goodman for the sixth run in the eighth.

Christman, Evans Double

Only two Nats had reached first against Parnell—both on walks—when Christman planted a legitimate double down the right field line with one away in the seventh. Wooten came through with a single to score Christman and ruin Parnell's shutout.

Parnell yielded his second run in the ninth when Al Evans doubled in Wooten, who had walked.

IN SHORT—Gillenwater retired the side in the first inning, but had to do some tall stepping to do it. After making running catches of flies by DiMaggio and Pesky, he parked in deep center field for Williams. It worked out perfectly because Williams' hoist traveled well over 425 feet . . . Mickey Haefner makes his first start in three weeks this afternoon. He's been bothered with a sore arm. The little southpaw tries for his fifth victory. His opponent, Joe Dobson will be gunning for his fourteenth.

Night Games Halted As Fans Pray for Babe

The Babe was remembered prayerfully at the ball parks last night.

While Babe Ruth remained in a critical condition, night games here and in New York were interrupted while baseball fans observed a moment of prayer. At Griffith Stadium, the lights were turned out as 18,000 paid silent tribute to the stricken baseball great.

Peggy Kirk's 74 Is Low in Women's Golf

Northfield, N. J., Aug. 13 (AP).—Peggy Kirk, a 26-year-old brunette from Findlay, Ohio, "just hit the ball" today to top a field of 47 players in the opening round of the Women's National Open golf tournament.

Miss Kirk surprised a gallery of some 500 persons at the Atlantic City Country Club by finishing the first 18 holes in 74, a stroke better than Mrs. Mildred (Babe) Zaharias of Ferndale, N. Y.

Mrs. Zaharias, pretournament favorite, had poor control on the greens, although she played her usual, accurate, long-hitting game from the tees.

As an amateur, Miss Kirk was not figured to finish as well as she did. She said she was surprised herself by being the early front-runner in the 72-hole tournament.

"Everyone kept telling me what the Babe was doing all the way round," Miss Kirk said. "I knew I would finish up with her, but I didn't know about the others."

Sally Sessions of North Muskegon, Mich., one of the 11 professionals in the tournament, tallied a 76 to take third place. But Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., last year's winner, and Patty Berg of Minneapolis were further back with a 79 and an 80, respectively.

Four women withdrew before the tournament started. They were Mrs. Frank Mirth and Mrs. J. P. Trouchard of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Arthur Kitson of Norristown, Pa., and Mrs. Roderick Watson of Silver Spring, Md.

The youngest player of the tournament, 17-year-old Nancy Maples of Rocky Mount, N. C., scored a 47-41—88, definitely not the worst card of the day.

Play will resume at 9 a. m. (EDT) tomorrow when 36 holes are scheduled. The tournament ends Sunday with 18 holes.

In Olympic Sweep

U. S. Waltzes to Court Title To Boost Record Point Total

By Robert Musel

London, Aug. 13 (U.P.).—The United States topped off the greatest Olympic sweep in history tonight with a 65-to-2¹ victory over France for the basketball championship.

The win coupled with a gold meda in the three-day equestrian team competition and a second place in welterweight boxing, boosted the Yank unofficial point total to 654 for the two weeks of the Olympiad, smashing the total-points record of 628¾ set by Germany in 1936.

The games end tomorrow. However, all but one equestrian event was completed by today's program and there was no chance for anyone to snatch from the Yanks their unofficial team title. There is no official Olympic team title.

The basketball victory came easy tonight—just as planned. But there was one disappointment when Henry Herring, a Navy lad from St. Petersburg, Fla., lost his welterweight championship fight to Julius Torma of Czechoslovakia by a decision. Herring was the only American to make the finals.

So only two gold medals came to Uncle Sam today—one for team equestrian victory and one for that walloping basketball triumph.

Big Alex Groza of the University of Kentucky led the American scoring parade with 11 points, and NYU's Ray Lumpp, who played only in the second half and then couldn't miss, was next with 10.

The Yanks made everything work — pivots, one-handers and long shots. And, what's more, the French just couldn't break through the Yank defense.

The Phillips Oilers started as a unit for the first time in the tournament and quickly piled up a 13 to 4 lead. The margin was 28 to 9 by the end of the first half.

Before the first half was over, Coach Bud Browning began emptying the bench. Before the intermission, every man on the squad except Lumpp got into the game.

Dodgers Top Braves, 6 to 3; Gain a Game

Boston, Aug. 13 (AP).—Spotting the Boston Braves two runs on Bob Elliott's massive home run in the opening inning, the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight broke out for three runs in both the fourth and sixth innings and defeated the league leaders, 6-3.

By winning before a paid throng of 31,444, the Brooklyn Dodgers gained a full game on the Tribe and now trail Boston by three games.

Fireworks Display At 'Griffith Night'

An elaborate fireworks show, patterned after the famous pyrotechnical displays put on by the Cleveland Indians at their stadium, will climax the Clark Griffith night ceremonies here Tuesday.

One of the Nation's leading fireworks companies is in charge of the show and yesterday promised "Washington will see a dazzling exhibition of fireworks."

President Truman and other of the Nation's leading figures in Government, military and sports will be on hand to pay tribute to the 78-year-old owner of the Nats.

Members of the Nats 1924-25-33 championship teams will also be here for the occasion. The Nats play the New York Yankees that night.

Detroits' Printers Win Fifth in Row

Detroit, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Detroit Printers baseball team moved a step nearer the championship of the thirty-fourth annual Printers baseball tournament today as it beat Pitsburgh, 8 to 3, for its fifth straight win.

Zale-Cerdan Bout Moved To Jersey

By Jack Hand

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—New York lost a middleweight title match to New Jersey today when the Tournament of Champions moved the Tony Zale-Marcel Cerdan bout across the river to Roosevelt Stadium, Jersey City, for September 21.

Promoter Andy Niederreiter and his associates, engaged in a boxing war with Mike Jacobs' well-established Twentieth Century Club, dropped plans for a September 23 date at Ebbets Field after a private session with Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Efforts to budge the Twentieth Century from its September 22 date at Yankee Stadium for the lightweight title bout between Ike Williams and Jesse Flores failed and the new promoters decided to go to Jersey City one day ahead of the Jacob program.

"I told Eagan that September 23 was the only possible date for us at Brooklyn," said Niederreiter. "Eagan consulted Sol Strauss (acting promoter of the Twentieth Century) about changing his date to avoid a conflict, but Strauss said his plans were set.

"The September 23 date at Brooklyn was not practical," Egan statement read in part. "The Twentieth Century Sporting Club is running a lightweight championship bout on September 22. In the event of rain it would be held September 23."

Niederreiter professed to be pleased with the Jersey City setup. Based on a $30 top, he figures the show will draw $400,000 as compared to the $308,000 pulled in by his first venture, Rocky Graziano-Tony Zale at Newark in June. With seats on the field, the ball park will accommodate 40,000 people.

Cerdan, due from France next week, will get no guarantee but will be paid 17½ per cent of the net gate. Zale probably will get a $120,000 guarantee with a privilege of 40 per cent. Adding an additional $50,000 for promotional expenses and $10,000 for rent, they probably would need about $325,0000 gross at the gate to show any profit.

There was a report that the Twentieth Century show would have a $20 top price but no final decision had been made.

Original plans by Niederreiter to back up his Zale-Cerdan card with a light heavyweight scrap between Freddie Mills and Gus Lesnevich failed when the British boxer pulled out of the bout, reporting illness.

Talk of a Lesnevich-Jersey Joe Walcott match fizzled, supposedly because of demands by Walcott's handlers. Thus the Zale-Cerdan show will stand on its own merits.

U. S. Waltzes To Court Title

Kurland of the Oilers, who had been a target for most of the booes, actually drew cheers as he made two beautiful one-handed pivot goals in the opening half.

Torma was much too classy for Herring in the only title boxing bout featuring an American. The Czech was warned by the referee for open-gloved hitting in the first and third rounds, but otherwise it was his show.

Wally Smith of Cincinnati gave Uncle Sam fourth place in the lightweight boxing competition even though he didn't climb into the ring today. Defeated in the semifinals yesterday, he forfeited his consolation bout because of an injured hand.

George Worth of New York City and Dr. Tibor Nyilas of Elmhurst, N. Y., made it to the finals of the individual sabre competition, but there they took a back seat as Alcadar Gerevich of Hungary won the championship. Worth placed fifth and Nyilas seventh in the final standings. Dean Cetrulo of Hollywood, Calif., was eliminated in the semifinals this morning.

Although the Yanks won the three-day equestrian team honors, it was a Frenchman, Capt. Bernard Chevellier, who took the individual title in this event. Col. Frank S. Henry of Cambridge, N. Y., was second and Lieut. Col. Charles H. Anderson of Westminister, Calif., fourth.

Sweden won the soccer-football title by defeating Yugoslavia, 3 to 1, in the finals. Denmark downed Britain, 5 to 3, for the third place.

Belgium won the team cycle road race, with J. Beyaert of France taking individual crown, and Finland copped the gymnastic honors, nosing out Switzerland, 1358.3 points to 1356.7.

Miller Finally Wins at Lanham

Charlie Miller, a New Jersey veteran who has raced all season at West Lanham without success, hit the jackpot last night before 5100 fans, sweeping three races for the night's big money at the nearby oval.

Miller nosed out Len Dundan, last week's winner, by half a length of his car in the 25-lap feature. His winning time was 5:52.92. In third place was Mike Josephs.

$7.80 Shot Beats Jinx, Seven Rivals

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 13.—Sun Target, a very useful sort of campaigner for Mrs. A. Carpoletti, won his fifth race of the year when he captured the sixth race, best event of the afternoon at the Fair Grounds track today.

In the role of a $7.80 second choice to Knight's Hurry, fourth in the field of eight, Sun Target negotiated the mile and sixteenth route in 1.53 2-5 over a course classified as "good."

Second position, three lengths back, went to Thalia Lad, who set the pace until displayed by the winner. Ampie was third.

The "Friday the 13th" jinx did not hold up, not in the first few events on the card anyway, as favorites took down honors in each of the first three races.

As a $5.40 selection of the majority in the gathering of 6500, W. R. Chenowith's Blind Buyer moved from off the pace to achieve victory in the first offering. The second race was taken by J. V. Tigani's Jay Vince, paying $4.00, while in the third, R. "Dick" Pending's Rosiante, backed down to 9-5 support, proved much the best of seven claiming classification rivals of the $1500 level.

Meat Prices Hold Despite Resistance

Chicago, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—Buyers' strikes have failed to cut high meat prices despite consumer resistance in 44 cities, a survey showed today.

Reports of weekend meat buying, normally heavy on Friday and Saturday, were spotty, however.

Some butchers at San Francisco and Cleveland reported normal Friday buying or only slight declines. One San Francisco butcher reported his best Friday in three weeks, while two others said business was far off. Nine said business was normal.

A different picture was reported by Department of Agriculture officials at New York City, who said sales in wholesale meat markets were far below normal for a Friday.

They attributed the slump to the housewives' boycott and said butchers made "only a sprinkling of purchases" for the weekend.

A United Press survey showed that consumer resistance has developed to varying degrees in 44 cities, but in 25 of these prices were still high, or even higher.

Housewives participating in the strikes pledged not to buy meat this week. During the week, however, lamb chops rose almost 2 cents a pound on the average. T-bone steak jumped almost 2 cents and pork chops climbed more than 2 cents, the survey showed.

By today the average price in the cities checked was 87.09 cents a pound for lamb chops and 83.4 cents a pound for pork chops.

Bacon, ham roast and round steak were about steady generally.

New Viewpoint

Grain Export Cut Foreseen By Sawyer

By The Associated Press

The prospect of improved crops in Europe should allow a substantial cut in United States wheat exports under the Marshall Plan, Secretary of Commerce Sawyer said yesterday.

His viewpoint differed from that of Dr. Dennis A. Fitzgerald, food chief for the Economic Cooperation Administration. Fitzgerald said on Wednesday that the prospects for substantially increasing United States grain exports to western Europe should mean a "moderate or appreciable" improvement in the diet there.

Secretary Sawyer, however, opposed any increase in shipments of Marshall Plan food to Europe. He said:

"It may now be time to give some attention to the interests of the American housewife."

In a formal report on export controls, Sawyer declared:

"In view of the current emphasis on 'recovery' rather than 'relief' programs in western Europe, the prospect for improved crops in that area should permit a substantially reduced level of wheat exports from the United States this year compared with 1947-48."

When asked whether the other members of the Cabinet food committee—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan and Secretary of State Marshall—agreed with him on the curbing of food exports to western Europe, Sawyer replied:

"I prefer to let any other member of the committee speak for himself."

Girl Scouts Come To World Meeting From 27 Nations

The conference which brought together 110 delegates and committee members, headed by Lady Band-Powell of England, world leader of the Girl Scouts and Girl Guides.

The delegates will discuss plans for the future development of Guiding and Scouting throughout the world. The conference is scheduled to end August 20.

President Truman lauded the Girl Scout movement as providing a basis on which "girls of all nations can work together for international peace and understanding."

Skull Crushing Mishap Described By Auto Worker

Atlanta, Aug. 13 (AP).—M. L. Rogers, 39-year-old electrician, lay in a hospital bed today and told how his head was crushed between heavy steel elevator doors.

"My skull began to give and I heard one bone after another popping," he said. "I knew any second my head would be smashed completely flat."

Rogers works in an automobile assembly plant. A week ago power failure crippled the elevator. Doors of the elevator were left open and Rogers and a helper were trying to disengage them.

The doors were suddenly released and Rogers was caught between them. Two men succeeded in forcing the doors apart after three or four minutes.

Truman Delays Action On Anti-Inflation Bill

The White House announced yesterday that President Truman will postpone action on the Republican anti-inflation bill until next week.

He had been expected to sign the bill yesterday, and issue a blast denouncing the Republicans for refusing to act at the recent special session on his more sweeping program.

Bard Gets Seattle Post

Tokyo, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—Capt. N. W. Bard, retiring as United States naval chief of staff in the Far East, will sail Monday aboard the tanker Caliente to assume new duties as senior member of the Inspection and Survey Board in Seattle, Wash.

Howe May Quit Citizens Group On Potter Issue

H. Herbert Howe, independent candidate for the Arlington County Board, yesterday said he will probably resign from the Citizens Committee for School Improvement because it had voted to support another candidate, I. Lee Potter.

Howe, a United States Coast and Geodetic Survey employe, charged that "two or three members of the committee concocted the Potter deal and succeeded in ramming it down the throats of the 63 others." Howe said he felt "compelled" to run by action of the "bosses of the Citizens Committee who tried to stifle all opposition to their plans to run a candidate who does represent the hopes of the people of Arlington County."

Howe said he opposed Potter, a member of the county Republican Committee, because, though running as an independent, he had been selected by the county Republican organization, and because Potter is an apartment builder and "cannot have any convictions against apartment zoning."

Lovesick Salesman Rents Plane, Then Jumps to Death

Honolulu, T. H., Aug. 13 (U.P.)—A middle-aged salesman, depressed because of an unrequited love, committed suicide today by leaping 3000 feet to his death from an airplane he had chartered to fly over Honolulu Airport.

The body of John W. Peterson crashed down on a concrete runway in the middle of the field and was badly smashed, police reported.

The pilot, Dean Schrader, said he tried to prevent Peterson from stepping out, but failed.

Pan for Attack On Dominican Republic Charged

The Demonican Republic charged yesterday that an expeditionary force is being reorganized in Cuba, with emphasis on planes, to attack the Caribbean nation.

It said the new assault is being "conducted with a discretion and caution" lacking in last year's abortive attempt in Cuba to unseat Dominican President Raphael Trujillo.

Early last year some 3000 men, including Cubans, Venezuelans, Guatemalans, Spaniards, Americans and Dominicans, the government said, prepared in Cuba to invade the Dominican Republic.

Cuban authorities, however, broke up the coup before it ever left the island.

The Dominican charge was laid before the Inter-American Commission for the Peaceful Solution of Disputes. The commission is made up of representatives from the United States, Mexico, Argentina, Brazil and Cuba. Cuba did not see fit to sit in on yesterday's session.

Stassen Man Aids Dewey in Drive For Independents

Albany, Aug. 13 (U.P.).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today drafted plans to bring the support of "hundreds of thousands" of independent voters behind his bid for the presidency.

The Republican candidate's drive for independent votes will be headed by the organization Harold E. Stassen built in his unsuccessful bid for the GOP nomination.

Dewey and Victor Johnston, one of Stassen's preconvention campaign managers, discussed the campaign for independent support at length.

"We will be lining up Dewey-Warren clubs all over the country," Johnston said following his confeernce with the Governor. "We plan to enlist the support of volunteers who worked in all the preconvention campaigns, including those who worked for Mr. Stassen and those who worked for Senator (Robert A.) Taft.

Superfortress Crash Kills 13 In New Mexico

Roswell, N. Mex., Aug. 13 (U.P.).—Thirteen men were killed and eight others injured in the crash of a B-29 Superfortress near here last night, Maj. C. J. Beck, public relations officer at Walker Air Base reported today.

The big plane was reported on a routine flight when it crashed shortly before midnight. Beck said the plane crashed and burst into flames after a takeoff from Walker Base.

Guam, Aug. 13 (AP).—A Navy weather reconnaissance plane with 12 men abdard crashed and burned on Rota Island, 50 miles north of Guam, at 3:30 a. m. yesterday, the Navy reported today.

Sen. Chavez's Condition Serious After Surgery

Albuquerque, N. Mex., Aug. 13 (AP).—Senator Dennis Chavez (D., N. Mex.), 60, was reported in serious condition this afternoon after undergoing a major abdominal operation.

His physician, Dr. W. W. Lovelace, said the Senator "to date is progressing satisfactorily but his condition is serious and he is being administered oxygen."

Senator Chavez underwent surgery this morning. He was hospitalized for rest in Washington a month ago. A doctor said then the Senator would require extended rest. He described Chavez as fatigued from overwork.

Love Among Gangsters

A Good, Solid Movie Wears an Odd Label

By Sonia Stein

SOMEBODY was sound asleep when "Embraceable You" was given its title. Almost anything else would have been preferable to that musical comedy handle. Like "Love Conquers All, Even Poverty and Gangsters, in The Shadow of Death."

But seriously, it's not fair to tag a reasonably down-to-earth drama with that title even though the tune of the same name is used as background music. This Warner Brothers picture, which is currently playing at the Metropolitan Theater, is unpretentious in every way, but it has what they call "heart" in some quarters.

Dane Clark is a young man of doubtful character who runs over a dancer as he is driving his boss away from a little murder chore.

Not being a hit-and-run driver by temperament, he goes to the hospital to see how she is, pretending to be a friend of a highly fictitious brother the girl mentions. She feels fine, but the doctor knows best, and he says she will pop off suddenly, probably in a month's time.

A Practiced Gumshoe

Since the girl has no money and no friends, Clark is asked to provide for her, first by the doctor, whom he refuses, and then by a detective who has spotted him as the probable hit-and-run driver. The detective, played by Wallace Ford, who has played the detective before but rarely as well, is in a position to be a bit more insistent than the doctor.

Clark takes the hint, though it costs him a pretty penny, part of it earned through blackmailing his boss. The girl, Geraldine Brooks, is kept in ignorance of her moribund condition, and is provided for handsomely.

The two young people fall in love and are finally married, although the shadow of death is so close upon her that she realizes it, and the shadow of jail is equally close upon him.

Felix Jacoves directed the proceedings so that they fall within the limits of human belief—a modus operandi devoutly to be wished in others.

The two trapped young people tower in importance above the plot, and it is fortunate they are in the hands of two such natural and likable players. No raving beauty and a bit awkward in movement, Miss Brooks has an attractive personality which is coin of the realm by me.

He's No Hat Model

Clark, who usually looks ready to lick his weight (which isn't much) in wildcats when he has his coat off and his collar unbuttoned, looks like a lost soul when he's all dressed up, including a fedora. But in this picture that's as it should be.

S. Z. Sakall and Lina Romay acquit themselves suitably in minor roles, and the handsome king-size version of Neil Hamilton who plays the doctor should get his option picked up, too.

Among the short subjects on the bill is a Technicolor film about sports in Brazil. Turning on my heel to escape, I was caught by sight of an interesting sequence, and another and another. It's all right, that little film! Shows the special police practicing their judo, high jumps and equestrian flip flops.

Home Rule Opponents In County Appeal Case

Claim Montgomery Court Had no Right To Order Clause Deleted in Charter

Legal steps for a final ruling on the controversial Montgomery County charter were taken yesterday by opponents of the proposed "home rule" document.

Attorneys who sought unsuccessfully to block a scheduled charter referendum in November formally asked the Maryland Court of Appeals to rule on the matter.

The appeal follows a Montgomery County Circuit Court ruling ordering a popular vote and deleting a clause of the charter document which was found unconstitutional.

David E. Betts, Rockville, Md., lawyer, who filed the appeal on behalf of Hubert A. Schneider, Bethesda attorney, said it would be based on a contention that the Montgomery court had no jurisdiction to order a disputed clause of the charter deleted.

The clause ordered deleted was one which specified that the annual budget under a charter would be adopted in June. The local court held that Maryland law required charter governments to adopt the budget in May of each year.

In another development, it was revealed that Sumner Wood, Rockville attorney, will be associated with Betts and Schneider in presenting arguments against charter before the appellate court.

Wood said he is in favor of home rule, but that he had become convinced the present charter is unconstitutional.

Attorneys said they had been told informally the Court of Appeals will hear the case soon after it reconvenes October 4 and a decree will be asked by October 10. The election is scheduled for November 2.

D.C. Building Inspector Under Fire

Commission States Phoebus Submitted 'False' Reports and Disobeyed Orders

The District Commissioners yesterday charged a local building inspector with submitting "false" official reports and disobeying "direct orders" of his superior.

The accusations were leveled against William M. Phoebus of 13 Maryland ave., Gaithersburg, Md.

He also was charged with "absence from duty without authority."

The trio of charges was contained in a letter forwarded to Phoebus in which he was informed "it is proposed to discharge you from your position . . ." Phoebus, reached at his home in Gaithersburg, declined "to make a statement at this time."

The Commissioners gave Phoebus 10 days from the date of receipt of the letter to "reply to the charges." In the event "you file no answer . . . or the answer is considered unsatisfactory, you will be removed from the service of the District . . . if the Commissioners so decide," they wrote.

They placed him on annual leave pending final decision

For one thing, the Commissioners held that Phoebus submitted to the director of inspections reports in writing stating that he inspected certain places "when in fact you had not inspected such places at the times so specified."

They charged furthermore that contrary to orders of Chief Building inspectator Jesse J. Kimball requiring "that you report truthfully and accurately in writing" each place inspected, he submitted reports for July 8, 9, 12 and 23 claiming to have inspected certain places "when in fact you did not make such inspections."

The Commissioners, in support of the third charge, held that Phoebus failed to perform the "official duties assigned to you"

PUC Ends Hearings On Fare Rise After Clash

August 27 Is Set For Filing of Briefs After Refusal To Dismiss Petition

Public hearings on a fare increase by the Capital Transit Co. closed at 4 p. m. yesterday after a final clash among participants.

The next step in the controversy-ridden rate boost action will be the filing of briefs. District Public Utilities Chairman James H. Flanagan set August 27 as the deadline for the filing of final briefs.

Earlier he had refused a motion made by attorneys for two intervenors asking dismissal of the rate application on the grounds that "the company has failed to meet its burden of proving that any rate increase would be reasonable, fair and just."

The motion was made by Ben C. Sigal, attorney for the Washington chapter of Americans for Democratic Action, and was supported by Harry R. Booth, attorney for the Washington Committee for Consumer Protection.

At the opening of the session, marking the eleventh day of the case, Booth called Charles Houston, local lawyer, who was formerly on the President's Fair Employment Practices Commission, to discuss the company's failure to hire Negro workers.

Lack of Good Faith Charged

Houston charged that the CTC attempt to employ Negroes was not "made in good faith." "It was done all the time with the idea that it would fail and that Capital Transit Co. wanted it to fail." He said the firm did not discipline uncooperative white workers or make any other attempt to "break through such resistance."

This charge was denied by the final witness of the day, CTC President E. B. Merrill. Merrill said the firm had sincerely tried to comply with the FEPC order to employ Negroes and had met with the union to ask cooperation.

He said that from 75 to 100 persons applied, but by the time training was begun, only one man remained, and operators refused to train him.

Houston said the firm should make further attempts since it was a "monopoly" and drew revenue from both Negro and white persons. He suggested motormen first be placed in predominantly Negro areas and "ultimately throughout the system as is done in the Police Department."

Booth Asks Delay for Expert

Assistant Corporation Counsel Lloyd B. Harrison, PUC attorney, renewed his request that Booth be disqualified from the case as "not a fit and proper person to appear before this tribunal." Harrison's remark followed a heated interchange between PUC Member James W. Lauderdale and Booth.

Booth had proposed a delay in which he would attempt to obtain the services of a transportation expert to check company and PUC staff exhibits. Lauderdale asked for the name and when Booth failed to name him, the Commissioner shouted.

"Now, I've heard this for the last time I'm going to. Now you get up on your feet and tell us."

Booth said he had no authority from the expert to do so. Harrison then made his disqualification request, charging that Booth had been purposely evasive in his replies. Flanagan decided against it and continued the session.

Death in Fall From Car Held Accidental

Charles Eaton Still Faces Traffic Charge In Prince Georges

A verdict of accidental death was issued yesterday in the case of Mrs. Madeline Eaton, 26, of 4597 Shaw dr. nw., who was fatally injured Thursday when she fell from a car driven by her husband, Charles Eaton.

The accident happened at 51st st. and Annapolis rd., Bladensburg, Md., as the couple, with their 4½ year-old son were returning from a visit to Lanham, Md.

Eaton, who will be given a hearing in Hyattsville Police Court September 2, on a technical charge of manslaughter, told police his wife lost her balance when she opened the door to toss out a cigarette.

Dr. J. T. Maloney, Prince Georges County medical examiner, issued the verdict following an autopsy. Death was caused by a fractured skull, he said.

In the District yesterday, Nan Whitehead, 29, of 2441 40th st. nw., suffered head injuries when she was struck by a streetcar while crossing 14th st. near G nw., at about 2:20 p. m.

The young woman was admitted to Emergency Hospital where her condition was described as "good."

According to police, she stepped off a loading platform directly into the path of the southbound streetcar operated by Raymond Frazier, 24, of 1754 Columbia rd., nw. Date for a hearing in the corporation counsel's office had not been set.

Almost Halved

Revocation Of Permits Decreases

July showed an abrupt 46 per cent decrease in the number of driving permits and privileges revoked and suspended in the District.

Figures released yesterday by the Board of Revocation and Restoration of Operators' Permits disclosed a total of 534 revocations and suspensions in July as compared to 1082 in June

The decrease was attributed in part by Traffic Department spokesmen to the summer vacation period.

The number of permits and privileges revoked or suspended because of accidents dropped from 302 in June to 139 in July although the number of accidents in the District in those months increased slightly from 1022 in June to 1100 in July.

Speeding convictions led to almost half of the revocations and suspensions, with 280 permits or privileges nullified for this offense.

Two permits were revoked for leaving after colliding, four because of unsound mind and one for negligent homicide.

Seventeen motorists were "black-listed"—forbidden to drive for an indefinite period—for driving without a permit of any kind.

There were 426 appeals filed and 218 restorations granted. A total of 689 hackers cards were issued.

Prince Georges Schools Need 25 Teachers

With classes scheduled to open September 8, 25 teaching positions in Prince Georges County are still vacant, school officials said yesterday.

Fifteen of the vacancies are in elementary schools and 10 in high schools, according to William S. Schmidt, director of instruction, who said a number of applications are still being studied by the school board. He expressed the belief that all vacancies will be filled by the time the fall term opens.

So far this summer the board has filled 80 positions, employing 67 replacements and 13 new teachers, who were engaged to meet an expected increase in enrollment.

Teacher salaries in the county range from $2200 annually to $3400 for teachers without degrees, but with two years of college; from $2400 to $3600 for those with bachelor's degrees, and from $2600 to $3800 for those with master's degrees.

Gray Auto Market Round Table Topic On WINX Sunday

The gray market in automobiles will be discussed by a round table group Sunday at 7:30 p. m. over Radio Station WINX.

The program is sponsored by the American Bar Association and the District Bar Association. Leonard S. Melrod, an attorney, will act as moderator.

A group of automobile experts will discuss the causes of the gray market, through which automobile prices are hiked, what measures should be taken to suppress certain practices and also the congressional inquiry into the problem, according to Melrod.

Speakers on the program will be William Griffin, president of the Washington Used Car Dealers Association; Walter Hubbard, editor of the American Motorist publication, and J. H. Satcher, retail car dealer here, Melrod announced.

Executors Act To Probate Will Of Mrs. Patterson

A notice of publication filed in District Court yesterday set September 14 as the final date for interested parties to show cause why the will of Mrs. Eleanor Medill Patterson should not be admitted to probate.

The notice, submitted by attorneys for the executors of the estate, apparently is aimed at Countess Felicia Gizycka, daughter of Mrs. Patterson, who had been exploring possibilities of contesting the document.

Failure of anyone to "show cause" by that date would result in the will being admitted to probate.

After that, possible contestants would have up to one year to contest various aspects of the will itself.

Three Men Held For Grand Jury on Narcotics Charge

Three Washington men, arrested several days ago in a raid on an alleged opium den, were held in bond yesterday for action of the grand jury.

The defendants, arraigned before United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence on narcotics charges, were: Joe Lee, 52, alleged proprietor of the establishment at 517 6th st. nw., Ngei Ki Ngi, 50, of 807 H st. nw., and Yow Wing Lee, 50, of 1221 11th nw. Bond for Lee was set at $1500 and for the other two, $1000.

Lee was arrested after a chase across rooftops in the 500 block of 6th st. nw., last Saturday. The others were discovered sitting on a ledge to which they had fled after the raiders entered.

D. C. Air Guard Ends Summer Encampment

121st Fighter Units Complete Two Weeks Training at Dover

Twenty-three F-47 fighters and two T-6 trainers circled over Washington yesterday and landed at Andrews Field, signalizing the end of the D. C. Air National Guard's 15-day summer encampment at the Air Force Base in Dover, Del.

The main body of officers and enlisted men of the District's 121st Fighter Squadron and its attached units will return today by motorized convoy.

The local Air National Guard is returning after placing first in air-to-air gunnery at Dover, topping the 104th Fighter Squadron from Baltimore, the 148th from Reading, Pa., and the 149th from Richmond.

Some 31 pilots and 20 other air guardsmen returned yesterday in the fighter and trainer planes and in two shuttle flights made by the guard's C-47. The flight was led by Maj. W. W. Milliken, commander of the 121st.

Today's motor convoy, which will bring back the rest of the 403 local guardsmen who participated in the training at Dover, is scheduled to leave at 7:30 a. m., arriving at Andrews Field at about 1 p. m. Col. Laidler B. Mackall, D. C. Air Guard commander, will lead the convoy.

Members of the outfit will disband this afternoon after being paid off for the training period. An estimated $25,000 will be disbursed by the pay officer.

Sen. Capper Reported In Good Condition

Senator Arthur Capper (R., Kans.), who entered Bethesda Naval Hospital for treatment for a "slight cold" Thursday, was reported yesterday in good condition with temperature normal.

More Nurses Needed for Polio Areas

At the same time, Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, disclosed that $100,000 "in dimes" has been sent to North Carolina to help fight that State's worst polio epidemic.

So far this year, the Red Cross has recruited 840 nurses to augment normal nursing resources in localities hard hit by polio. Of the total, 400 have been assigned to North and South Carolina and 300 to the Far West.

Nurses available for polio duty were urged to communicate with their local Red Cross chapter.

In announcing funds had been sent to North Carolina, O'Connor said this was the second such donation sent to that State in the past 16 days, bringing to $311,500 the total sent to the epidemic area by the March of Dimes fund.

Meanwhile, Dr. Roy Norton, State health officer, issued a statement yesterday saying North Carolina's polio epidemic probably reached a peak the week ending July 23.

Dr. Norton added that "it will be another week or two before we can definitely establish the fact that the decline has set in and how rapid it will be."

The State's outbreak total for the year mounted to 1449 as 33 more cases were reported to the State Board of Health. Seventy-four have died this year.

Eight New Cases in Virginia

Richmond, Va., Aug. 13 (AP).—Eight new polio cases were officially added to Virginia's growing infantile paralysis list today, bringing the total for the year to 167.

Two Counties To Register 14,000 Youths

Two nearby counties, Montgomery and Prince Georges, will register approximately 14,000 men for the peacetime draft, Col. Henry A. Stanwood, State Selective Service director, said yesterday. The men in age group 18 through 25 will begin registering August 30.

Each county will have three draft boards. In Montgomery County Board No. 52 will be located in Rockville and is expected to register 1784 men. Board No. 53, Silver Spring, expects 1792 registrants and Board No. 54, Bethesda, expects to register 2960.

In Prince Georges County, Board No. 55 will be located in Hyattsville, to register 2984 and two boards, No. 56 and 57, will be in Upper Marlboro where they expect to register 2084 and 2240 men, respectviely.

Names of members of the six draft boards are now under consideration by Gov. William Preston Lane. They are expected to reach the President some time next week for approval.

Some 135,000 Maryland men are expected to register during the State's 66 local boards during the period August 30 to September 18, according to Colonel Stanwood.

The District's registration procedure for the peacetime draft will be outlined today, William E. Leahy, District draft director, announced.

35 Boys to Participate In 'Coaster Car' Race

Northern Virginia's first "coaster car" race will be held today starting at 9:30 a. m. on a 1000-yard runway on S. 23d st. in Arlington between 23d and Inge sts.

Open to boys from 11 to 15, the meet has attracted 35, each of whom made his own midget powerless racer. First prize will be a $150 English bicycle. The race is sponsored by the Arlington Optimist Club, Arlington County Police and Recreation Departments, Fairfax County Police Department and the Alexandria Recreation Department.

Chest Drive Post Accepted By Chatelain

Trade Board Head To Be Vice Chairman Of 1949 Campaign

Leon Chatelain, jr., president of the Washington Board of Trade, will serve as general vice chairman of the 1949 Community Chest Federation campaign.

Chatelain

His appointment was announced yesterday by General Campaign Chairman Chauncey G. Parker, who said:

"Mr. Chatelain's acceptance of this responsible position . . . is very good news to the whole campaign organization."

The Red Feather drive will seek to raise $4,509,170.

Chatelain, in accepting the post, declared that money raised through business firms . . . must be "increased substantially" if the coming campaign is to be successful.

A native of Washington, Chatelain took a degree in architecture at George Washington University in 1927. He has been a member of the Board of Trade since 1930 and was elected president May 1.

District Receives 25 Chevrolets

The District governornment has received a shipment of 25 new Chevrolets, five of which will be used by the Police Department as cruisers.

The cars were ordered June 24 and arrived here Wednesday. The group includes 14 "carry-alls," which are similar to station wagons. Two of them will go to the public schools and the rest will be put in a pool for use by any branch of the District government.

The five police cruisers are the first of 60 which the department expects to get during this fiscal year. They cost $1031 each plus transportation charge.

India, Pakistan Exhibit To Open at Library

The first anniversary of the creation of the Dominions of India and Pakistan will be marked by an exhibition at the Library of Congress Sunday through August 22.

The exhibit will be held on the first floor of the library at the entrance to the main reading room. It will include the draft constitutions of the two dominions and a copy of the letters of Sir Mohamed Iqbal, poet-philosopher, who inspired the term "Pakistan."

Mrs. M. Ruth Dabbs Found Hanged in Arlington Home

Mrs. M. Ruth Dabbs, 54, Agriculture Department clerk, was found hanged early yesterday in her home at 1017 S. Glebe rd., Arlington, Va.

County police said they found the body about 12:45 a. m. hanging by a heavy electric cord tied to the grill work of a ventilator high on the wall separating living and dining rooms of the white clapboard bungalow.

The body was found by Mrs. Dabbs', 17-year-old son, Glenn, who told police he had returned to the house at 12:30 a. m. after being away since noon.

Police said they had learned Mrs. Dabbs had been in poor health. Her husband died last November, they said.

The Department of Agriculture listed Mrs. Dabbs as a statistical clerk in the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, and said she had worked in the department for about 19 years.

Funeral arrangements will await the arrival from Cleveland of her brother, Glenn Phillips, who police said is the only known survivor besides her son.

6000 Workers Affected

2 D. C. Telephone Unions Prepare to Open Wage Parleys

Washington telephone unions affiliated with the Communications Workers of America (Ind.) are expected to notify the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. here Monday that they want to talk higher wages.

Spokesmen for the two member unions here—Divisions 36 and 50—said they will request immediate negotiations on the wage issue because of the advancing cost of living.

An official of the company announced that "we expect to adhere to the provisions of the contract which provide that negotiations will start 30 days after the reopening date."

Covers 6000 Workers

Signed in May and covering some 6000 workers, the contracts permit two wage reopenings with provision for cancellation in the event no agreement is reached on wages during either of the reopenings.

Although neither union would divulge their demands, it was learned informally that anything less than the 12½-cent hourly wage boost considered a so-called pattern in the third-round increases will be unacceptable.

Illinois Bell Firm Grants Wage Hikes

Chicago, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Illinois Bell Telephone Company and the AFL International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers have reached an agreement providing wage increases for some 10,000 telephone workers engaged in construction, installation and maintenance.

The new contract covers the period from October 1, 1948, to May 31, 1950.

The agreement calls for wage adjustments that vary by job, town and length of service. Plant craftsmen will get raises of from $2 to $6 weekly and clerical workers from $1 to $3 weekly.

Now With Wife's Friend

Father Obtains Court Writ To Gain Custody of Infant Son

Francis T. Leahy, jr., 37, a Navy Department communications expert, obtained a habeas corpus writ yesterday to get back his infant son from a friend of his estranged wife, according to the District Court suit.

The suit stated that the boy, William C. Leahy, 9 months old, is being detained by Francis Keene, 28, of 5224 Sherrier pl. nw. Keene is a telephone repairman.

Leahy charged that his wife, Rita, 30, left his home with the child in April and has filed suit for divorce in Florida. Subsequently, she placed the child in the care of Keene whom Leahy believes she intends to marry if she can get the divorce, according to the suit.

The habeas corpus writ was signed by Justice M. Curran and directs that Keene bring the child into District Court at 10 a. m. August 17.

According to Attorney Harry J. Ahern, who filed the suit, the Leahys were married in 1942 and lived happily together until the telephone lineman entered the pictur. He said that under the law, the natural father is entitled to custody of his child and can get that child from a nonrelative.

Leahy resides at 3871 Porter st. nw. His estranged wife is now in Miami, it was said, and has begun a divorce action.

Leahy has not yet filed papers contesting the divorce, according to Ahern.

Keene could not be reached for comment.

Area News in Brief

Girl Shot in Club Gets $550 in Gifts

Contributions for 20-year-old Dorothy Kilmer, accidentally shot in a night club here July 29, reached about $550 yesterday.

Miss Kilmer, who has been living at 1314 Fairmont st. nw. with her grandmother, Mrs. Grace Kilmer, is a patient at Emergency Hospital paralyzed from the waist down by the bullet. The shooting occurred at the Palm Grove Club, 1601 14th st. nw., where she had once been employed as a hat check girl.

Two rookie policemen were dismissed from the force following the shooting. They now face charges of assault with a dangerous weapon in connection with the case.

Miss Kilmer's father, Lester Kilmer, said hospital authorities have told him she will need constant care for a long time. A former resident of Washington who moved with his wife to Ellenville, N. Y., about a year ago, he said he already has overdrawn his bank account to attempt to provide proper care for his daughter.

Gun Firing Charged

A 73-year-old District man was charged yesterday with firing a shotgun at several boys who were stoning his home.

John R. Onley of 701 Divisison ave. ne., according to the Municipal Court charges, became angry when the children persisted in throwing stones at his home late Thursday and fired the shot. One boy, John Thompson, 13, of 5345 Bell pl. ne., was injured but the wounds were slight, it was said.

The case was continued until August 17 for further hearing. Onley is under $1000 bond.

Boy Bitten; Dog Hunted

A large reddish-brown dog suspected of rabies was sought yesterday by Falls Church authorities after he bit Richard Orville, 12, of 6232 23d st., North Arlington, Tuesday afternoon.

Richard's mother, Mrs. H. T. Orville, said her son is allergic to inoculations and his doctor would like to forego the shots if the dog is found to have rabies. The dog's owner, Mrs. Henry P. Clark, jr., 6929 North Fairfax dr., Arlington, said the dog had not received anti-rabies treatment.

Club Road Washed Out

The Army-Navy Country Club road was washed out and a 15-foot bridge on the road near the club's No. 11 green was destroyed Wednesday night by floods in the area.

Members have been asked to use the Glebe road entrance while repairs, expected to take two or three weeks, are made to the road.

Pleads Guilty to Theft

Kennth E. Shipe, 26, of 3935 S. st. se., has been given a one-year suspended sentence after pleading guilty to misappropriating $389.33 from the Washington Loan and Trust Co., where Shipe was a bookkeeper. In giving Shipe the suspended sentence, Justice Edward M. Curran of District Court conditioned it upon Shipe's making full restitution.

$72,500 Damages Asked

The father of two boys who were injured in an automobile accident filed suit yesterday in District Court for $72,500 damages.

The action was brought by George A. Johnson of 1004 66th ave., Seat Pleasant, Md. He named the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. as defendant.

It was charged that the boys were injured when a motor truck of the railroad company hit them June 14, 1947, while they were alongside the George L. Palmer hwy., near Addison rd., in Seat Pleasant. Thirteen-year-old Charles A. Johnson and Leon J. Johnson, 12, suffered broken bones in the accident. The suit was filed by Attorney Joseph D. Bulman.

Miss Pepco Picked

Miss Grace V. Ellington, 511 Rock Creek Church rd., is this year's "Miss Pepco."

An employe of the distribution department, Miss Ellington was selected from a field of 19 contestants at the utilities company's recent outing at Bay Ridge, Md.

Miss Ellington

Runner-up for the title was Mrs. Leola T. Wahler, 748 Xenia st. se.

Man-Eater for Aquarium

The Commerce Department aquarium now has one of the upper Amazon man-eating fish in its collection, the piranha. The fish is about 6 inches long but with his needle-like teeth and the three or four hundred companions he usually travels with he can reduce a man or animal to a bare skeleton in a few minutes.

The piranha was loaned to the aquarium by Clifford T. Kettler, 6921 Wissioming, Glen Echo Heights, Md., who started his collection a couple of years ago.

Record Number of Applicants Tested for Driver Licenses

The Washington Post

NEW DRIVER PASSES—Traffic Director George E. Keneipp, who helped out yesterday during the run on the motor vehicle driver's license bureau, awards an approved application to Jean Whetzel, 19, of 2919 S st. se., an FBI clerk

A record-breaking crowd of would-be auto drivers is forcing the District Department of Vehicles and Traffic to take drastic measures—like putting the boss to work on drivers' tests.

Yesterday when the department opened for business, more than 200 persons were in line, about 150 above the usual number. Traffic Director George E. Keneipp drafted four former examiners, now in other departments, for the driving tests and even took one applicant through the 12-minute test run himself.

Keneipp's fair applicant was Miss Jean Whetzel, 19-year-old brunette clerk-typist at the Federal Bureau of Investigation. She passed.

By nightfall, the staff of five permanent and four temporary examiners processed 192 persons on the road, 41 over Thursday's record-breaking total.

In addition, other hard-pressed staffers gave 244 written exams, 244 eye tests and 22 special eye tests for hackers. Normally the testing section closes at 3:30 p. m., but yesterday and until the avalanche of applicants lets up, tests will be given up to 4:45 p. m., Keneipp said.

The reason for the unexpected surge of drivers has Director Keneipp puzzled. "Usually we have peaks about Christmas, Easter, immediately after school closes and just before school opens, but this period doesn't conform to any of those.

"We've never had anything like this before, but we are doing our best to handle it," he declared.

Gen. Horkan Gets Important Post in European Area

The officer who worked out the program for return of America's Second World War dead has been given one of the most important assignments in the European military command—that of Army Chief Quartermaster.

Gen. Harken

He is Maj. Gen. George A. Horkan, former chief of the memorial division in the Office of the Quartermaster General here.

It is through the Army Quartermaster's outfit in Europe that food and coal for Russian-blockaded Berlin is being channeled.

Horkan is a native of Washington, D. C., a resident of Augusta, Ga., and began his Army career as a sergeant major with the Georgia National Guard. In 1917 he was commissioned a second lieutenant of Infantry in the Regular Army.

His wartime assignments included commandant of the quartermaster school at Camp Lee, Va., and commanding general of Camp Lee.

Library to Return To Original Site In Chevy Chase

After a lapse of 28 years during which the book stock has grown from 400 to more than 17,000 volumes, the Chevy Chase branch of the District Public Library will return to its original location in the E. V. Brown School, Monday.

The branch for the last 20 years had been situated at 3815 Livingston st. nw., but with the growth of the institution larger quarters became necessary.

When the Brown School was converted to become a recreation center, residents of the area started a move to have the branch returned there. The library will occupy the entire McKinley st. side of the building. Contributions from the Chevy Chase Citizens Association have provided music and language recording machines.

Possible Skull Fracture

Clarence B. Young, 33, 2141 Ward pl. nw., was admitted to Freedmen's Hospital last night in an unconscious condition with a possible skull fracture and head lacerations after he had been found in a garage at the rear of 1533 8th st. nw., about 9:30 p. m.

Feridun Erkin, New Turk Envoy Arrives Here

Feridun Cemel Erkin, 45-year-old new Ambassador from Turkey, arrived yesterday by train from New York to take up his post after spending a few days in that city.

Ambassador Erkin, who was accompanied by his wife and a niece, was appointed in June after a year as chief of mission for his country in Rome.

Besides his service in Rome and an earlier tour of duty in Berlin as charge d'affaires, he has held several posts in Turkey's Foreign Office, including that of secretary general, which corresponds to our Assistant Secretary of State.

Miss M. L. Goddard

Miss Goddard, who lived for a number of years at 2300 18th st. nw., was the daughter of the late Andrew Goddard and Maria Goldsborough Goddard. Her father owned large real estate holdings in downtown Washington.

She was educated at Visitation Convent, Georgetown, and for many years had been honorary president of its alumni association. She also had been an active member of Manor House Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and of the Colonial Dames of Maryland.

A requiem mass for Miss Goddard will be held at 9 a. m. Tuesday at St. Matthew's Cathedral, where she had worshipped for 50 years. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery.

Lieut. J. D. Harrington

Requiem mass for Lieut. Joseph D. Harrington, 64, who died Thursday at his home at 1423 36th st. nw., will be said Monday at 10 a. m. in St. Patrick's Church, 619 10th st. nw. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Known for many years as "Uncle Joe" to thousands of Wahington taxicab drivers, Lieutenant Harrington had retired as hack inspector for Metropolitan Police last March 1. He had been in ill health with bronchial pneumonia for some time.

Born in Georgetown, he attended parochial schools and St. John's College. He joined the police force in 1918. His assignments included two terms of service as hack inspector, from 1925 to 1940 and from 1941 to his re-

Thomas W. Wasson

The ashes of Thomas W. Wasson, American Consul General killed by a sniper's bullet in Palestine May 23, were interred in the chapel of St. Joseph of. Arimathaea at the Washington Cathedral yesterday.

The brief funeral ceremony was conducted by the Very Rev. John W. Suter, dean of the cathedral, assisted by Canon Crawford W. Brown. The service was attended by Mr. Wasson's brother, Gordon Wasson, and his wife of New York, Andrew G. Lynch of the State Department, and a small group of friends.

J. C. Schrider Burial Rites Set for Today

Funeral services for Joseph C. Schrider, 49, surety bondsman and former high school athlete, who died Thursday at his home, 1336 Gallatin st. nw., of a heart attack, will be held at 8:30 a. m. today at the Collins funeral home, 3821 14th st. nw.

A requiem mass will be sung at 9 a. m. at the Church of the Nativity. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

A native of Washington, Mr. Schrider for 16 years had represented the John L. Fletcher Co. of 600 F st. nw., at the courthouse.

He was educated at the Takoma Elementary School and the Technical High School where he was well known as an outstanding athlete in track and football.

About 19 years ago, Mr. Schrider was stricken with sleepink sickness after an atack of pneumonia, and one side of his body was left paralyzed. He suffered a heart attack last spring which confined him to his home for two months, but he seemed to have recovered when he returned to his work at the courthouse about a month ago.

Prior to his affiliation with the Fletcher Co., he was employed by the Universal Credit Co. here.

He made his home with his sister, Mrs. Katherine S. Sullivan of the Gallatin st. address.

Besides his sister, he is survived by five brothers, John B., James E., Alfred V. and William A. Schrider, all of Washington, and Col. Peter P. Schrider, USMC ret., of Quantico, Va.

W. G. Newman Dies at 51; Rites Monday

William G. Newman, 51, chief clerk in the street department of the Washington Gas Light Co., died Thursday at his home, 4518 49th st. nw., after an illness of one year.

Mr. Newman

An employe of the Washington Gas Light Co. for almost 30 years, Mr. Newman was granted leave last June 1 from his job for ill health.

He was born in Washington and attended high school here. During the First World War he joined the Army and served in this country.

Mr. Newman was a past associate grand guardian of the Order of Job's Daughters, and a member of the Gas Light Co., American Legion Post No. 44. He also belonged to the Hope Lodge of Masons No. 20. Mr. Newman was a member of the Petworth Methodist Church.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mabel Tracy Newman, whom he married in 1919, and two daughters, Miss Audrey T. Newman of the 49th st. address and Mrs. Shirley N. Ramsey of 1516 N. Rhodes st., Arlington.

Three sisters, Mrs. Mary Chrisman of 1327 E st. se., Mrs. Elizabeth Lynn of 2614 Garfield st. nw. and Mrs. Carrie Flaherty, also of the District, and a granddaughter also survive.

Services will be held Monday at 1:30 p. m. at Mr. Newman's home, with burial in Arlington Cemetery.

Lord Harmsworth

London, Aug. 13 (AP).—Lord Harmsworth, younger brother of Lord Northcliffe and Lord Rothermere, who made British newspaper history, died tonight after a brief illness. He was 78 years old.

After serving in the House of Commons from 1906 to 1915 he became Undersecretary of State for the Home Office. Later he was Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs and in 1922 was named British member of the Council of the League of Nations.

He is survived by two sons and one daughter. His heir is Cecil Desmond Harmsworth.

Walter H. Lehman

Funeral services for Walter H. Lehman, 73, an employe of Woodward & Lothrop Department Store for more than half a century, will be held today at 4 p. m. at the S. H. Hines Co. funeral home, 2901 14th st. nw. Burial will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Lehman died Thursday at his home, 3461 Holmead pl. nw., after an illness of a week.

Buyer for the fabric department for 18 years, he retired about a year ago after 55 years service. He was born in Brooklyn, but moved to Washington as a boy 68 years ago.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Lehman; a son, Walter S. Lehman, and two brothers, William and Roscoe Lehman, all of Washington.

Air Parcel Post Begins September 1

Americans can start sending mail and packages within this country by air parcel post on September 1, Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson announced yesterday.

The air parcel post rates will vary by zones the same as railroad parcel post. The service will be available for all mail weighing more than 8 ounces but not more than 70 pounds. But there will be size limitations on packages.

R. K. Murray, Former Dairy Engineer, Dies

Richard Koska Murray, 70, retired steam engineer at the Southern Dairies Ice Cream Co., died Wednesday at his home, 5721 9th st. nw. of congestive heart failure.

Mr. Murray

Born in Pomonkey, Md., one of 14 children, Mr. Murray came to the District as a boy. He attended grade school here, and then went to work in the Navy Yard as a machinist, taking a correspondence school course to obtain his high school degree.

In 1900 he was employed as a fireman by the Christian Heurich Brewing Co., where he worked his way up to engineer. During the First World War, when prohibition forced the brewery to shut down, Mr. Murray went to work for the Southern Dairies Ice Cream Co. and remained there for 30 years, until his retirement in April, 1947.

He was a member of the Holy Name Society of the Nativity Catholic Church and of the 25-Year Club of Southern Dairies.

The Sociable Thirties

Soviet Consulate, Once Home of Mrs. John Pratt, Was Scene of Entertaining

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

THE East 61st st. Consulate in New York, from whose third-floor window Mme. Kosenkina plunged, once belonged to Mrs. John T. Pratt, former Congresswoman from New York's "Silk Stocking" District, and was the scene of considerable happy social elegance. During the early thirties, when the Soviets were still making lukewarm attempts at being civilized, the Consul Generals gave musicales and buffet suppers which were reasonably agreeable. Unsurprisingly many of those who served in this post on returning home were either demoted or presumably liquidated since they disappeared most completely.

A Consul named Ahrens, whom we had encountered as press censor in Moscow, where he had lived most uncomfortably, complained that Mrs. Pratt's house was inadequately equipped for the grandiose entertaining he envisioned.

Jumping from a third story, rear and unbarred window, Mme. Kosenkina duplicated with terrifying reality a scene from the film, "The Iron Curtain." It was that good old American virtue, morbid curiosity, which saved her from further torture. The crowds gawking around the Soviet Consulate became so unwieldy, extra police were added for Consulate protection. They saw the body fall, rushed in, picked her up before the Consulate staff could gallop downstairs. Despite her manifold injuries, Mme. Kosenkina's mind remained clear, she was able to tell what had happened to her.

Friends Sought to Aid

THE whole shocking affair was precipitated when Christopher Emmet, jr., chairman of Common Cause, Inc., obtained a habeas corpus writ. Mr. Emmet, a long-time friend of Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, became convinced that the school teacher was a bona fide, not a Soviet spy as many suggested. She had spent a week, not a weekend, at Reed Farm, the White Russian community managed by the countess. During this period she had talked daily to Countess Tolstoy and was so terrified that at night she refused to sleep alone, insisted on having Martha Knutson, the countess' assistant, remain with her.

Discussing ways of helping, Dickerman Williams, a director of the Civil Liberities League and a member of the law firm of Breed, Abbott & Morgan, suggested the writ to Emmet. Mme. Kosenkina had no diplomatic immunity. If the writ could be served she would have to appear in court. It was worth trying.

Peter Hoguet, who actually slipped the writ into Lomakin's vest, like Emmet, has taken an active role in combating totalitarianism. He's chairman of the committee against the reelection of Representative Marcantonio. Last fall when the Czechoslovak Communist coup was effected he organized picketing of the Czech Consulate in New York. In May he was one of the prime movers in getting up the Loyalty Day Parade. The paraders marched for hours on May 1, the day celebrated by Communists all over the world. He is the third son of the late surgeon, Dr. Peter Hoguet, a brother of Lawrence, who was attached to our embassy in Buenos Aires and is now with an Argentine aviation firm, and of Roland Hoguet, who married a daughter of the late Baron Alphonse de Rothschild.

A number of people, interested in Mme. Kosenkina, have sent contributions to Christopher Emmet to help defray her medical expenses.

Doggy Luxury

ON THE lighter side, there's a small flurry in construction circles right off Connecticut ave. on De Sales st. The newly opened Colony Restaurant is busy building doghouses—not for the paying customers to eat in but for the special delectation of said p.cs. bow-wows.

The doghouses are tailored to fit each dog, have cyclamen colored roofs, and sprays of flowers painted either side of the entrance. Over the door in a scroll is painted the dog's name.

Latest addition being whipped together is for John L. Lewis! John L. Lewis happens to be part cocker, part spitz, belongs to Mrs. Chip Robert's daughter, Bernie, and obtained his appealing name due to almost unbearable stubborness as a pup!

Evie Robert is off to Jackson Hole, Wyo., to stay with Mrs. Crabtree, reassure many small pensioners of the late Mrs. "Cissie" Patterson that their stipends will continue being paid.

Ask Anne

I have a rayon shantung dress dark green—and would like instruction for laundering it. Would it be wiser to have it dry cleaned? T. J. B.

The one sure way of knowing whether the fabric in a ready-made garment will wash well is to look for an informative label stating that the material has passed washing tests. It it's too late for this, I'd suggest snipping a small piece of the fabric from one of the seams. Measure, then place it in a tumbler of hot soap suds for a short time. If the color runs at all, do not attempt to wash the garment but send it to a dry cleaner. Also—if the scrap proves colorfast—press it, then measure and see if it has shrunk any appreciable amount. If the material passes these tests, launder in the following manner:

Use lukewarm water and plenty of suds. Form suds by pouring granulated soap into a small amount of very hot water, agitating until soap is completely dissolved, then add more and cooler water. Squeeze dress repeatedly through suds. When clean, rinse thoroughly, then roll dress in Turkish towel. After excess moisture has been absorbed, hang article on line to continue drying. Let fabric dry until it is only slightly damp. Then iron slowly on wrong side with a warm iron, so that material will dry as you iron. If heavier parts are still damp when ironing is finished, hang garment on hanger to dry out. When completely dry, touch up on the wrong side, or on the right side with a pressing cloth over fabric.

How can I remove an ink stain from a colored cotton dress? I washed the stain immediately with cold water which lightened it slightly. Would soaking it in milk help? E. M. A.

Soaking an ink stain one or two days in milk will often remove the ink, but may also affect the color. Be wary of this method unless you're sure the dress is absolutely colorfast. Another ink removal method is to moisten the stain with a mixture of one part water to one part alcohol. Then work cornmeal or cornstarch into it. As it absorbs ink, brush it away and keep adding the absorbent until it will take up no more ink. Now pour either glycerine or soapless shampoo on the spot, rub lightly between the hands and rinse in clear water. Continue to apply glycerine and rinse as long as ink is removed. If the stain doesn't come out completely you'll have to resort to a bleaching process such as the milk one or the use of an ink eradicator sold by stationery stores.

Can you tell me if there are firms or companies who will consider free verse for publication? M. M. B.

We have no lists of such firms. However, you might find the names of some who buy verse by consulting one of the monthly writer's magazines. They often carry lists of magazines or publishing houses that are in the market for different types of writing. I'd suggest that, if possible, you visit a large public library and look through the files of one of those magazines issued to aid writers.

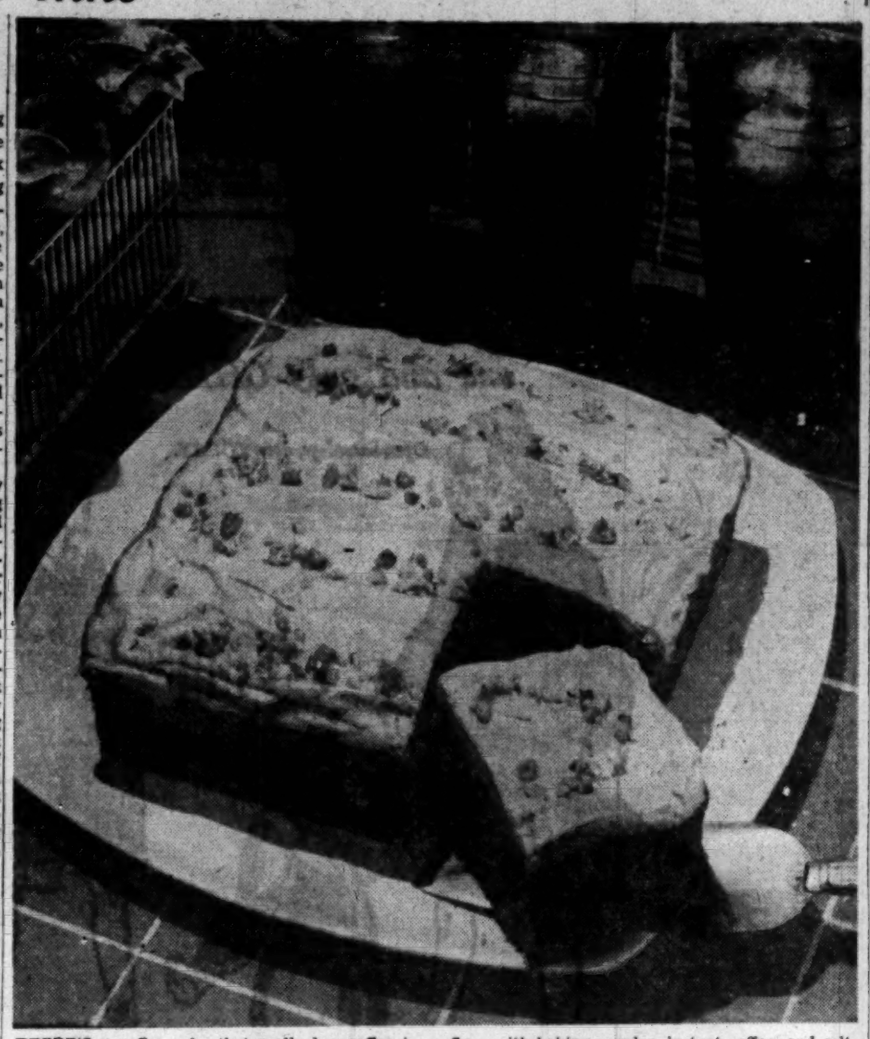
Coffee Cake Has Coffee In It!



HERE'S a coffee cake that really has coffee in it! You make it with instant coffee, sifted in with the other dry ingredients. The recipe is as follows:

½ cup shortening	2½ teaspoons baking powder
1 cup sugar	3 tablespoons instant coffee
2 eggs, slightly beaten	½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla	2/3 cup milk
2 cups sifted cake flour

Cream shortening. Add sugar gradually and blend well. Stir in beaten egs and vanilla. Sift flour with baking powder, instant coffee, and salt. Starting with flour mixture, add dry ingredients alternately with milk. Pour into two greased 3-inch layer cake pans and bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) 25 to 30 minutes. Cool and frost, if desired, with mocha icing made as follows:

Cream 3 tablespoons butter or margarine until soft, and stir in 3 tablespoons cocoa and 1 teaspoon instant coffee. Add, alternately, 2 cups sifted confectioner's sugar and 3 tablespoons light cream. Beat well, adding 1 teaspoon of vanilla, and spread on cake.

Why CAN'T I store bananas
In my refrigerator?

Because, Petunia, bananas won't ripen properly if you store them at a temperature lower than 56 degrees. Ripen them first, then store. Best of all, don't buy too many at a time.

'Wife Beating' To Be Analyzed On Radio Program

Research sleuths have been doing gumshoe work on the modernized type of cave man. Their answer to "Why Husbands Beat Wives" (and more of them do than you think), will be analyzed by Quincy Howe on his Columbia network "Frontiers of Science" program on WTOP Wednesday, August 18, at 5 to 5:15 p. m.

Some reasons for wife-beating—nagging, serving rock-like biscuits, for instance—may be obvious. Others, like crossing hubby when he has business worries on his mind or berating him for his social shortcomings, are perhaps less understandable.

But Quincy (who vows he never beat his wife) will give a serious report on what the experts prescribe as remedies for those who get the urge to lecture their spouses with the flat of the hand, or the hard of the knuckle.

Mother Who Punishes Harshly Should Take Stock of Herself

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Parents should take stock of themselves, occasionally, and ask themselves just why their child's behavious makes them so angry. They may tell themselves that it is because the children are naughty, won't mind, act disrespectful, rude or impertinent, and on and on. It is impossible always to find a proper tag for the child which will excuse the parent for punishing him.

All children need reproval, correction and, at times, punishment of a mild type. But the mother who feels that her child needs severe punishments frequently, should be suspicious of her own motives for punishment.

It is natural for growing children to oppose parents, since all their desires will not run parallel with those of the parents. But if the parent is incensed and furious at this opposition she should ask herself why she feels so strongly.

Does she feel that it is necessary to rule—not guide—her children? If she must rule, it is because she feels insecure and inferior in her position in life and can derive a sense of power only if she gets unquestioning obedience from her children.

Does she feel under the thumb of her in-laws? In such case she may compensate for not being able to stand up to them, by making her children walk the chalkline.

Does she feel any animosity—hidden, of course—toward her husband? He may be acting in ways which upset her and she is unable to change them. She sees the child as a small image of the father and she gets satisfaction by ruling the child because she is unable to rule the father.

The parent may be a "he" as well as a "she" and the same motives may actuate his treatment of his children.. The father who is inferior in the business world, or feels oppressed by an authoritative boss, may get a compensating sense of power by acting as a tyrant toward his children. He will be boss somewhere.

The parent, male or female, who feels a sense of complete assurance and equality in his own world, will know that he is a person to be respected and will be able to overlook small infractions of his authority.

Such a parent can meet an "I won't" from the child with a mild, "Oh, let's, I'll help you," instead of fixing the child with a chilly eye and saying, "You can't say that to me!"

Congressman Tells of Traps In Fur Sales

In the fur business, not all the traps are set in the forests. You'll find traps set to catch the unsuspecting woman who buys a fur garment in a great many of America's shopping centers.

And of the thousands spending a half billion dollars annually for furs the number hoodwinked by unscrupulous furriers and glib-talking salesmen is vast, according to Representative Joseph P. O'Hara of Minnesota.

In exposing in an August American magazine article the various methods by which furriers—not all, but a great many—deceive women, Representative O'Hara recommends enactment during the next Congress of a fur product labeling law patterned after the Wool Products Labeling Act.

Hocus Pocus Reaches Art

"Furriers know they can fool most women so hocus-pocus in the selling of fur coats has reached a fine art," asserts the Congressman, who cites innumerable instances of deception and misrepresentation. He says there have been sales of "Black Bombay lamb" and "marmink" coats although there are no such animals as "Bombay lambs" or "marminks." Moreover, O'Hara states that the Federal Trade Commission has compiled a list of 56 fancy names, ranging from "Arctic seal" to "Erminette," under which dyed rabbit has been sold.

While "some women don't want to know that their coat which looks very much like mink actually is blended muskrat," the Congressman is convinced that "most women buy furs blindly because that, too often, is the only way they are sold."

The fur industry's trade practice rules give the Federal Trade Commission jurisdiction over deceptive advertising, labeling, and other kinds of misreprsentation in interstate commerce, but the unscrupulous local dealer and his salespeople are unregulated. So that's why O'Hara feels a fur products labeling act is essential.

"Every fur product should bear a label telling exactly what it is, and if a retailer takes that label off he should be sent to jail and/or fined," he writes. "The label should give the true English name of the animal or animals that produced the fur."

Until such protection is provided by law, the Congressman's advice to women is to be extremely cautious in buying furs, always patronizing the long-established, reliable store or furrier.

Before she pays a cent, the buyer is advised by the Congressman to get from the furrier "a written statement which gives the actual American name of the animal that produced the fur; how much of it is full, new skins; how much is pieces of paws or used fur or hairs glued on; whether it is dyed or blended; for how many months reasonable repairs will be made free; a statement as to the fur's wearing qualities; and a guarantee that her money will be refunded if any of the statements prove to be false."

And, he emphasizes, she should get that statement from the head man, not from a clerk.

Exercises Will Erase Double Chin

By Ida Jean Kain

If you had beautiful proof that a single exercise could get the best of a double chin, would it encourage you to take a toner-upper? Listen in on this telephone conversation . . .

The lady's voice sounded so cheery that I felt it must be something pleasant and told her I'd be happy to hear about it.

"Well, you know the chin exercise you gave awhile back— the one in which you have us lie on our back on the bed, head hanging over the edge of the bed, and then raise head to level of bed?"

"Yes, yes . . . go on . . ." I urged.

"I just want you to know that I haven't a sign of a double chin now, and I no longer have that old lady look about my chest." And then she told me that she was 74 years of age!

The previous day she had met a friend who had not seen her in a while, and the friend marvelled at how well she looked and told her she had lost her double chin and the old lady look. That's why she called . . . so that I might tell my readers.

She takes the exercise regularly, morning, noon and night . . . while listening to the news broadcast. She assured me she does it slowly, and only four times at each session, as instructed. The first returns were so encouraging she carried the exercise a bit farther and came up bringing her head and shoulders just slightly off the bed, and repeated this four times. She hesitated a second, then laughed as if a little embarrassed, and told me that believe it or not it had helped to strengthen the bust muscles! Well, it could. Continuing the movement extends the action to the pectoral muscles, and it is these muscles which help support the bust.

We had a wonderful chat on the phone, and I was so enthusiastic over her results that when I hung up I immediately took the exercise myself . . . and I've taken it twice a day ever since!

That chin exercise is very effective since the weight of the head is lifted against gravity which strengthens the neck muscles without pulling the skin. As time goes by, the throat muscles lose tone; then the skin, not being properly supported, tends to wrinkle . . . and extra calories gravitate to flabby muscles to form double chins. So the basis of chin beauty is well-toned throat muscles.

Here's something different for Sunday brunch. Beat sour cream into eggs for scrambling and season with dry mustard and Worcestershire sauce. When the eggs are almost done fold in cubes of luscious creamy avocado and serve at once.

For a good-tasting summer salad arrange stuffed cooked prunes on greenery around a mound of cottage cheese and serve with potato chips. The filling for the prunes goes like this: combine chopped red radishes and chopped unblanched almonds with mayonnaise and season with grated onion.

Bacon drippings add delicious flavor to many things.. Use them to season vegetables, in white sauces and to "butter" crumbs for casserole toppings. Store the fat in the refrigerator to keep it from becoming rancid and always use the oldest first.

Oldfashioned deviled eggs are as popular on picnics today as they ever were. Give them a new-fangled look this year. When you're making the stuffing, combine the yolks with sliced ripe olives and plenty of seasonings. After the whites are refilled put two together to form a whole egg and then wrap in a lettuce leaf. Fasten with a toothpick and your salad is ready.

When meat contains no bone, a pound will yield four servings. This goes for ground meat, boneless stew meats or liver. Meat with a medium amount of bone yields two to three servings per pound. Steaks, chops, veal leg or shoulder and ham with bone in, belong to this class.

Berthet Turns to Orient For Ideas for His Fall Hats

By Florence Mills

Paris, Aug. 13 (AP).—An existentialist hat designer named Jean Berthet took a turn stressing wearability when he held his first full-dress fashion show today.

There was little of the existentialist about the fall hats he showed, but a great deal to indicate he may become a big-name milliner before he's much older.

His one existentialist hat, widely publicized, showed two life-sized pink velvet, hovering hands, strung with diamonds and set with black fingernails.

Berthet, who quit working with a famous Paris hat maker, Gilbert Orcel, a few months ago in order to strike out on his own, has turned to the Orient for inspiration.

He converts the draped head gear of Indian tribesmen into glamorous affairs of black velvet and satin. He pokes in the crowns of Egyptian fez shapes, buttons them down the side and swathes them around the base with contrasting wool jersey.

Draped turbans of forest green or sober gray have contrasting colored peaks standing out of the drapery in front.

His fez and cloche shapes often have square crowns. He makes little bell-shaped hats with crowns of gold or silver sequins and sets them off with black or pink velvet brims.

Berthet also shows cloth type polo helmet shapes, executed in brightly colored check or plaid angora. He has matching triangular scarfs which can be alternately draped over the hat and tied under the chin or used as a scarf.

Hermes, the famous sports shop in Paris, has shown a fall collection which emphasized easy to wear casuals garnered with unusual trimming and embroidery.

Jean Patou, another old-timer on the Paris fashion front, is showing a more straightlined collection with clothes suitable only for town-wear.

Hermes suits are either fitted, with nipped waists and hip-hugging peplums, or semifitted, often with half belts at the back. Pockets and reveres, even peplums, are edged with soutache, satin, jet or sometimes bound with contrast-colored leather. Blanket hem or saddle-stitching is also very popular.

Patou doesn't show many suits but when he does they're usually trimmed with fur and paired with figured satin blouses.

Hermes shows a wide range of wool or silk jersey sweaters with deepcut dolman sleeves, welted neckbands and cuffs. Shirtwaist blouses cut exactly like a man's shirt are also a highlight of the show. A particularly unusual shirtwaister was of double thickness smoke gray tulle.

Skirts by Hermes were straight but not tight and even had the suspicion of a flare in them. At Patou's they were severely pencil-lined, often with slits or button fastening providing leg movement. Most of them were built up about three inches beyond the waist.

Cedars of Lebanon Unit Will Be Entertained

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Capitol Forest No. 104, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, will be honor guests at ceremonies to be held during a recess in the regular meeting of the Capitol Forest this evening at the Northeast Masonic Temple, 523 8th st. ne., at 8:30.

The parent men's organization will present the ladies' unit with a set of marching flags. Elmer P. Stein is grand tall cedar. Mrs. Abbie B. Stephenson, president of the auxiliary, will receive the gift.

Twins Are Born To Robert Christies

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Christie announce the birth of twins, a son and daughter, on August 3. The babies will be christened Diane Linn and Donald Leslie. Mr. and Mrs. Christie have another son, John Curtis Christie.

Mrs. Christie is the former Miss Winifred Pickens, daughter of Mrs. E. M. Pickens and the late Dr. Pickens. Mr. Christie is the son of Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Christie.

Rolling Pin Falls Low on List of Kitchen Utensils

We note with regret that rolling pin wielders are on the decline. On the Department of Agriculture's recent list of 50 necessary kitchen utensils graded according to their frequency of use, the rolling pin is near the bottom.

Apparently a great many people do not appreciate rolling pins. Possibly they do not know how to use them. A rolling pin is a round object made of wood, glass or metal commonly used to roll out dough for pastry. To use, the pin is placed lightly on the center of a mound of dough and rolled with quick, gentle strokes. There is no need to grip the pin too firmly. Let it roll freely. Never push.

Anyone desiring to adopt a rolling pin should wander into a houseware edpartment and roll a few. Some squeak, some tick, some clank and the rest are quiet. All are round.

One metal pin can be filled with ice cubes to keep the dough chilled. Surprisingly enough, the manufacturer suggests that it double as a cocktail shaker.

Serious dough artists tend to use what is known as a French rolling pin or a pie pin. This is simply a rough piece of wood, 18 to 20 inches long and 1 inch in diameter, that is tapered slightly at the ends. The palms of the hands are used to roll it. The type pivots and turns easily.

Soviet Friendship Council Questions U. S. Good Faith

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship tonight claimed the ease of the Russian school teachers grew out of United States violation of long-standing agreements between the two countries.

A council statement expressed alarm "at the close cooperation between our official authorities and various anti-Soviet organizations and individuals."

It cited the Roosevelt-Litvinov agreement, made when diplomatic relations were established with the Soviet Union nearly 15 years ago. At that time each country agreed not to permit the formation or residence on its territory of any organizaion or group which has as its aim the overthrow of the other nation's political or social order.

"The activities of the White Russian organizations here and such groups as Common Cause, Inc., whose main object is anti-Soviet propaganda and action, run directly contrary to this agreement," the statement added.

Orator Arrested In Park Again

Phillip Warren, 42-year-old New York lawyer and Franklin Park orator, was arrested at the Park last night for the second time this week.

Warren, who was addressing a group of bystanders, was accused by a park policeman of making obscene remarks to a woman during the course of his oratory. He was taken to Gallinger Hospital for observation.

Thursday Warren petitioned Municipal Court for a bill of particulars on his arrest Tuesday on a charge of soliciting alms in Franklin Park. Trial was set for August 17.

Human Monster Theory Of A-Bombs Discounted

Los Angeles, Aug. 13 (U.P.).—Possibility of human monsters being produced after atomic bombings was discounted today by a scientist.

VETERANS—This may be your chance to become pilots. There's a lot of money in flying. Salaries of commercial pilots run into five figures. But where can you get pilot training? One of the world's best places is right in the U. S. Air Force. If you've had two years of college or can pass the necessary mental examinations, are single, age 20-26½, you can apply right now for Aviation Cadet training with the Air Force. You will be given the world's most thorough flight course and may pilot everything from a basic trainer to a jet fighter or bomber. There's no other place where you can learn as much and be paid well while learning. After your training, you will be rated pilot, commissioned second lieutenant in the Air Force Reserve, and assigned to flying duty with the U. S. Air Force. Get all the facts at your U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station at 403 10th st. nw.

The Kids Can Still Use Those Car Tokens

The best way to tell you about a letter I got yesterday is to reproduce it:

Dear Bill, I am sending you a token and two dimes for children's hospital from my brother Donnie and me. He is 4 and I am 7.

Bobby Zugby

Streetcar tokens for Children's Hospital have also been received from:

Mrs. R. W. Hoecker, Berwyn, Md.; Mrs. Arthur E. Beach, 4609 30th st. nw. (her husband dug up a token in the back yard); George Sundborg, consultant to the Alaska Development Board, P. O. Box 50, Juneau, Alaska; Isaac Cook; the folks at 2601 N. 18th st., Arlington, Va.; Anonymous, Salina, Kans.; 4-year-old Betsy Collins, 4400 44th st. nw. (war stamps); and Billy Mittendorf and Lois Abraham, both of E. Nelson ave., Alexandria, Va.

A check for $16.75 is also being forwarded to the hospital. It's from a couple of 9-year-old boys—George (Skippy) Blase of 5020 N. Capitol st. and Billy McGuire of 5030 N. Capitol st.

The boys show movies in the basement of the Blase home (adults 20 cents; children 10 cents). They work for days before each show, printing and selling tickets, arranging seating facilities, renting film, and laying in a stock of cupcakes and lemonade (5 cents to everybody). The whole neighborhood gets a bang out of their youthful enterprise and efficiency.

We're also sending along a check for $9.14 which was raised at a dog show given by three young ladies from Silver Spring, Md.—Christine Nelson and Kae Emrich, who are 12, and Sue Crowley, who is 11.

Incidentally, an anonymous reader in Louisville, Ky., sends me an interesting clipping from the Courier-Journal.

It reveals that three-for-a-quarter streetcar tokens are being called in for redemption because Louisville fares are being raised to 10 cents straight.

And the Kosair Crippled Children's Hospital is asking its friends to contribute their tokens to that institution, "as they were contributed in Washington, D. C., where $8000 was raised for Children's Hospital."

The article goes on to explain just how our campaign worked, and urges residents of Louisville to contribute their tokens for the benefit of the crippled children.

And, human nature being pretty much the same the world over, I've got a hunch Louisville will respond as generously as Washington did.

NEXT STOP SIBERIA?

So you think YOUR job is tough, eh?

How would you like to be the Russian consul for New York and have to explain to the Kremlin how Mrs. Kosenkina came to have access to an unguarded window?

CANINE CAPERS

With the Government closed down for the week-end, Washington's biggest industry will apparently be dog shows.

Earl Greiner of 215 E. Marshall st., Falls Church, Va., invites us to attend the Capital City Cocker Club's sanction match at 1:30 this afternoon (at Haines Point, admission free).

Margaret K. Hines of 4905 Edmonston ave., Hyattsville, Md., wants us to come to the Washington Bulldog Club's informal match at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon (at Sunshine Hill, the home of Ruby and Jimmy Allen—out Chain Bridge rd., near Tyson's Corner, Va.—admission free).

And James A. Allen of McLean, Va., would like to see us at the show to be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon by the newly formed Boxer Club of Virginia (at River Bend, just below Alexandria, Va., on Mount Vernon hwy., admission 50 cents).

Wait till Gabe Menendez hears about boxers who are satisfied to be paid off in dog biscuits. He'll be out there with a fist full of contracts and an ink pad for paw prints.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

Floyd L. Miller of 3449 Martha Custis dr., Alexandria, Va., wonders whether we're aware of the fact that, down in West Virginia, people are saying: "Harley O. Staggers for Congress."

Listen to Bill Gold each noon, Monday through Saturday, over WINX (1340) and WINX-FM (96.3).

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—When Randolph Churchill returned to England after his tour of America, he brought two books about Roosevelt to his father. "I'm afraid you won't like them, father," said young Churchill. "They make the President out to be a vain, selfish and arrogant man" . . . "Well, old boy," replied Churchill, "you can't expect anyone to be as modest as I am."

Tallulah Bankhead was told by an admirer in the Stork Club: "Tallulah, dear, you are the only completely free woman I've ever met in my life" . . . "What good is that?" replied Miss Bankhead. "I'm a slave to my freedom."

Noel Coward is asking all his friends to send him letters only in French. He will go to Paris in November and do a performance of "Present Laughter" in French . . . There is a London actor, incidentally, who was taunted by Coward about his falling hair. The playwright told him: "Your hair has stampeded away from you." The actor recently bought a toupee, made of thick, silvery hair with some dark patches in front. He wore it during a perforfance attended by Coward, and asked him later: "Well, what did you think of my toupee?" . . . "Toupee?" said Coward. "I thought it was a yachting cap."

James Cagney visited the Actors Home in Hollywood, and came away depressed with insecurity. He told Spencer Tracy about it, and Tracy said: "There's no reason for you to feel this way. You have millions of dollars and great talent." . . . "So did some of the people I just saw in the home," said Cagney: . . . "Oh, well," said Tracy, "if you should wind up in tough straits 20 years from now, you can get into the home" . . . "But in 20 years, how do I know they'd let me into the home?" . . . "That's a cinch," advised Tracy. "Buy it now."

Ferenc Molnar was invited to fly to Colorado where his "The Play's The Thing" is being presented at the Central City Festival. The playwright declined, explaining that he doesn't travel by plane. "When a man dies, there should be witnesses," he explained. "In train-wrecks and auto smash-ups, there usually are some survivors to tell what happened. But when a plane crashes—no witnesses."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman Has Thomas Trouble

By Drew Pearson

President Truman has a hard time keeping his Thomases straight. There is Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, a Democrat; Senator Elbert Thomas of Utah, also a Democrat; Representative J. Parnell Thomas of New Jersey, Republican, and Representative Albert Thomas of Texas, a Democrat. And the President sometimes gets them mixed up.

Truman

The other day, for instance, he telephoned Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, famous for speculating on the commodities market, and broke some good news.

"I just wanted you to know that I have appointed your son-in-law to that job, Elmer," said the President.

Senator Thomas was mystified. He told Mr. Truman he had no son-in-law and implied he didn't know of any job in which his son-in-law would be interested even if he had one.

Later that day Senator Elmer Thomas mentioned the incident to Senator Elbert Thomas.

"You'll probably be getting a call from the President," said Elmer to Elbert, "telling you about your son-in-law."

Sure enough, when Elbert Thomas of Utah returned to his office, a call came in from the White House. This time Mr. Truman had the right Thomas.

"I guess I got mixed up on my Senator Thomases," confessed the President.

"That's all right," replied Elbert. "Everybody else does."

Note—While Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma was under fire for speculating on the commodity market, Elbert of Utah got a flood of "fan mail", blaming him for the misdeed. Now Congressman J. Parnell Thomas is in the spotlight for taking "kickbacks" from employes, and Elbert is getting more mail confusing him with the Congressman.

Frauds Against Vets

An all-out crackdown on housing frauds against veterans was ordered by Attorney General Tom Clark and Housing Expediter Tighe Woods at a conference of United States district attorneys from 21 key cities the other day.

"I want you to put these housing frauds at the top of the list when it comes to prosecutions," ordered the Attorney General.

Equally vigorous was Housing Expediter Woods, who has expanded his investigating force from 15 to 300 men. He told the district attorneys in their closed-door session that while he would leave the legal justification up to them, he wanted to emphasize the Government's moral obligations to do something about housing violations. Many builders would have starved if it hadn't been for the priorities they received to build for veterans, he recalled. In return, the builders were obligated to adhere to regulations.

"Our task," thundered Woods, "is to prosecute those who welched on their obligations.

"And if I get complaints that you guys are dragging your feet," he warned the district attorneys, "I'm going to yell like hell."

Banks Refuse GI Loans

Woods said that his 400 local rent offices were all geared to handle veterans' complaints. While every effort would be made to arrange settlements out of court, he added, the worst cases would be turned over to the district attorneys.

United States Attorney Bernard Flynn, Baltimore, Md., interrupted to say he had read in the papers that the housing expediter was trying to settle some cases in Baltimore for $50,000. Flynn said he was preparing some cases for the grand jury, and wondered if they were the same.

Woods assured that the housing expediter's office would never try to settle a case after it had been turned over to the Justice Department.

Only official at the closed-door session who seemed red-tape-minded about housing frauds was Edward Odom, Veterans' Administration solicitor. He blamed Congress for not tightening the system of housing controls and said that all the VA could do in cases of overcharging was to rescind the loan guaranty. Odom also complained that the big banks would no longer handle low-interest GI loans—which of course is true.

After his formal statement, Odom was put on the griddle by the district attorneys for the Veterans' Administration's choice of appraisers. It was claimed they sometimes passed on property without even looking at it.

"Oh, that is something we are policing constantly," Odom defended.

Later, Assistant District Attorney Cloid Level of Des Moines, Iowa, snorted in disgust: "Why don't investigators (from other agencies) stop in our office for assistance when they come in our district? Yesterday the Veterans' Administration sparred with us as if we were enemies. We want to help."

Note—Assistant Attorney General Graham Morison called attention to the excellent work of James Carter, Los Angeles district attorney, in bringing all the Government agencies together to handle complaints.

Just Meeting You

I never really knew how much . . . This life could mean to me . . . Until I had the happiness . . . To share your company . . . Until we met the other night . . . And we exchanged hellos . . . And after while we whispered words . . . Of poetry and prose . . . I know it is too early now . . . To offer you my heart . . . But I cannot conceal the hope . . . That we will never part . . . And I am confident that time . . . Will prove this much is true . . . That you were always meant for me . . . And I belong to you . . . I dream of you each moment and . . . I treasure all your charms . . . And oh, I long to hold you, dear . . . Forever in my arms.
